

In The Pulpit

"Christian Science" Stressed When Rockwood Pastor Returns

Returning to his pulpit on Sunday morning after a month's holiday, the Rev. G. A. B. Moore, Rockwood United church, began the first of a series of six sermons on the subject, "Rivals to the Christian Faith."

He dealt with Christian Science, explaining that like many other sects, it had been built around a strong personality. In this instance Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy. He related something of the life of this well known woman, how in the early part of her life, she suffered from an illness and told how her recovery came about.

Health Major Concern

The major concern of Christian Science is health, he said, and added that it had caused so much disturbance that it can no longer be called Christian or a science. He said that one must note the great determination of Mrs. Eddy to help others. It was a great example of mind over matter.

Modern medicine has long recognized this, went on Mr. Moore and even medical doctors say that 50 per cent of the people who come to them for treatment do not need to come.

"One can sum up the belief of Christian Science by saying if you think you are sick, you are," he stated. "The great error is that nobody distinguishes between diseases of the mind and germs."

Christ said that in the world there would be tribulation but to "be of good faith for I have redeemed you." This was the only answer to the deceiver and sufferer, finished the minister.

Miss Doreen Gordon was organist for the service. Mr. Moore thanked her and expressed the wish that other younger members in the congregation would follow the example Miss Gordon had set and be able to fill in when the regular organist was absent.

Tips on Touring

Keep a camera in your car this summer. The pictures you take will carry your vacation fun all through the year. Here are some tips on how to get the best pictures while motoring:

First, if you want to take pictures from a moving car, let someone else drive.

Adjust Camera
Adjust your shutter speed to the distance and angle of the subject you are shooting. You need faster speeds for nearby subjects, and those at right angles to the car's movement. Open the aperture accordingly.

Try framing your pictures for variety. Include a portion of the dashboard and window. If you want the "frame" to be in focus, close the aperture to get greater depth of field. You'll need a slower shutter speed, then.

For fuzzy "frames," leave aperture open, focus sharply on subject.

Avoid shooting through closed side windows. They may have "waves" in them. The same for the extreme sides of the front, wrap-around windshield.

Don't leave your camera in the glove or trunk compartment or on the shelf by the rear window. Heat can damage the lens and ruin film.

Weed Control

ship is valued and as very rarely do we have complaints submitted on this type of property. Nevertheless, we all know that every weed allowed to go to seed is the means of spreading and starting new ones.

Many times have I wondered just why this type of condition is allowed to persist and the following questions run through my mind.

"Has the owner lost interest in the farm?" "Can it be that the real estate value is increasing so fast that making a living from the soil is no longer of primary importance?" "Will the dirty pasture field be clipped in time?" "Could it be a case of shortage of help or equipment?" "Is the farm operator simply not sufficiently weed conscious?" Perhaps all of the above reasons may apply but I believe the latter "not weed conscious" is more often the case.

More than 30 farmers in Halton are listed as owners of weed sprayers. About everyone has a mower and the majority are power operated. Surely these are the two handiest implements to prevent weeds from being a menace in pastures etc.

Just a couple of hours with a weed sprayer, about five or six dollars' worth of chemical applied at the proper time will eliminate the chickory from that ten acre pasture by the road or the third field back which looks so blue in the mornings.

Honor July Bride At Social Events

A recent bride, Miss Danna McMillan was honored by friends and relatives at several events prior to her marriage.

Milton public school teachers presented her with a lamp.

Nassagaweya church choir members made the presentation of a lamp on June 27 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Dredge.

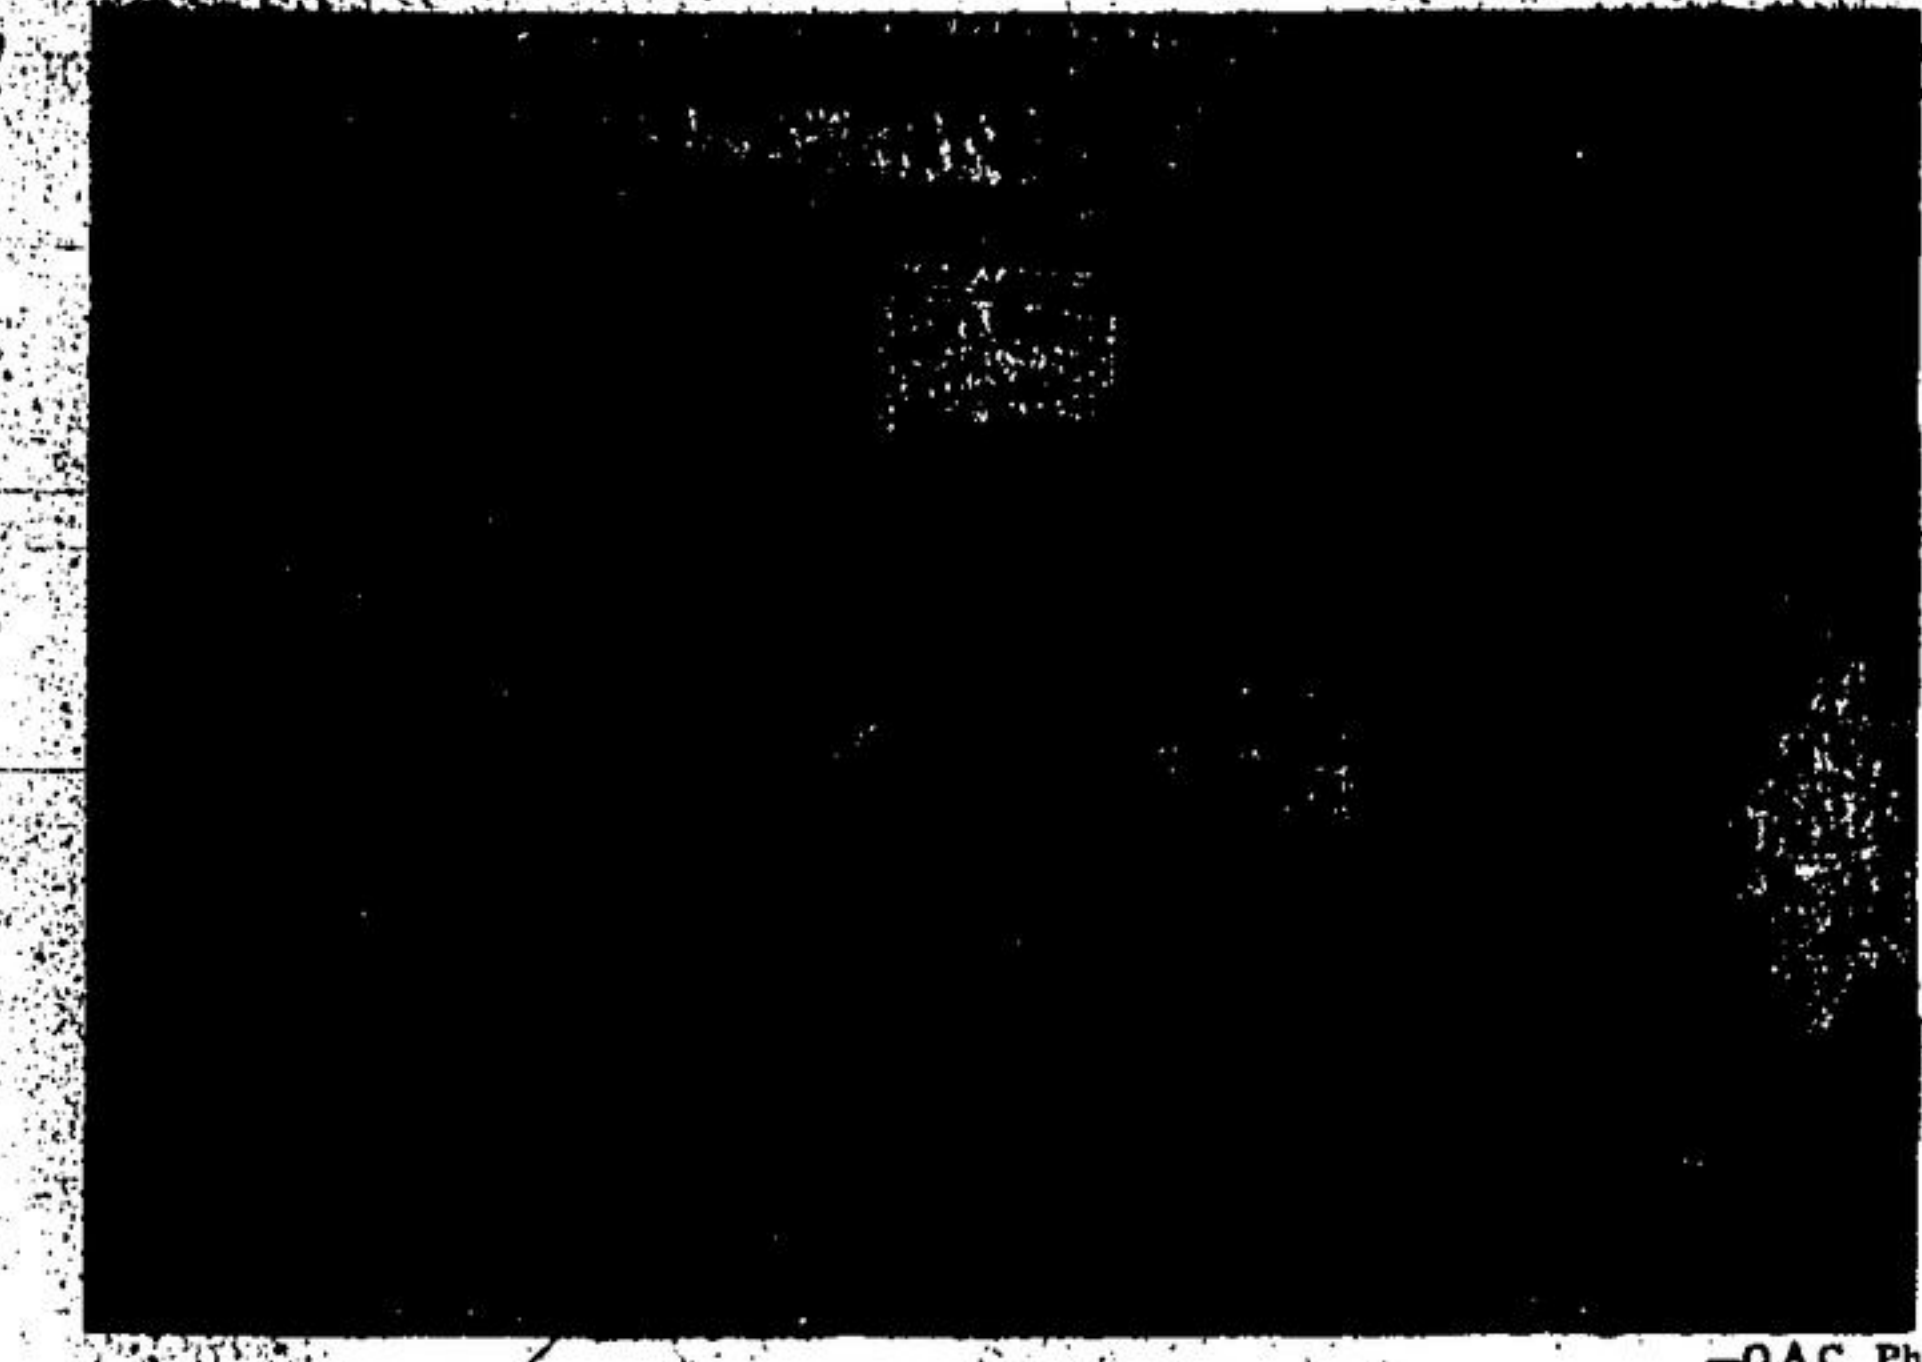

A party shower was held on July 3 at the home of Mrs. Catherine McMillan, Midhat, when there were over 30 guests.

On July 9 there was a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Marie Gilson, Ballinford.

Miss Catherine Elliott, Brookville, was hostess at a miscellaneous shower on July 15 at her home.

However, if this job was forgotten at the right time and maybe the Wild Carrot or Chickory or Thyme are going to go to seed and blow seeds to the neighbors, you're not stuck yet. Try to find enough spare time to run over these fields with the mower. The weeds will at least be controlled and the neighbors will be much happier. This fall there may be enough rain to make the Chickory and Carrot grow and that will be a good time to use the weed sprayer.

If the residents engaged in Agriculture in Halton County could be just a little more "weed conscious," I am sure the appearance of our rural communities would be greatly improved.

10th School for Rural Clergy Attended by Rev. A. McKenzie

Clergymen from all parts of rural Ontario spent the week at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, attending the tenth annual School for Rural Clergy. The purpose of this annual school held at the O.A.C. is to educate ministers in rural areas to become better acquainted with the latest developments and problems confronting the farmer today so that they may return to their parishes and provide more effective leadership with the knowledge they have gained.

Rev. Andrew McKenzie of Knox Church, Acton, was among those attending.

The ministers are studying rural sociology which is emphasizing economic changes and their effect on rural living values, while a second course is on soils and land use and features studies of soil conservation, efficient farm practices, and field trips for a first hand examination of practical farm conditions.

Third Nellis Family Reunion Has Full Program of Sports

A very pleasant afternoon was spent on Civic Holiday, August 3, by the members of the Nellis family when they held their third annual reunion at the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nellis, R. 3, Rockwood. Although the day seemed threatening in the morning, it turned out to be perfect weather and there was a good attendance.

There was a program of baseball, races and contests of all kinds, with peanut scramble, billiards and swimming for the children.

The enjoyable afternoon was planned by the president, Henry Nellis, secretary, Mrs. L. Nellis and sports chairman, Phil Coady, Jimmy Nellis and Sam Nellis.

Came Fairly
Those coming from the farthest distance were Mr. and Mrs. Phil Coady and family of St. Catharines and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Nellis of Hoopler. Two minutes' silence was observed for those who had gone on before.

The group sat down to a bountiful supper.

Members of the new committee are president, Alfred Winter; secretary, Mrs. Lorne Robson; sports committee, Mrs. Frank Hall and Phil Coady.

Thanks were expressed to the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nellis.

Barn Razed by Fire Wood Employees Help With $375 Cheque

In the presence of a number of his fellow employees at the W. C. Wood Company plant, Jim Stienstra, freezer department, was presented with cheque for $375 Thursday afternoon of last week. The money was from a fund which had been formed at the factory to help Mr. Stienstra replace some of the livestock he lost when the barn at his farm at Eden Mills was destroyed by fire June 11.

The cheque was handed over by George Darling, office manager, and tribute to the help the other employees had given Mr. Stienstra was paid by Lovell Francis, personnel manager.

Help Clean-Up
Following the fire about 50 employees from the factory went to the Stienstra farm, located on the Indian trail, and helped him clean up the debris.

Since the fire, Mr. Stienstra has had to sell his farm. He says he has definitely not given up farming, but hopes to start again next spring.

The BIBLE Today

During 1958 the circulation of the Kongo Fioti Bible, the first Bible to appear in a Congolese language, reached the 100,000 mark. At the time of the visit of the Rev. John T. Watson, the Assistant General Secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, the 100,000th copy of the Fioti Bible was presented to the Congolese Church of Lower Congo at Brazzaville.

It has been said that this Bible has been a great force for the evangelization of the people. A church that has "The Book" in its own tongue is able to teach the whole counsel of God.
