

One Week for Free Now Pay for Meters

Burlington — Last Friday Burlington police began enforcing the parking meters which were erected on Friday 13th. Residents had a week's time to get acquainted with the meters and only courtesy cards have been distributed among violators up till now.

Don Gregory, chairman, and Councillor Leslie "Bob" Mitchell, member of the town's parking committee, said that already business men have expressed their satisfaction with the meters.

Gold, Red, Brown

In use are three types of meters: Gold meters which give one hour for a nickel, but only half an hour for five pennies; red meters which give 12 minutes for two pennies, even though the customer inserts a nickel or five pennies the meter will violate after 12 minutes; brown meters which give two hours for one dime or one hour for a nickel. They will shortly be installed on the parking lot behind the Municipal building.

The parking committee has also recommended suitable pedestrian cross walks, which will be yellow in color and the works department is waiting for warmer weather.

Exercise care, caution and courtesy whether you're a driver or a pedestrian, and you'll have a carefree holiday season.

Here's a list of safe driving and walking tips for the holiday season. They include:

For Motorists:

1. Stay alert and keep your wits about you when in congested holiday traffic.
2. Remember, darkness is a signal to reduce speed and increase vigilance.
3. Be sure your headlights are in good working order.
4. Be on the lookout for pedestrians who may be filled with the holiday spirit and therefore careless.
5. Always obey traffic laws and regulations.
6. Reduce your speed in bad weather. It's your best weapon against snow, rain and muddy or icy pavements.
7. Keep your windshield clear at all times. Carry an ice scraper to clear off ice and snow not removable by windshield wipers.

For Pedestrians:

1. Proceed more cautiously and be more alert at night. Remember, motorists cannot see you in the dark.
2. Wear light-colored clothing when walking along rural roads at night.
3. Cross at intersections and with traffic lights.
4. Look both ways before crossing streets.
5. Don't carry packages or bundles so high they obscure vision.
6. Don't hold your umbrella so low as to obscure vision.

Northern Lakes May Offer Clue To Food Growth

SASKATOON, (CP)—Results of detailed biological studies of large lakes in Northern Saskatchewan are contributing to the world's scientific understanding of how food is produced in lakes and how fish may be harvested.

Prof. D. S. Rawson, head of the University of Saskatchewan biology department, says original foods are produced by minute green algae using sunlight and the chemical materials available in the water. This material is used first by minute and then by large animals, passing through various chains and cycles.

Eventually, a fraction of the food originally produced becomes fish and man proceeds with greater or lesser success to harvest this fish for food and recreation. Prof. Rawson said, in a prepared paper.

He said modern chemical methods, including the use of radioactive tracers, are making it possible to measure the rate of original production of nutritive materials in lakes.

At the practical level, fisheries biologists are discovering how to manipulate fish populations to get the maximum annual harvest of desirable fish.

"Between these two extremes we have a great deal of partially related information as to what happens to animals and plants in the lake as they contribute to the mass of productive and destructive processes," Prof. Rawson said.

"Freshwater biologists in various parts of the world are contributing pieces to this jig-saw story of productivity. The multitude of large and small lakes in northern Saskatchewan provides an ideal laboratory for such studies."

Recent investigation in 13 large lakes in Northern Saskatchewan show that fundamental studies of the freshwater biologist are definitely useful in predicting and managing the fisheries in this area.

BROWNIE NEWS

A surprise Christmas party was held at the Scout Hall on Wednesday, December 18 for the Pack.

Thanks to the kind efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Barbeau and Ouida Morgan, the Brownies had a very enjoyable time with games, movies, carol singing and cookies and pop.

Local Sunday School Hold Supper, Concert

The annual Christmas supper and concert of the local Sunday school was held in the church on Saturday evening, December 14th. Over 70 sat down to well laden tables, after which a short program followed.

A puppet show by the Aitken and Bruce families caused much merriment. Santa Claus, in the person of Stan Fuller, distributed presents and bags of candy from a well laden tree.

On Wednesday evening, the church was filled for the Christmas concert of the public school, under the direction of Mr. L. Brown and Mrs. N. Rathbone. Ross Awrey, a pupil of the senior room, acted as chairman.

A splendid variety program was presented and credit is due both scholars and teachers for the high calibre program. Many favorable comments were heard at the close. Santa Claus (Wayne Robertson) arrived to give out the presents from the gaily decorated tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Craig, Linda and Steven of Acton were Sunday visitors with Mrs. Craig's parents Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Howard.

Sunday visitors with Mr. and Mrs. H. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. H. Gemmell of O. Angeville.

A number from here attended the closing exercises and display of work of the Erin rural night school in the Cotnam last week. Mrs. John Meek, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Meek and Blythe of Erin visited on Thursday evening with the former's brother and family. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McEwan, Blythe, showed pictures on the screen of his recent trip to the British Isles with the 4-11 Club group. These were greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. Albert Shultis Hostess to W.I. Group

Rock-a-Long Women's Institute held their December meeting at the home of Mrs. Albert Shultis, with 20 members present. Roll call was answered by each stating their Christmas present with this proved to be a revelation of modernity.

Mrs. D. McPhedran, president, conducted the business period during which approval was given for a donation for TB seals. Members agreed to send help to the clinic for the months of January, February and March. Tickets were given out to be sold on a turkey draw.

Mrs. D. McNabb gave a full report of the District Directors' meeting held in Guelph.

Program convener for the meeting, Mrs. George Wallace called upon Mrs. C. Tilt, who gave an amusing reading on the effort of a "mere" man to get what he wanted for Christmas.

Mrs. John Ingles spoke on the motto revealed to the season, "Christmas is a time for open house, open hand and open heart."

Mrs. Ingles gave the history of their farm, lot 7, con. 6, Eramosa township and the adjoining lot. This farm was deeded from C.own Lands in 1847. A great many deeds had been issued for this land.

"It was explained that the land had been frequently mortgaged and that each time a deed was made out to the mortgage. The name 'Hefny' Pallet appeared in the papers, he having held a mortgage at one time on this farm. Interest rate was 10 per cent."

Mrs. George Wallace and Mrs. D. McPhedran told the Christmas story using a flannelgraph. Santa arrived in time to distribute gifts, dressed in conventional costume. Mrs. F. Dean was Santa. The meeting closed with the singing of Silent Night.

MARRIED IN A QUIET CEREMONY at Eden Mills Presbyterian Church on Thursday December 26, Anna Bradley Coulson became the Bride of Stanley Robinson Wilson, of Eden Mills. The couple are pictured at the altar of the church where Rev. Fred Williamson officiated.

OBITUARY

E. C. Reed, Advertising Man, Dies Well Known in Art, Youth Work

Robert C. Reed, 71, well known in print and advertising circles in Toronto and Montreal, died Monday at the Guelph General hospital from a heart attack.

Born in Toronto and educated in Toronto schools and at the Ontario College of Art, Mr. Reed had been on the staffs of the McKim and the MacLaren advertising agencies in Toronto. More recently he was with Ronald's advertising agency in Montreal.

As an artist he was known especially for his many portraits of famous Canadians, some of which were commissioned by the Canadian government and exhibited at the Canadian National Exhibition. One series depicted the mayors of a number of Ontario communities, while others portrayed outstanding Canadian publishers and wartime figures.

He freelanced as a writer for many years, specializing in juvenile fiction, among which was a series called Adventure of Starr Sterling.

Active in the Big Brother Movement, he assumed the responsibility of a number of boys who had been convicted in the juvenile court and personally guided them into paths of useful citizenship.

He was a member of the Arts and Letters Club and the Albany Club of Toronto, and of the Services Club of Montreal.

He leaves his wife, the former Marion Noble, a daughter, Mrs. Harry Bond, Toronto, three sons, King of Toronto and Julian and Laure of Norway, and a sister, Mary Lucy Reed, Toronto.
