Chef On Liner Cooks At Home
QUEBEC (CP)—The best liked hobby of Nino Ambrosiano, maitre d'hotel of the liner Homeric, is cooking his favorite dishes at home.

Preparation of food has been Nino's work since he graduated from a hotel school in 1934 in Europe. His first job was at a big hotel in Geneva, then he switched to the sea, working aboard several liners. In 1940 he was engaged at the New York World's Fair Italian Pavilion. Following that he was maitre d'hotel at several top-notch New York clubs and hotels, then back again to sea.

On his present job Ambrosiano and his chef de cuisine, Mario Ratto, prepare about 4,000 meals a day.

TIGHT-ROPE TELEPHONE—The extension telephone has proven its worth in home and office before this, but stunt man Harry Davis recently demonstrated a new use for one. Sitting on a tight-rope for 48 hours, as he did recently at Toronto's Maple Leaf Stadium, can be mighty boring—at least, that's what he claims. His solution was to take up a telephone with him. Talking to relatives, friends and well-wishers kept things from becoming too monotonous, he explained.

Rev. R. Porritt Inducted June 8
An impressive service was held on June 8, at St. Alban's Anglican Church, Grand Valley, when Rev. Ralph E. Porritt was inducted into the parishes of Grace church, Arthur, St. Paul's Damascus, and St. Alban's Grand Valley.

In the absence of the Bishop, Archbishop S. H. Kirk, L.T.H., of St. George's, Guelph, officiated, assisted by Rev. W. DeV. A. Hunt, Rural Dean of Wellington. The combined choirs of Grace Church, St. Paul's and St. Alban's led in the music. The guest speaker was Rev. H. F. Cross, M.A., rector of Tyrone, N.E. Clergy were also present from Harrison, Orangeville, Fergus, Palmerston, Elora, M.L. Forest, Guelph.

A reception was held in the Parish Hall after the service at which Rev. Porritt thanked all those present and all those that assisted in any way. He then called on Archdeacon Kirk, Rev. Hunt, Rev. Lack of Trinity United and Wardens and members of the different parishes where Mr. Porritt had previously served. Mr. Porritt was formerly rector of St. John's Church Nassau, Guyana and St. George's Church at Lowville.

POET'S CORNER
A JUNE MORNING
By Mary Ellen Varley
From the mist of the green- clad hills,
The breeze of summer laughs and spills—
Across the morning, the scent of flowers,
A gift from our God to this life of ours.
And where the silver river flows,
Such beauty 'in reflection glows,
That I, in wonder, pause to stare
At loveliness too sweet to bear!
The waking robins stir and sing
In radiant joy to everything,
And I, at peace with all I hear and see
Offer, Father, my humble thanks to Thee.

CAMPBELLVILLE
Mrs. R. Austin Is Auxiliary Hostess
Mrs. R. Austin was hostess to the Blair Evening Auxiliary on Wednesday evening. The president, Mrs. Andrews, opened the meeting with a poem, Learn to Laugh. After a hymn, the president offered prayer. Mrs. S. Cramp led in the reading of parts of psalms, with the members reading responsively. Mrs. D. Inglis offered prayer for the teachers and leaders of the schools in India.

Mrs. W. Baynton took charge of the study period, Schools in India, assisted by Mrs. J. Wallace, Mrs. T. Watson and Mrs. D. Inglis, who represented three teachers giving a short account of their work. A short discussion followed.

Mrs. Wallace gave the secretary's report. Mrs. Inglis gave the cheer report. Mrs. Baynton reported on call made for the Welcome and Welfare, with the result one new member was added to the membership. Miscellaneous articles for the bazaar are to be brought to the next meeting. Mercy was the word used for the roll call. Mrs. W. Hambley gave the good thought, an Indian version of the 23rd psalm. The offering was received and dedicated. The meeting was closed with prayer by Mrs. Webb.

Refreshments were served which were enjoyed by everyone.

Chiropractic For Constipation
Constipation affects the health and happiness of a large percentage of our population. Countless thousands resort to physies in order to relieve themselves of this condition. Although physies or cathartics can bring about temporary relief, they are of no benefit from the standpoint of cure for this condition. Most people are under the impression that they "clean out" the bowel, but the fact is that the bowel cleans out the physie. The reason cathartics work is because of their irritating effect on the bowel. The bowel being irritated by the presence of this foreign material draws water from the body tissues to wash it out. In doing this, of course, any other material present in the lower intestine is also cast off. It is therefore clear that physies do not go to the basic cause of the condition and how their constant use can harm the body.

OBITUARY
Came to Canada While in Teens
On Tuesday, June 7, Henry Fryer, a resident of Georgetown for many years, died at his home there in his 84th year.

Mr. Fryer was born in Kent County, England, the son of the late Thomas and Elizabeth Fryer. After the death of his father, he came out to Canada with his mother and sister, while still in his teens. He came to Milton, where for a number of years he was employed on the farm of the late William Cleave, later moving with him to Georgetown when he purchased his farm there.

On December 8, 1897, he married the former Bertha Hawes of Georgetown, who predeceased her husband in October, 1948. Mr. and Mrs. Fryer purchased a farm in Glanford Township near Mount Hope, where they lived for a number of years. After selling it in 1927, the family moved to Acton and then to Georgetown in 1934. For the past 15 years Mr. Fryer had been in poor health and had lived very quietly.

Rev. Kenneth Richardson took the funeral service at McClure's funeral home on Thursday, June 9. The pallbearers were Stan Lynn and five nephews: William Fryer, Toronto; Walter, Alfred and George Fryer of Acton; and Herbert Fryer of Guelph.

Mr. Fryer has only one brother surviving him, Thomas of Hagerston, Ontario, and three children: Frederick, Louise and Jessie, all of Georgetown.

Dad, Three Sons All Medical Men
Wakefield, Que. (CP) — When a patient telephones for Dr. Geggie, it's an almost sure bet there will be a doctor in the house.

In this Gatineau valley village 20 miles north of Ottawa, "Dr. Geggie" can be one of four persons, a father and three sons, who care for the district's medical needs.

The father, 68 year-old Dr. Harold Geggie, is known the length of the Gatineau valley, where he arrived more than 40 years ago from McGill University.

His doctor sons, Hans 38, David, 33, and Stuart, 29, joined their father as they graduated from McGill.

All four think there is nothing like the work of a country doctor and the two-year-old Gatineau Memorial Hospital here is the pride of the medical Geggie family.

The father likes to recall one hunter who caught pneumonia and stopped at the hospital with two dozen partridge in the trunk of his car. The hospital dined on game for a week.

Dr. Geggie thinks it is the only hospital where a patient can sit on the lawn and catch fish, as one man did last spring in the Pevee creek.

As for the work of a general practitioner, he says: "It's much more fun to do everything. Taking out tonsils all day long—that's regular plumbing."

Sees Big Future For N.B. Mining
FREDERICTON (CP) — H. N. Curry, New Brunswick mines inspector, says the province has been mining coal since 1639, but is just getting into its own as a mining area with the discovery of base metals.

He said the first coal mine was operating in Minjo, N.B., more than 300 years ago.

Mr. Curry said the mining boom that began with base metal finds in the "Bathurst" area will not be a fly-by-night venture. Known ore bodies will keep mills operating for years.

He said New Brunswick Mining Limited will have a mill producing 4,000 tons daily by 1957. The American Metals Company will have a mill producing 1,500 tons daily by about the same time.

Western Lady Active Worker
Saskatoon (CP) — Mrs. Bernice Norman of Saskatoon is a woman of the soil.

As woman's president of the Saskatchewan Farmers Union she has a job as important as most agricultural posts held by men. She works long hours, travelling far from her trailer home here, to promote the interests of women in agriculture.

Mrs. Norman can be found almost any time before a microphone, making an address on Saskatchewan farm topics, particularly as they affect women. She attends major farm conventions and frequently accompanies delegations to Ottawa when agricultural briefs are presented to the federal cabinet.

She has been SFU women's president four years and is in charge of a membership drive to increase the size of the organization, which now includes more than 40,000 farm families. She is also secretary of the 250,000-member Interprovincial Farm-Union Council which represents farmers in five provinces, and secretary of the Canadian Farmer Labor-Economic Council.

A farmer's daughter, she has taken an active interest in agriculture since she was a child.

While attending school at Cranbrook, B.C., she found an after-school job which paid 35 cents an hour. Four years later the rate was up to 50 cents. Later, the family moved to a farm at Paddockwood, Sask., where she pitched in with her father and three brothers to help make a living in depression years.

She found she had to accept increasing responsibility, doing much of the work normally expected of a man.

"The first load of wheat I ever hauled to an elevator brought less than I had been able to earn in a week of part-time work in the Cranbrook store," she says. "After transportation costs were paid, a 1,600-pound cow brought up the princely profit of $5."

However, Mrs. Norman loved farm life despite the hard times. In due course she married a farmer and they took up farming on their own.

"I was chief cook and farm laborer too in busy season," she says. "I taught music and took an interest in community affairs."

Mrs. Norman found farm life was one big partnership.

"And we'd rather farm than do anything else."

Mrs. Norman lives in the trailer with her three sons and her husband when farming doesn't take him away from home. She says she could never have accepted the responsibility of working with farm organizations if it was not for the encouragement of her husband. Both believe in organized "self-help" if farmers want to enjoy security and prosperity.

ATTRACTION MAP
TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's official 1955 road map has been completely redesigned for the first time in many years. Highway officials believe changes in size, coloring, marking of place names and folding make it a more attractive package.
