STUDEBAKER-PACKARD OF CANADA, LIMITED

where pride of workmanship still comes first

The slick surface of wet asphalt roadways has sent many a motorist limping to the garage with flattened fenders and shattered headlamps. But now research engineers have come up with something that sharply reduces this accident hazard. When their special aluminum oxide abrasive is applied to the road surface, it cuts down by more than 30% the stopping distance of your car when you apply the brakes at 30 m.p.h.

So in addition to saving weight and work in a thousand everyday and special applications, aluminum may prove a major factor in saving lives, too.
