GREETINGS were exchanged as Jim Whitham, Bradford, Yorkshire, England, called on his brother Joe as he was busy at work in his garage in Acton. The two brothers parted 36 years ago in England when Joe came to Canada. Jim is visiting his family, Ronnie and family of Georgetown and Joyce (Mrs. Bill Buchanan) of Acton. The brothers were disappointed in not seeing a cousin, Mrs. Robinson (May) of Winnipeg.

Financial Post Reviews Textiles Outlines Operation of Local Plant

Recently the Financial Post devoted a whole section to the textile industry in Canada which proved most interesting here in view of the fact that many in Acton are or were directly connected with textiles for their livelihood. A review of the various firms in Canada was given and the following information was quoted regarding the Wool Combing Corporation which has now ceased operations. We quote:

"Wool Combing Corp. of Canada, Toronto, operates on a commission basis a wool scouring and combing plant to process raw wool into worsted tops for the production of worsted yarn. It also produces neutral wool grease used in the manufacture of high grade rust preventatives, cylinder oils pharmaceutical products, cosmetics and other lines.

"Operations were discontinued in Galt in 1956 and equipment transferred to Acton. Land and buildings in Galt will be sold, but in the meantime are rented on a short term base. Moving affected profits and dislocated operations but economies are expected.

"The Acton plant suspended operations this month. Company's chief consumer, Canadian Wool Combing Co., Toronto, has decided that the raw wool it buys in Australia will now be sent to England to be combed, before being sold to Canadian mills.

"About 100 persons were employed at the Acton plant until recently. When operating at capacity, work force was 500.

"Directors are reported to be considering directing the affairs of the company into other channels.

Company has not shown a profit since 1952. Net loss of $18,255 for 1956 was 95.6% higher than 1955's $7,798 loss. Loss per share was 31c (16c in 1955). No dividends are being paid.

Working capital at Dec. 31, 1956, was $83,626 ($127,658 at end of 1955).

Outstanding capitalization at Dec. 31, 1956, consisted of 50,000 shares $5 par. Earned surplus was $201,440.

Great Ox - Trains Of Old Prairies Vivid in Memory

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (CP)—J. J. Grant, 85 year old pioneer, was reminiscing on the old-time ox trains that plodded across the Prairies.

He remembers them well because they often stayed overnight at the family farm at High Bluff, with as many as 70 two-wheeled Red River carts hauled by one ox each, with no drivers on the carts. The oxen were kept moving by men riding ponies, keeping the train in line.

Extra ponies were brought along for use of the men in charge, and if an ox could not go any farther, it was butchered and replaced by a pony.

Pioneer Trail

The long trains followed the Saskatchewan trail to reach Edmonton from Winnipeg. They came from as far as St. Paul, Minn.

There was plenty of grass along the route so that feeding the animals presented no problem, Mr. Grant said. The carts could be heard squeaking along in the distance for many miles. No grease was used on the axles because it would soften the wood.

Saskatchewan Avenue in Portage la Prairie formed part of the old Saskatchewan trail for ox and pony trips to Saskatchewan. The last oxcart passed through Portage la Prairie to the northwest in 1879.

On the journey west they carried all kinds of merchandise, and on the return journey, mostly furs they purchased along the route.

During later years, competition was keen, for as early as 1874 a steamboat made regular trips up the Assiniboine from Winnipeg to Fort Ellice (St. Lazare).

When the Canadian Pacific Railway forged through in 1882, a new era began.

Old Car Runs Again Idle for 30 Years

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (CP) — Two Fort William boys have turned an old Model T Ford that sat unused in a field for 30 years into the pride of their neighborhood.

Graham Tranner and Robert Oldale bought the old car for $25 and put it back in running order.

Great clouds of blue smoke emanate from the car as it chugs along. The gas tank is a one-quart oil can operating on a "drip-system" directly into the carburetor. There is no roof or windshield, but the car still has its original fan belt — and it goes at 10 miles an hour with a full load. The car has to be pushed to start it and the boys say the only real gripe they have about it is that they sometimes have arrived at their destination by the time they get it going.
