All is gulet on the home front-a least for the moment. Dave is in bed but not asleep. He has had a very active day-and so has Grand-Grandpa also shares in the activity as he has Dave outside with him for about a couple of hours every afternoon. We occasionally have a tussle of wills. Like all otherchildren Dave has to see how far he can go and get away with it. For that reason we have to make sure that he does as he is told. He can travel so fast and has so much neither Partner nor I could handle posite the ball field this week. him if we allowed him to get out of hand. One of our neighbors, who generally has the side of a hill looking just like "a host of golden daffodils", this year has very little bloom at all. However, in our garden we at least have lots of narcissi to look forward to. Many families worshipped with their children.

> For instance, the Department has already registered a plan for exoffice to appraise the value of the land. Strange the things that can be done on a person's own property when the government takes over. Not that we mind. We are only too anxious to see the work started. That's the trouble with these big highway jobs-the planning stage takes so long the road is out of date before it gets finished.

This column has been written by fits and starts in between attending to David's demands and answering the telephone. We did not expect any company this week-end and then came a call from my sister and nephew in Oshawa-would it be all right to come for the day on Monday? The answer was definitely yes. We have not seen them for over three years so we shall be very glad to have them come. Later I suddenly remembered one of them is a vegetarian and the other on a fat-free diet. That rather complicates things with the stores closed.

Fortunately we have plenty of milk, eggs, rhubarb and a little asparagus. All that added to whatever the refrigerator may produce will no doubt see us through. We also got a phone call from Daughter who said she was feeling very much better so we feel well repaid for having taken young Dave off her hands for awhile. It looks as if grandparents still count in the scheme of things. Bye for now-I hear the young man calling __ from the bathroom!
