Survey Crews

Four crews of men from the Department of Planning and Development are conducting a survey throughout the Sixteen Mile Creek watershed this week, gathering information for the newly-formed conservation authority.

Secretary R. F. Snyder said the men are walking over farm lands in their search for information so property owners shouldn't become alarmed if they see strange men in their fields. All the surveyors carry identification of their position.

The crews are land use water levels, wild life and forestry crews. Their report will be submitted to the conservation authority on completion.
