'India' Study For Two Groups

Mrs. Wallace King was hostess to the Women's Missionary Society of St. David's church on Thursday afternoon. The president, Miss Simpson, opened the meeting with a poem. The devotions were taken by Mrs. Menzies and Mrs. A. T. Moore.

The various reports were received. The library secretary gave a full report of the cards and papers sent to India, Formosa and British Guiana. Mrs. McNeill has sent 10 parcels. Mrs. Greenlee is hoping the Grace Mission Band will celebrate their 50th anniversary in July.

A committee was appointed from the W.M.S. to assist committees for other organizations in the congregation at the supper hour of the congregational picnic in August. Plans were made for a quilting next week. The topic, Into the Villages, was given by Mrs. L. Sharpe, assisted by Mrs. J. K. Mahon, Mrs. A. T. Moore, Mrs. K. Cairns and Mrs. Parker. Mrs. Cairns was a Canadian. Several were impersonating Indian women wives of farmers. The dialogue was very interesting. Mrs. Sharpe finished with a comprehensive account of conditions among the Indian people, particularly the very poor.

Love was the word chosen for the roll call. The offering was dedicated by Mrs. J. K. Mahon and the meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Greenlee. A social period followed after which the birthday song was sung for Mrs. Alfred Eaves, father of Mrs. King, whose birthday was that same day. The May meeting of the Grace Mission Band was held at the home of Mrs. Roy Parker on the evening of May 18 beginning at seven o'clock. The president, Beverly Roberson, opened the meeting with the call to worship. After singing a hymn the girls each read a portion of scripture from the 15th chapter of Matthew with the leader, Mrs. Greenlee, commenting on the different parables. Sandra Elack offered a prayer. The offering was dedicated by the president. The secretary and treasurer gave their respective reports. A short business period followed. A recitation was given by Gwen Hume. The birthday song was sung for Anne Baule and Shirley Ella.

Riel Awesome In Days Of Old West

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—A pioneer of some 75 years in the Prince Albert district, R. W. (Bill) Adams, thinks boys of the present generation have it soft. Mr. Adams, who rode in a Red River oxcart with his parents to the Prince Albert settlement from Portage La Prairie, Man., in a six week journey northward in the summer of 1882, says "even the children worked hard in those days, helping their parents clearing stumps, removing trees and tilling the land, and all this without the aid of modern machinery. Just horses, oxen and strong-backed pioneer men and women."

"Good old golden rule days" of school were unknown to young Bill Adams for nearly two years after his youthful prairie trek. "We didn't have a school in the area then and learned what we could from home." The first school in the Prince Albert district was built in 1884. Mr. Adams still recalls one school day when Louis Riel came to town. Frightened children jumped from their desks and raced for home. Riel, looking for recruits for his rebellion, had gained a reputation that frightened the people and when he rode by the school house with several of his followers, all carrying rifles, he had the boys and girls shaking. "He didn't say anything," Mr. Adams recalls, "but he had us scared just the same."

That one good look was the last Mr. Adams saw of Riel whose revolt was crushed at Batoche in 1885. Bill Adams remained on the farm for a while and then headed west, and for about seven years roamed the country working in British Columbia, Alberta and Montana as a cowpuncher. He returned and in 1904 took out a homestead in the Redberry district near Battleford, Sask., and in 1907 was married. He came to Prince Albert in 1921 and operated a cartage business until several years ago. Today, well over the 80-year mark, Mr. Adams still chops his own wood and does a bit of carpentry work.

Mr. Byron Bruce read the minutes of the previous meeting. The executive had prepared a list of questions pertaining to the school area, affairs of township and county and parliamentary procedure. Mrs. James Laitch spoke for the School Area; Mr. John Root and Mr. D. D. Gray dealing with township, county and government affairs. A good turnout of members and supporters took part in the lively discussion and all felt they had gained much from the evening.

Mr. Ken Stubbington moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speakers who had given so freely of their time. God Save the Queen brought the meeting to a close and a social time followed when lunch was served. Home and School will resume meetings in the fall. Home and School works to promote and secure adequate legislation for the care and protection of children and youth, also to obtain the best for each child according to his physical, mental, social and spiritual needs.

Babies Respond Quickly To Chiropractic

It is only in recent years that it has been recognized that the excessive crying of babies is usually due to the most common cause for making mother and dad take their turn in walking the floor half the night, is the condition, known as colic.

Frequently this occurs from baby unconsciously himself so that the legs and back become stiff. This in turn causes muscular contractions and spinal distortions which irritate nerves in the digestive system so that gastric and intestinal juices are insufficient in their flow.

The chiropractor can, by careful adjustment, remove such irritation. The method used is specific for babies and can in no way harm or hurt the baby. It removes irritation from important nerve centres, the adjustments done are and restores the normal reflexion of gastric and digestive juices. If, however, this condition is left uncorrected, it can pave the way for frequent intestinal upsets and constipation, and eventually lower resistance to the many so-called babies' diseases.

Replacing Glass Not Too Difficult

There isn't much you can do with a broken window except replace it. And glazing, although the average man hates to tackle it, isn't such a tough job.

If the broken pane is in a storm sash, the easiest way to handle it is to remove the window and work on a bench. If you can't do that, get the ladder.

First job is to remove broken glass and scrape out the old putty. Use a chisel, but don't dig into the wood if you can help it. Buy the glass already cut to size. Measure it both ways at least twice and be sure your measurements are accurate. The glass should be 1/16th of an inch shorter than the rabbet opening in the sash.

Buy enough glazier's points for the job. You may borrow a pointing tool, but the job can be done with hammer. Points should be placed about eight inches apart. Don't drive them past the edge of the glass.

Glazing compound may be easier to handle than putty, if you are inexperienced. Place the can in very hot water and use the compound as hot as you can handle it. Run it up to the edge of the glass with one sweeping stroke, feeding it into the putty knife with one hand and working the knife with the other.

On the second, or smoothing, pass, let the knife hit the corner at an angle and draw it out. For a better seal, the whole glass can be bedded in the compound, spreading a thin even layer of compound around the sash opening.

is frequently overlooked by the parents as a condition which will be outgrown. However, the great majority of children should be able to control the bladder at the age of two if the child reaches the age of three and there is still a lack of control, the child should be brought to a Chiropractor who will look into the condition. Since it has been found that these cases result from a lack of nerve control, parents will find that their children will respond remarkably to adjustment in correcting this condition.

Chiropractors have found that usually the best results are obtained with infants and children. The reason for this is the tremendous vitality with which they are endowed. It is extremely interesting how children take to spinal adjustments, as if through instinct. Don't hesitate to bring your child to a Chiropractor.
