

Commemorate Founding Of Scouting with Service

Commemorating the 100th anniversary of the birth of the late Lord Baden-Powell and the 50th anniversary of the founding of scouting, a church parade was held to Acton United church Sunday. Pictured are the three cub packs marching with their leaders, Mrs. Wensley, Ron Smith, Murray Scoyne, Miss Doris Allan, Rev. Ray Costerus, and Doug Tarrant. Mr. Costerus later addressed the congregation of Guides, Brownies, Cubs and Scouts taking the motto, "Be Prepared" as his subject.

Hold Day of Prayer For World Missions

Friday, March 8, the annual World Day of Prayer service for women will be held here at 2:30 p.m. in St. Alban's Anglican church.

Since 1922, Canadian women have joined with those of the United States in a day of prayer for Home and Foreign Missions. In 1927, in response to requests from many lands, the day was established as a World Day of Prayer. To millions of women and young people around the world, the first Friday of Lent has come to mean the World Day of Prayer, bringing a vivid realization that all together they are a part of the household of God, of the world Christian community.

This year thoughts should be particularly with the people of Hungary, Poland and those in the south-east Asian countries where communication with the western Christian churches has been virtually suspended.

Sing Birthday Song For Four at Meeting

(Intended for last week)
The February meeting of the Grace Mission Band was held in the Sunday school room of St. David's church on Saturday afternoon. The president, Lena Van Tol, opened the meeting with a poem entitled, "Smiles".

A hymn was sung and Fern Hamshaw read the scripture lesson from John 15: 12-17, after which Linda Walton gave a prayer. The minutes were read by Ann Baileh. The treasurer's report was given.

The offering was received and dedicated by repeating, "Hear the Pennies Dropping." The birthday song was sung for Carol Walton, Betty Walton, Carol Smith and Margaret Black.

The leader, Mrs. Parker, had charge of the Junior group, using the study book, "Ricardo's Search." The lesson was on the subject, "New Friends from Old Countries." Mrs. J. W. Robertson had charge of the primary group and gave the story, "The Second Son," from the study book. The meeting was closed with prayer by Carol Smith. A social period followed, which was enjoyed by all.

A short program was given with Mrs. James Wallace as master of ceremonies. Mrs. Axler, Cove of Busy Bees gave a reading, Mrs. James Mahon, a solo, Mrs. Malcolm Moffat, a reading, Miss Anne Watkins, a solo. Mrs. Lester Miller Institute Hostess

Mrs. Lester Miller was hostess for the February meeting of the Busy Bees Women's Institute but on account of the snowy day and conditions of the roads, there was not a large turnout. The meeting opened by all repeating the Institute Ode and Mary Stewart Collect, followed by the roll call, a Valentine verse.

During the business discussion, it was decided to help pay for repairs to the stove at Brookville hall. The 60th anniversary celebration was talked over and plans made for attending the joint celebration with Namagaweya, Campbellville and Dublin at Brookville hall. A letter from the Retarded Children's school in Milton explained their circumstances. A euchre will be held on No. 7 school February 28 and prizes were arranged for.

Mrs. MacLean gave the thought for the day, a poem, "We Can Do Better," which all enjoyed. Mrs. Stuart Miller showed pictures she had taken on a trip to Bermuda and the surrounding countryside which were very lovely and all were delighted to have the opportunity of seeing them.

A vote of thanks was extended to her and to the hostess for her hospitality.

The United Nations General Assembly was expected to give, overwhelmingly approval this week to a conciliatory resolution calling for new negotiations on the Cyprus dispute.

The political committee adopted the resolution last Friday by a vote of 76 to 0, with Afghanistan and Pakistan abstaining and Hungary and South Africa absent. The 80 nations are represented in both bodies.

The Greek-speaking majority on the British Mediterranean island colony has been demanding an end to British rule and a union of Cyprus with Greece. The Turkish speaking minority opposes such a move. A Greek Cypriot underground has long been waging gun-and-bomb campaign against the British.

Minister of State Allan Noble of Britain, in a press statement, said the five-day debate had demonstrated a widespread feeling that Great Britain, Greece and Turkey should be left to settle this problem.

Prince Philip
Queen Elizabeth has created her husband the Duke of Edinburgh a prince of the realm, settling a controversy over his title which has been heard periodically during the last 10 years.

A notice in the London Gazette apart from the official announcement said "The Queen has been pleased to declare her will and pleasure that His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh shall henceforth be known as His Royal Highness the Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh."

Although there have been six queens who have ruled England in their own right, the status of the queen-mother has never been established by law. Under English practice a man's rank, unlike a woman's, is not affected by his marriage.

Philip was born a prince of the ruling family of Greece, but nine months before his marriage to the queen, Princess Elizabeth he became a naturalized British subject, renouncing his Greek royal title and changing his surname to Mountbatten, the maiden name of his mother. On his marriage he was created the Duke of Edinburgh, becoming a peer of the realm, but not a royal duke.

Giving the Duke the title of Prince does not alter his status. It has no effect on the succession to the throne nor does it mean that he becomes prince consort, a status given by Queen Victoria to her husband, Prince Albert.

It is a courtesy title and in the House of Lords, he will still rank below the royal dukes Cornwall, Gloucester, Kent and Windsor. Recommendations for the honor, however, is reported to have come from Prime Minister MacMillan in recognition of his services to Britain and the Commonwealth, including the world tour which he has just completed.

Alting Eden
Former British prime minister Sir Anthony Eden had a slight recurrence of fever and some abdominal pain last week-end but doctors said his condition seemed satisfactory. Now on vacation near Auckland, New Zealand, Sir Anthony was said to have escaped any recurrence of the "severe chills" he suffered in London and on his voyage to New Zealand.

Doctors recommended that Sir Anthony, who resigned as prime minister January 9 because of ill health, should rest for a time.

End Dock Strike
Dock workers went back to their jobs Saturday on piers in New York and other north-eastern U.S. seaboard ports, ending a costly 10-day strike. A huge backlog of cargo meant plenty of work ahead as the men resumed work, following the sign-

Big Mining Tour
Plans for a cross-country tour of Canada's mineral resources by mining delegates from 73 countries were announced at Ottawa. Organizers said about 300 persons are expected to make the tour during the Commonwealth Mining and Metallurgical Congress, which opens at Vancouver, September 8 and ends 32 days later at Halifax.

The visitors travelling by special trains will inspect more than 50 mines, smelters, steel mills, chemical plants, chemical plants, petroleum and natural gas installations and other mineral industries. Large meetings are planned in eight cities.

Eight planes will be chartered for a 3,700-mile tour of northern British Columbia, the Yukon and Northwest Territories, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Plane trips will be made to the iron mines of Newfoundland and northern Quebec. The last such congress in Canada was in 1927, when 200 delegates toured the country by train.

Price, Grade of First Concern To Shoppers, Halton Forums Say

"Does she put the price tag on" or in other words do women shoppers determine the price of farm products? This topic was introduced on National Farm Radio Forum, February 11. Three women took part in the broadcast and gave their own views on the subject in a frank manner in which they expressed their ideas.

Further discussions followed in farm forums across the country. The majority of Halton forums thought improved methods of packaging, advertising, etc. would increase the sale of some products. We are more or less influenced by appearance but packaging does not necessarily increase quality. One group said these factors would not increase consumption of food.

Asked to list in order of importance the factors such as price, brand, built-in services such as pre-cooking, etc., the members considered most important when purchasing food, all placed price and grade as first considerations. Only two groups were unanimous and they placed them in this way: grade, price, brand, built-in services.

Two groups suggested convenient parking facilities were quite a consideration when shopping.
