Women's Institute, Cerealettes Sponsor Picnic for Manorites

A warm sun, a light breeze and excellent picnic weather came yesterday afternoon to favor 38 residents of Halton Centennial Manor when they attended an outdoor picnic at the Hornby school grounds as guests of the Hornby Women's Institute and the Hornby Cerealettes 4-H Girls' Club.

The first event of its kind for the residents, the outing was the idea of the new Manor Auxiliary. Through this group, the Hornby W.I. volunteers sponsored the picnic and the Cerealettes offered to provide a program. Those attending from the Manor really enjoyed it, according to all reports.

To start the day off, the 38 boarded a chartered bus at the Manor along with three attendants and took the short drive to Hornby. As they left the bus, each of the guests was greeted by Mrs. W. Coulton, acting president of the W.I., and received a lovely flower.

When the group had assembled beneath the shade of a row of beautiful evergreens on the school lawn, they were welcomed to the picnic by Mrs. Coulton, who handed the program over to Mrs. Delbert Downs and her club of girls.

The Cerealettes, all young girls of the Hornby district, presented an entertaining program of demonstrations, skits, presentations, talks and games for both young and old alike. Helen Vivian of the Palermo Wheaties club gave the visitors an interesting account of her five-day trip to Chicago as Halton's delegate to the 34th Annual 4-H Club Conference.

Prizes for the oldest gentleman and lady on the grounds were won by W. K. Leggett of Oakville and Mrs. A. T. Brown of Acton, who tied for being the oldest lady.

Following the guest program, the W.I. members served a delicious lunch to their guests and the friendly atmosphere which accompanied it indicated the joyous satisfaction felt by the visiting residents of the Manor.
