Friday 13th

Black Cat Day for Many

Are you one of those persons who is known as the superstitious type? If so, remain in bed to-morrow, as it is Friday the 13th.

To most people it will be just another day, when the breadwinner comes home with the pay check, or to the child the end of the school week when a long earned rest is awaiting them before returning to school on Monday.

For those with the superstitious nature, it will mean beware of taking unnecessary steps.

Ready to haunt them are the black cats that may cross their path, the untimely salt shaker that gets knocked over and the partner's ladder unsees until turning the corner.

Good luck coins will be clutched in many a hand or perhaps a rabbit's foot will be worn about the neck of many a superstitious person.

The sleepy-eyed individual putting on his socks inside out in the dark, will hesitate to change them for fear of bringing some token of bad luck throughout the day, or refraining of steps will be avoided, in an attempt to prevent disaster striking.

Records show that even sportsmen have pet theories, that are carried with them into games. Did you ever see the baseball pitcher who had to tug at his uniform before he reached for the rosin bag, then after receiving the signal from his battery mate, kick at the earth on the mound before throwing the ball? The jockey who will evade wearing certain colors, or the hockey player although his uniform is the worse for wear, insists on wearing it because it is a good luck omen?

Although it is not believed by the majority to be a chosen bad luck day, many will bury their heads in the covers and wish it was possible to stay in hiding until the calendar shows the date has been changed.

King-Cascadden Wedding Vows At Knox Church Georgetown

Rev. Alex Calder officiated at the marriage of Kathleen J. Cascadden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cascadden, Norval, when she became the bride of Edward Keith King, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence King, 25 Byron St., Georgetown. The double ring ceremony took place in Knox Presbyterian church, Georgetown on Saturday, November 30 at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Edgar Gowland was at the organ and played several selections prior to the service and during the service, she softly played O Perfect Love, Thru the Years and Because during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a ballerina length portrait gown the bodice and jacket of chintilly lace over satin. The bolero jacket was fashioned with long lily-point sleeves and the Peter Pan collar as trimmed with pearls. The bouffant skirt was made of tiers of nylon net. Her finger ring fell from a pearl headpiece. The wedding bouquet was of red roses.

Mrs. David Leslie, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her blue crystalite gown was ballerina length, the best neckline forming a V in the back with a bow from which fell streamers to the hem of the bouffant skirt. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and mums. Her feathered hat and gloves were of matching blue.

Julie Pomeroy, niece of the bride was flower girl in a floor-length dress of yellow lace and nylon, fashioned with a very full skirt. She wore yellow mittens and a yellow flower headress and carried yellow baby mums.

Calvin King acted as groomsman for his brother, David Leslie, brother-in-law of the bride, and Earl Walters were ushers.
The wedding reception was held in Knox Presbyterian church hall, where the bride's mother received for her in a blue crepe sheath, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother assisted in a beige lace gown with green accessories and a corsage of bronze mums.

IT NEVER LANTS FOREVER

Drivers would do well to remember that a snow storm or freezing rain stops sooner or later! Often it would be much better to wait the storm out in safety rather than attempt to fight the elements. The battle can be tremendously one-sided and hurry under the circumstances is usually dangerous and unwise.
