Three Great Dams to Guard Credit Valley's Resources

Orangeville Reservoir
It is near here that land for the Orangeville Reservoir has already been secured. And an interesting feature of this project is that while the dam will be only 18 feet high, an earth back wall at the northern limit will rise 10 feet. "To keep the water," Suter told the Authority's guests, "from being lost to the Notawasaga we need every drop we can trap."

Guests included Hugh Halliday, well known Canadian naturalist, Cy Young, manager of Oakville radio station CWHO, John Larke, manager of Brantford radio station CPBH, Tony Bennett, a six-foot, eight-inch apartment who claimed there are 50-pound carp in the Credit and is prepared to prove it, G. A. Dills, of the Acton Free Press, named Mr. Weekly Newspaperman of 1957, Cam Sinclair, a member of the Authority, and Roy O'Donal of Port Credit News.

The party enjoyed dinner in the Terra Cotta Inn through the courtesy of the Carling Conservation Club, represented on the tour by Art Jeffrey. And, needless to say, a good time as well as a profitable experience was had by all.

Three great dams will conserve the Credit River's greatest contribution to the valley. A M. Greenaway, chairman of the Credit Valley Conservation Authority, told visiting newspaper, radio and TV men in Terra Cotta on Friday, June 6, prior to taking off on a tour of the area under the body's far-sighted control.

"Hurricane Hazel taught a lesson none of us can afford to forget," Mr. Greenaway said. "To protect our natural inheritance, we must plan just as carefully, from here on, as military leaders would for an invasion in force."

Site of the proposed dams, to be built within the foreseeable future, are north-west of Orangeville, where the Credit begins, at a point south-east of Georgetown which for years has been known to local residents as Hungry Hollow, and between the terraced walls of the deep valley which shelters Silver Creek, five miles due north of Georgetown.

Site Purchased
"We have already purchased the property for the Orangeville reservoir site," said A. S. Mendell, chairman of the Authority's public relations committee. "It will cover close to 600 acres."

Allowed to run free, added Ted Suter, field officer of the Credit Valley for the Department of Planning and Development, water is, at its worst, a killer, at its best a definite loss to any community.

"Its flow must be controlled," he told touring newsmen, "or we are throwing away the greatest asset any locality can have."

In Hungry Hollow, where a farm-gate grade must have given many a house as well as its driver the jitters in years gone by, the dam will be constructed along the present road line. It will rise to a height of 66 feet, extend close to 1200 feet, with part of the proposed Credit Valley Scenic Roadway running along its top. The reservoir thus created will cover 200 acres and hold millions of gallons of water.

Hands Off Hydrants Asks P.U.C. Chairman
BURLINGTON Norm Craig, chairman of the P.U.C., reported that he had investigated the situation of a fire hydrant, used by a resident to fill a swimming pool. He said there was no reason to prosecute at this time but the owner was billed for the amount of water used.

Mr. Craig said that it should be made clear that the P.U.C. does not approve of filling swimming pools by this means.

Tour Nights
The visitors were delighted by the sight of a turkey buzzard soaring over Silver Creek. They saw a lady land a 14-inch trout right at the Forks, where the West Credit joins the stream flowing in from the north. They also stood on a height of land outside Orangeville, from which they could see where three historic rivers rise.

"Over there to the east," pointed out Field Officer Suter, a brick young graduate in Geography from McMaster who already has the conservation picture of this area in the palm of his hand, "is where the Credit begins. To the north-east, over in the Hockley Valley, is the source of the Notawasaga, which empties into Georgian Bay. And not far to the west is where the Grand river, to flow down to Lake Erie."

Dedicate New Organ At Hillsburgh Church

A new Hallman organ and chimes were dedicated in the Hillsburgh Baptist Church on Sunday morning, June 8. This dedication marks the climax of a time of sacrificial planning and giving on the part of the members and friends of the church.

A large congregation assembled for the service of dedication. The organist, Mrs. Donald Matheson, played a prelude on the organ and chimes and led the music for the service. The solo, "Jesus Lover of My Soul" by MacDougall, was sung by John Host.

The pastor, A. R. Goldie, conducted the service of dedication and later preached on the role of music in church worship.

Organ Nerved 70 Years
The last organ served the church for 70 years, W. W. Matheson of Hillsburgh, treasurer, the recipient for payment of the former organ, which is made out to his father.

The new organ was built by the Hallman Organ Company. It is an all Canadian organ, designed and built in Waterloo, Ontario.

Douglas Campbell, representing the Carling Conservation Club, represented on the church on the organ and chimes on Friday, June 20 at 8:30 p.m.

SCHOOL EDITION KITCHENER ON (CP) Tony Wright, 13, is publisher, assistant editor and sports writer of a six-page newspaper at his elementary school. He has three assistants.

Music Pupils Hold Recital In Community United Church

Mrs. McLaughlin held a music recital in the church on Saturday night for her pupils.

Mrs. McMillan was adjudicator for a contest in the playing of God Save the Queen. Winning in the senior group were Marilyn Moffat and Sharon Allan, and in the junior group, Ann Shottell and Paul Kidney.

Sandra McLaughlin gave a solo routine which everyone enjoyed.

Mrs. McMillan, Mrs. McLaughlin and Shirley Suter each received a gift for the part they had played in making the recital a success.

W.I. Home Trip
The W.I. ladies, their husbands and families, along with several children from Blue Mountain School, enjoyed a bus trip to the O.A.C. on Friday, Wednesday, June 10. The ladies held their meeting on the O.A.C. grounds, which opened with the tide and Mary Stewart Collect.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Business items were dealt with. Roll call was answered by telling "who the previous owner of your farm" had been. The motto was given by Mrs. Norman Sinclair, "Life is like a garden, it bears the seed you sow."

The meeting closed with the Queen and all enjoyed lunch served by the College. The group spent the afternoon observing the livestock parade and made a tour through the buildings.

Journey to Kitchener, London
The W.A. and W.I. ladies of Hillsburgh enjoyed a bus trip on Tuesday to Kitchener, where they visited Weston's Bread plant. They continued on to London and visited McCormick's candy and biscuit factory.

Both tours were quite interesting and everyone enjoyed the day.

W.A. Meeting
The W.A. met for their June meeting at the home of Mrs. Edmunds. The president presided.

The meeting opened with the theme song, Creed and Lord's Prayer repeated in unison. Hymn 308 was sung and scripture study

Mayor Receives Chain of Office

A silver-gilt chain of office was presented to Oakville Mayor William Anderson Tuesday of last week at a "loan storage" banquet given to his departure Friday for a visit to his native Scotland.

The chain and pendant, bearing the town's official seal, were made by an English firm, Thomas Fothergill.

Mrs. McLean had charge of the following program a reading by Mrs. Stewart, a flower contest by Mrs. McLean.

The meeting closed with the Mazah benediction and a delicious lunch was served by the committee, assisted by the hostess.

Local Views
Mrs. Dampier returned home from Tennessee last week where she spent the winter with her son Joseph Dampier. She also visited her son Ross at Mt. Kearsage, Penn.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Snow on the safe arrival of a baby son.

Congratulations to Miss Janice Baker on receiving second class honors in her final year of the Arts degree at University College. She received her B.A. degree at Convocation on May 29.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Business items were dealt with. Roll call was answered by telling "who the previous owner of your farm" had been. The motto was given by Mrs. Norman Sinclair, "Life is like a garden, it bears the seed you sow."

The meeting closed with the Queen and all enjoyed lunch served by the College. The group spent the afternoon observing the livestock parade and made a tour through the buildings.

Who Pays For ADVERTISING?

NOT the newspaper reader, because he saves both time and money by shopping the wide selection of honest values offered through the advertising column.

NOT the advertiser, because advertising always returns a profit when it is used correctly and consistently.

NOT the publisher, because of the hundreds of firms who profitably invest hundreds of thousands of dollars in newspaper advertising.

EVERY LINE OF ADVERTISING IN THE PAPER IS PAID FOR BY THE FELLOW WHO DOESN'T ADVERTISE!

The business which the non-advertiser loses pays the cost of advertising and ALSO returns a nice profit for the fellow who does advertise! HOPING for more business is not as effective as inviting more business.
