

Associate Editor Accepts Position At Elliott Lake

John Black, who has been with the Free Press for the past two and a half years as associate editor and advertising manager, leaves next week to join Rio Tinto Mining Co. of Canada Ltd. at Elliott Lake, north of Blind River. He joins the firm, that has several large uranium mines in the Blind River area, as a field public relations officer.

During his residence in Acton, both Mr. and Mrs. Black have taken an active interest in the community. Mrs. Black has been a teacher on the public school staff and will be joining her husband at Elliott Lake after the present school term. Many friends this young couple have made here will regret to learn of their removal and wish them continued success in their new surroundings.

John Black is a graduate of journalism of the Ryerson Institute of Technology. Before coming to Acton, he was on the staff of the Huron Expositor at Senoia. While on this newspaper, the Free Press awarded several awards for merit in Canada-wide competitions and he has contributed much to these successes. Best wishes follow him in the new field.

Bolton Weekly CBC Television Setting for Film

BOLTON - Locale for the CBC television film, Going to a Fire, to be shown on the program, Perspective, early next year is the office of the Bolton Enterprise. CBC director Roy Haldane, actor Mavor Moore, cast and camera crew descended upon the office for the filming. The Enterprise account of the matter follows.

The Enterprise office through the years has been used for many purposes from Scout Apple Day headquarters, bird-house judging, to grinding horse-radish. But we never expected it to become the locale for a motion picture which will be shown over the CBC early next year.

Film board technicians, actors and director Haldane moved into the sanctum of this family journal. The lighting and camera crew placed on the set filled a station wagon. Our presses and other equipment was just what they desired to film a scene or two for the forthcoming play, Going to a Fire. However, we did not have an ancient enough telephone and a really antique wall telephone was added to the props.

It was a real education for us to witness the filming with the great amount of care devoted to lighting effects and the diction, emphasis and pronunciation demanded by Director Haldane. Canada's top actor, Mavor Moore, played the lead. He has long been a favorite with local TV fans and it was a real pleasure to meet and talk with Mr. Moore. We were impressed with the naturalness which he approached his acting duties. Anthony Brown, a juvenile actor of 10, played his part to perfection and Coxy Lee Jake, a mature actress, was another in the cast. Unfortunately, only one Enterprise employee proved photogenic enough to get into the production when Harold Stroud was asked to play a minor role.

ROCKWOOD Party in Hall On Hallowe'en

Hallowe'en festivities passed off with a good attendance in the Town Hall. Mr. Tom Gellatly was master of ceremonies, assisted by Mrs. Chas. Heffernan and Mrs. Roy Bacon.

Judges for outfits were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Dyer and Mr. and Mrs. J. Mackay. Young folks were made up in eight grades, including pre-school age. Mrs. J. Little, Mr. Chas. Heffernan and Mrs. Ed Langdon were responsible for promoting the party.

Following the party, the young folks roamed the streets for a time before turning in for the night. Beyond waxing and disturbing signs, there was little notice of damage done about the village.

The Guelph Creative Arts Association held its ninth annual exhibition in the Armories with a large attendance Friday and Saturday evening. Lt. Col. E. K. Griggs, C.D., was present to devote the exhibition open to the public.

The exhibition was made up of five groups, namely, leather, metal, painters, potters and sculptors and weavers. In addition to the foregoing, there were guest exhibitors, Arts and Crafts of Fergus, Guelph Public Library books and literature, Guelph Collegiate Vocational Institute, Guelph Public Schools and Guelph Reformatory. In former years, the Creative Arts Association have held their Exhibitions in the city hall, but with increasing interest and activities, the Armories were secured for this year's affair. The Association is looking forward to securing a building for their efforts and funds are accumulating for that purpose.

Both evenings, in one corner of the spacious hall, slides and films were shown on a screen by members of the camera group. Hydro employees were busy Monday making preparations for new poles at the power station off Main St. and other men were cleaning up weeds around transformers.

Mr. Murray McLaren is busy with the erection of a new house in the rear of Mr. George R. Perry's residence, Main St.

Mr. Wayne Hasking, Queen's University, Kingston, was home for the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gardier celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary at a surprise family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Day. Present were Mrs. Gardier's brother, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tyler of Orillia; a sister, Mrs. Fred Evans and son, John; a sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carey; a niece, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Newton and baby, all of Toronto. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Morley Wright and daughters Beverley and Elaine, of Guelph. Mrs. Wright is a cousin of Mrs. Gardier's. Greetings were received by telephone from two other sisters, Mrs. Lorne MacDougall of Ottawa and Mrs. Jack Martin of Long Island, U.S.A.

Plan Two Visits To Sunnybrook

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Legion was held on November 1 in the Legion Hall with 34 members present and Joyce Buchanan in the chair. Applications for membership for Shirley Drew, Margaret Gedman and Dorothy Thompson were voted on and accepted.

The ladies who went to visit veterans at Sunnybrook hospital were so impressed by the need of these men for visitors that two more trips are planned for November. They will take similar gifts of cigarettes and chocolate.

Plans were made to help the Legion with the annual Christmas party for members and Auxiliary members' children. It was decided to ask the men of the Legion if they would cater to the ladies' Christmas banquet this year, which is being held in the hall on December 17.

Enough members volunteered to canvass the factories for Poppy Day, Friday, November 9. Fern Shultis gave a report on the meeting she and Irene Hunter attended regarding the formation of a Cancer Society Branch in North Halton. She indicated that they are hoping to find a vice-president for this organization in Acton.

Limehouse Institute Swells Building Fund

The regular meeting of Limehouse Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon, November 1 at the home of Mrs. Harry Brown. The president, Mrs. Frank Brown, presided. The meeting opened with the Institute Ode, followed by the Mary Stewart Collection.

Mrs. Sanford read a poem in commemoration of Armistice Day, followed by two minutes' silence. Reports of the bazaar committee, Hall board and the flower and fruit committee were given. The latter remembered three sick members with fruit boxes during the last month. A report on the euchre held at Mrs. Gisby's showed a profit of $19, to hand over to the building fund. An invitation to attend an open meeting in Milton on the 14th was discussed and it is hoped some will be able to attend.

Altogether 16 members answered the roll call. Your own idea how to keep healthy. The ideas were varied.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick kindly offered her home for the annual bazaar and baking sale to be held on Saturday, November 17 commencing at 2 p.m. It was also decided to hold another euchre for the building fund at the home of Mrs. Paul Spitzer.

Current events, local, national and international, were well prepared and read by Mrs. Kirkpatrick for Mrs. C. Meredith. Two minute reports by conveners were well given. Mrs. Benton prepared a splendid paper on the motto, Medicine Yesterday and Today.

The meeting closed with the Queen, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants, Mrs. English and Mrs. H. Still and a social half hour was enjoyed.

A flurry of debate followed between Mr. LeBlanc and the Commission. The union representative concluded that a tinge of suspicion exists which must be cleared up. He was not satisfied, he said, with the reason given for Mr. Kelly's dismissal.

On the other hand, the Commission affirmed its justification in dismissing Mr. Kelly and, as one member said, would not be bullied into reinstating the former hydro employee.

Some other business was dealt with briefly at last week's meeting. A delegation from council's road committee appeared in support of a motion for the P.U.C. to take disciplinary action on employees for not following instructions. This motion arose out of a council discussion of trench backfilling done by P.U.C. employees on several streets.

In the brief talks that followed, some misunderstandings were evidently cleared up and no disciplinary action was taken. The subject was left with apparent satisfaction all around.

Submits Rating Sheets
Councilor W. Cook, present with the council delegation, submitted for P.U.C. perusal employee rating sheets, similar to those outlined at a previous council meeting.

Consumer deposit credits were made to the accounts of J. Kerrigan and Mr. W. Wilson.

A letter from C. Lindsay urged the raising of a hydrant near his property. This is to be done as soon as time permits.

During hydro superintendent R. Mason's report, the process of hiring an experienced lineman was discussed. This was later agreed upon.

Waterworks superintendent J. Lambert initiated a lengthy discussion on installation of service lines into the new public school property.

Sewage superintendent A. Duly reported briefly, noted that in the flushing of sewers around Glenora, the bodies of numerous rats had been found.

Modern Figures Adorn Cathedral

VANCOUVER (CP) - An effigy of a workman shares a place of honor with likenesses of well-known men on the two new West Towers of Christ Church cathedral, being officially opened at the end of October.

The likeness of workman Allan Rothwell is a memorial to all the men who worked on construction of the cathedral, being officially opened at the end of October.

The likeness of workman Allan Rothwell is a memorial to all the men who worked on construction of the cathedral. Other heads shaped by sculptor Reginald Dove are the likenesses of the Archbishop of Canterbury, of Rev. Edward P. Lacey, architect J. C. M. Keith, Very Rev. Cecil Quantin and Archbishop Harold E. Sexton, who became Anglican archbishop of British Columbia in 1952.

The towers, costing $250,000 in construction, took three years to build.
