Sportsmen Hold Turkey Shoot

The Halton Sportsmen's Association's turkey shoot held on the farm of Gordon Lee on Dec. 14th attracted a large crowd of men to take their chances of winning a turkey. There were thirty turkeys and nine chickens won by the lucky marksmen. Irwin Thompson, Brampton, scored the only perfect shot of the afternoon with a 22 rifle and won his turkey. None of the local fellows were lucky at this shoot. Ross Cargill, R.R. No. 3, Milton won the lucky draw of a Remington Pump Shotgun.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Silverthorn of Balover and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Harris of Beaverton were recent weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Price.

Mrs. Walter Coulton, Mrs. Lou Simpson and Mrs. Doug Leslie attended the Halton Presbytery meeting of the W. A. at Appleton United Church, Port Credit, on Monday, Dec. 13th.

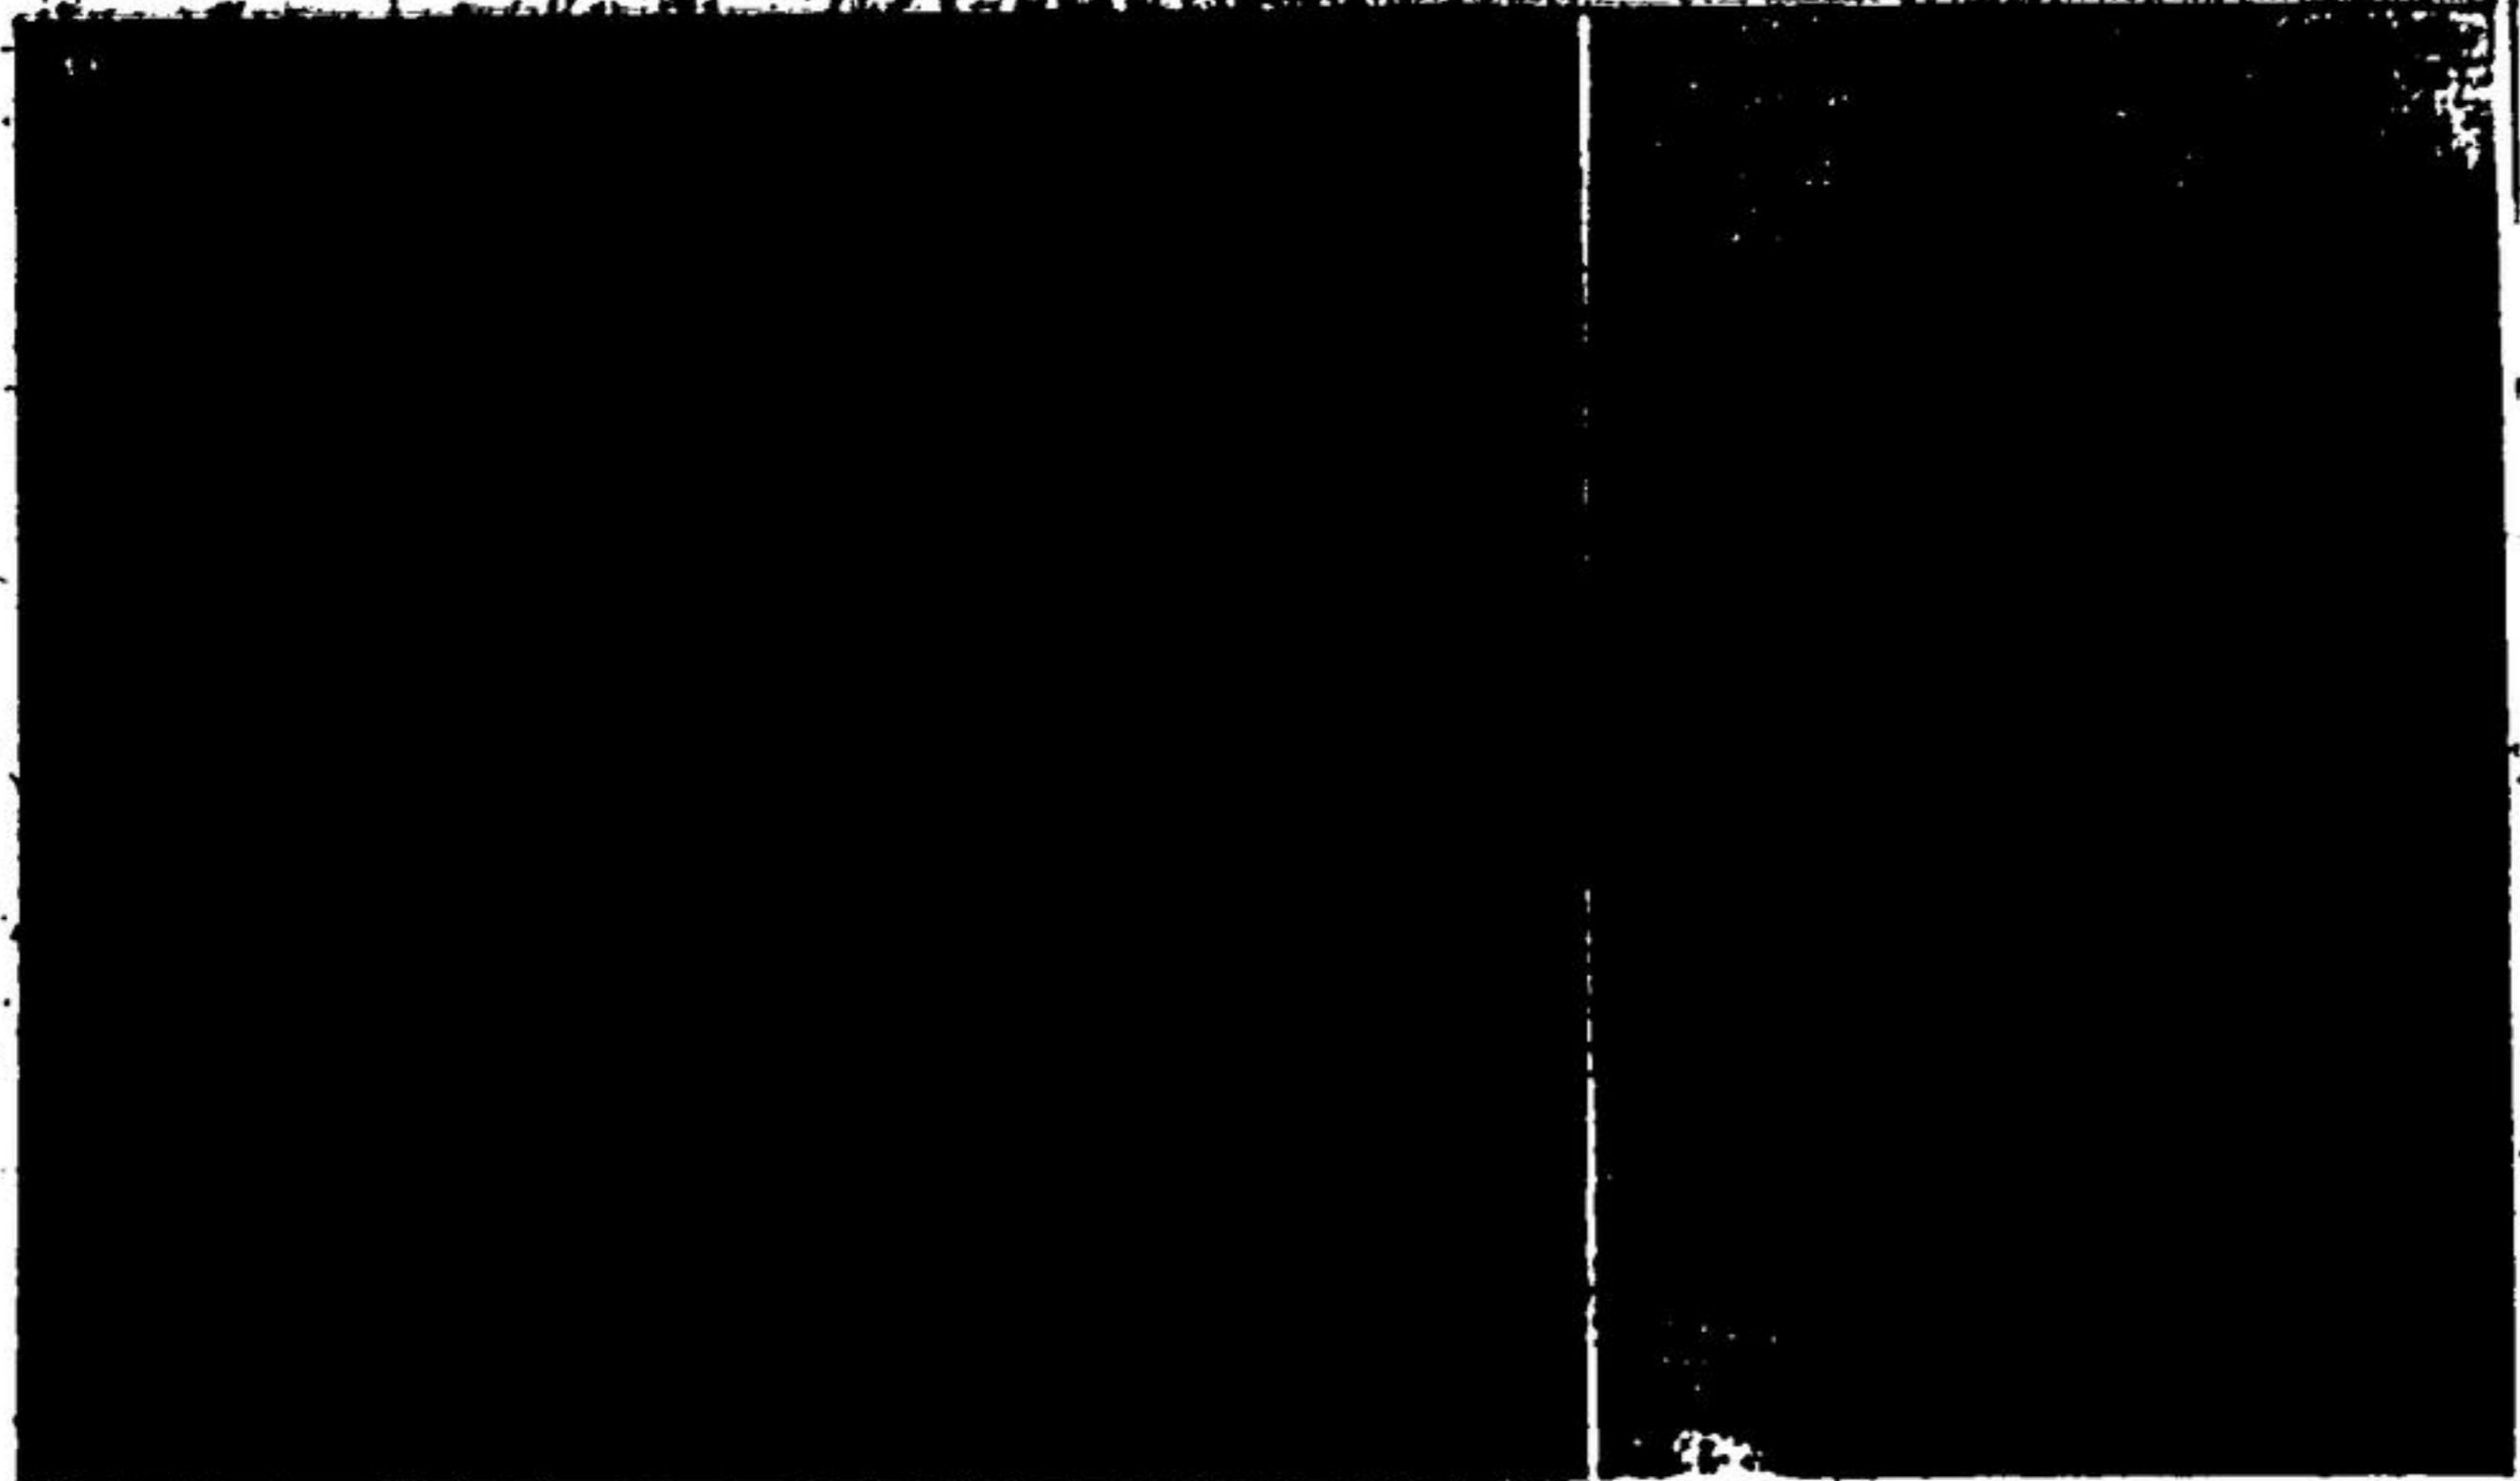

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Archer who were married in Toronto on Dec. 14th.

A well is being dug at the Hornby Community Park. Work commenced last Monday. This well will supply the water for the convenience of the public when visiting the park.

Care is Essential Follow These Tips To Store Machinery

Since the average farmer today has more money invested in farm machinery than ever before, it is important that it be given proper care. Because of the seasonal use of many machines, most farm machines rust out rather than wear out, states J. H. Southwell, Department of Engineering Science, Ontario Agricultural College. Most of the rust on machines collects during storage.

Any machine with bare metal parts that polish in use—such as plows, discs, and other tillage ma-

Christmas quietens the chain saws' roar in pulpwood forest. Hundreds of miles from the din of smoky towns and the hectic traffic of busy streets, lies a winter wonderland where Christmas trees grow in countless numbers. It is Canada's number one natural resource, the rich pulpwood forest where in hundreds of depots and thousands of camps, no decorations are needed to give a Christmas atmosphere. At left, in the stillness of Holy Night, a depot glistens with sparkling lights as pulpwood workers prepare for their Midnight Service, while at right Santa thanks a plow driver who has brought him to the camp. From these camps, in the heart of the nation's managed woodlands, comes the wood harvest that, when converted into pulp and paper, becomes Canada's leading export.

chines—should be specially treated before storage. The most effective way to prevent rust during storage is to spread a thin layer of rust-preventative on the wearing surfaces. Such a product is sold by most of the reputable oil companies, and is more effective for its purpose than ordinary lubricating oils and greases.

Gasoline engines which are not used for several months at a time—such as those on combines and forage harvesters—can deteriorate rapidly if not protected from internal corrosion. Engine corrosion due to acids in the oil usually causes more damage than does normal use. Before being put into storage, the engine should be run until the engine oil is hot, the oil then drained, and rust inhibitor added to the crankcase according to the manufacturer's directions. The engine should then be turned over a few revolutions, if possible by hand, and rust inhibitor sprayed into the air intake. Remove the spark plugs, and spray some rust inhibitor into each spark plug hole, to help prevent rusting of rings and cylinder walls. Then the engine should be sealed by replacing the spark plugs and plugging the air intake, exhaust pipe, and crankcase breather in oily rags.

Water in the radiator and engine block should of course be drained. With gasoline engines, drain the fuel tank, fuel connections, and carburetor to prevent the formation of gum. Such gum, if allowed to form, can plug a carburetor or cause sticking valves when the engine is re-started after a period of idleness. With diesel engines, drain the diesel fuel from the engine and put rust inhibitor into the fuel system.

Although following such steps may appear to be troublesome when putting the machine away into storage, it will mean much better service and longer life from it when it is taken out next spring.

Can Only Provide "Handouts" Warden Says of Municipalities

Reeve Thomas Millward, at a labor institute banquet in Oakville Saturday evening, said it was a disgrace that a man had to go to jail before the municipality could provide relief for his family.

He said that as municipalities couldn't provide funds to assist the unemployed through taxes, they could only provide a "handout" to those out of work. Only way the unemployed could get assistance from his municipality was to go to jail, when the municipal welfare department would have to assist his family.

Guest speaker George Burt, vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress said the $70,000,000 unemployment insurance fund was being used to stabilize Canada's bond market. It should be used to provide work, he said. Mr. Burt said it was disgraceful that management assumed no responsibility for its unemployed workers.

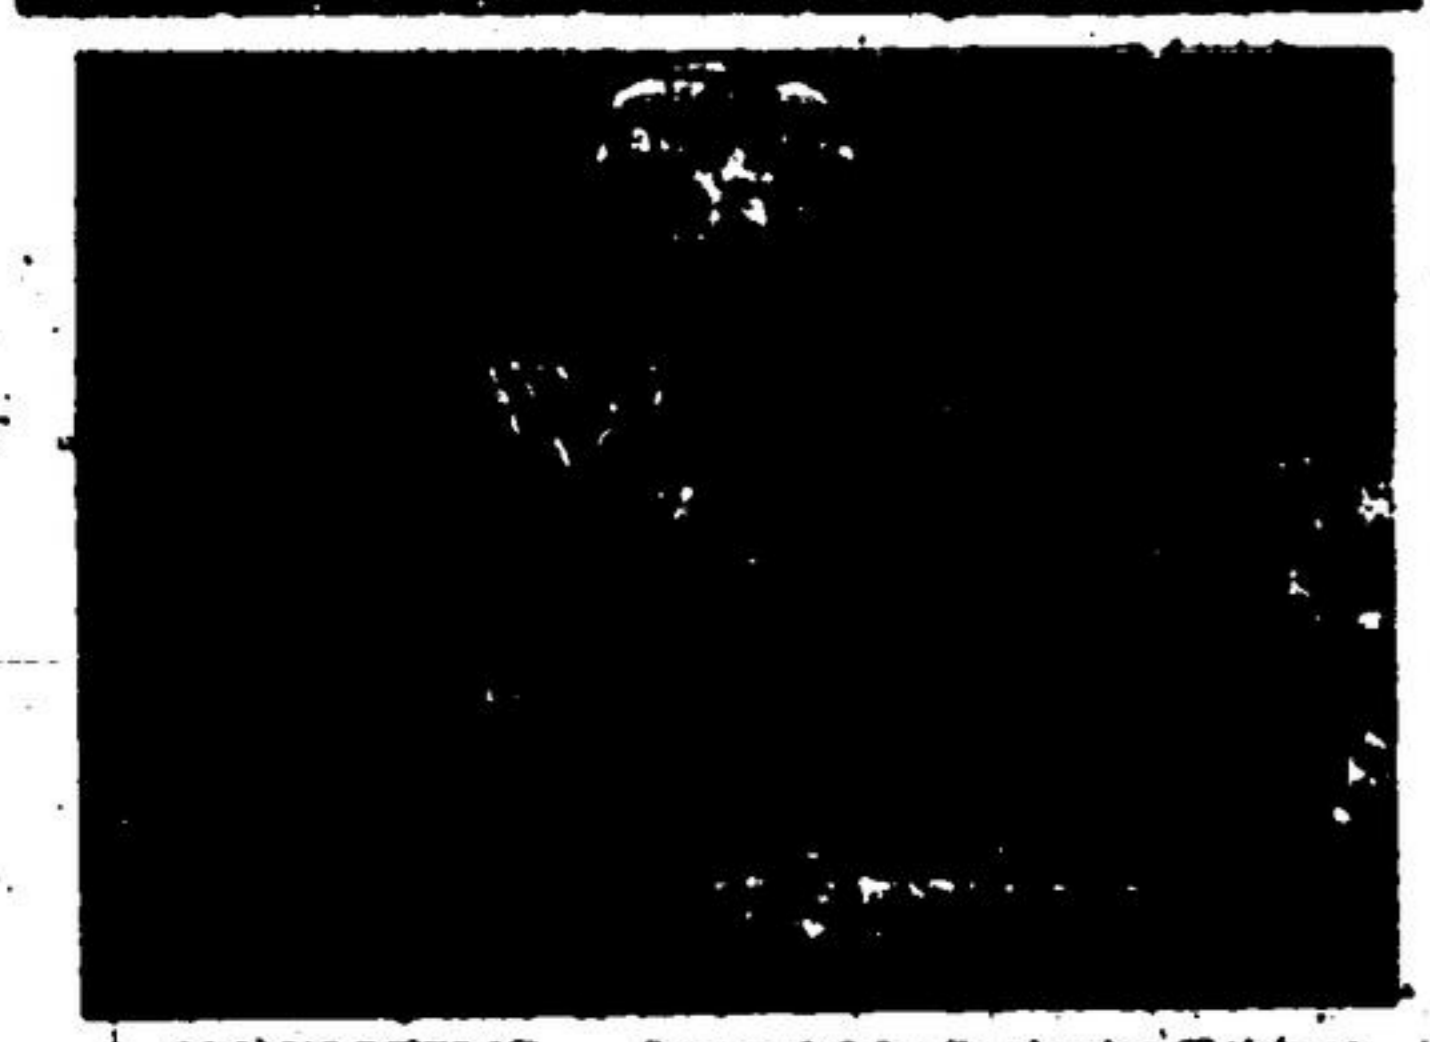

Labor unions were going after the shorter work week as one way L.C. vice-president Trafalgar reeve-elect Alex Phillips said the township council had tried to provide work by having a new administration building constructed, but ratepayers had voted down the proposal.

President Jack Taylor of the sponsoring Oakville and District Labor Council, presided at the banquet attended by 85 labor union members and their wives.

Forty-eight registered for the two-day institute, first ever held in Halton County. Speakers were Max Dodds, Ontario Federation of Labor welfare director, on workmen's compensation; Jim Roberts, C.I.C. field representative, on union administration; Henry Weisbach on unemployment insurance; and Lloyd Felt, on the union's role in the community.

BRIGHT DISPLAY... Long noted for its pleasing Christmas decorations, Chicago's Nevebush Hotel, which boasts more floor space than any other structure in the world, presented this gala Christmas greeting to the people of Chicago.

Observance Grew With Christianity

The observance of Christmas as we know it today is one of joy and peace, making it difficult for us to realize that the holiday has not always been universally recognized and observed.

When Pope Gregory sent out missionaries in 601 A. D., he told them to let pagan converts worship the harmless features of their festivals into the spiritual fabric of Christmas observance.

The popularity of the Christmas observance grew with the progress of Christianity, but there were setbacks. Abuses of Christmas reached such a pitch in feudal England that the Puritan Parliament outlawed the holiday in 1644. The observance declined until the middle of the 19th century when Charles Dickens published his heart-warming "Christmas Carol."

TRUE CHRISTMAS CAROL

Charles Wesley, a Methodist minister England wrote "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" on a Christmas morning. The brother of John Wesley, founder of Methodism, was inspired by the pealing of church bells when he penned the famous carol.

Grandfather Frost Is Russian Santa

Christmas in Russia? Behind the Iron Curtain it's Grandfather Frost who delights the children.

Grandfather Frost (really an actor from the Moscow stage) was revived by the Russians two years ago. Through most of the month of January thousands of Russian children dance around a fir tree in St. George's Hall and may shake hands with Grandfather Frost, the Russian Santa Claus.

Grandfather Frost entertains the children with the aid of singers, dancers and variety artists from the theaters. Last year, for the first time, American correspondents were admitted to the Kremlin to see one of the gatherings.

SAVE THE TREE

If your tree holder is the type that allows the butt of the tree to rot in water, you can help keep needles from dropping by dissolving plant food in the water. If you use a pebble or rock-filled pail to support the tree, cover the pebbles or rock with a plant food solution. Use one teaspoonful of plant food (the one quart size variety) to each gallon of water in the container.

WELL, WELL, WELL...

The lovely lady has succeeded in bringing Old Santa into view by gazing into her crystal ball, yet it seems that the vision isn't clear enough to reveal the gift that he is bearing. Old Santa, (Christmas) is a gift that keeps on giving.
