Credit Society, Grading Stations Co-Op Mill, Forum Suggestions

What's next in Co-ops and what new services should the Co-operatives in your community undertake? This topic was discussed on National Farm Radio Forum February 25. There has been a wonderful development in the co-operative enterprise as a result of many people studying and taking action to solve recognized problems and needs in their own communities. The co-operative movement still depends on men and women who are prepared to think and act. Discussing new co-operative services which would be a benefit to the community, Halton forums felt the need of a credit society. Others suggested egg grading and poultry processing plants, also fruit and vegetable grading stations.
