Forgotten 40-Year-Old Deposit Assists Scots' Edinburgh Trip

A 40-year old, forgotten bank account is going to help send the Lorne Scots pipes and drums to Edinburgh this fall.

When the late Col. F. J. Hamilton, commanding officer of the 126th Peel Battalion, came back from England after the first world war, he had some cash left over from the battalion's canteen fund. In order to get rid of it, he opened a trust account at the Port Credit branch of the Standard Bank. Trustees were the late Charles Urquhart, manager of the branch; the late William S. Gibson of Centre Rd., Port Credit, and W. T. Gray, the sole survivor.

"I was under the impression the funds had been disposed of some years ago by turning them over to the Peel Battalion," Mr. Gray, who is president of the St. Lawrence Starch Co., stated in a recent letter to Maj. E. F. Conover, second-in-command of the Lorne Scots, Peel, Dufferin and Halton Regiment, which perpetuates the 126th Peel Battalion, "but recently I was advised by the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Port Credit that in account No. 2238 I had $289.22. I told the bank I would dispose of it at once by turning the money over to the Lorne Scots for their canteen fund, or whatever else you choose to use it for. I hope it will come in useful."

POET'S CORNER

MOTHER'S DAY, 1960

More precious as the years go by,
A mother's love, so pure, divine,
O'er life's rough way, along the road,
Though dark the night, more brightly shines,
Time leaves us with a sense of loss,
When she is gone to live with God,
Her life on earth, so kind and good,
Will show the way she proudly trod,
Eternal life, she often said,
Better by far than earthly show.

Right must win over wrong always,
Her influence lives where'er we go.
—Bertram F. Nightingale.

Livestock Production Developments To Feature Halton Breeders' Meeting

Livestock breeders in Halton County will be attending a livestock week to be held May 30 to June 4 at Guelph. The program is sponsored by the Department of Animal Husbandry of the Ontario Agricultural College.

Speakers, panel discussions, demonstrations and tours will all be used to give livestock farmers in the area new developments in livestock production.

Dairy Cattle Day is scheduled for Monday, May 30. The feature speaker for this day will be Dr. W. E. Petersen, noted animal husbandry research worker, from the University of Minnesota. Dr. Petersen has selected "Immune Milk and Future Dairying" as his subject.

Sheep breeders will meet on Wednesday, June 1. The feature of this day's program is a panel on "Sheep Industry of the Future in Ontario."

Beef breeders will take part in the Beef Cattle Day on Thursday, June 2. Dr. E. J. Warwick, Beef Cattle Research Branch, U.S. Department of Agriculture, will be featured.

The Swine Day is Friday, June 3. The program for swine breeders will include discussions on new developments in the swine industry and will feature carcass competitions.

This will be the second consecutive year for the livestock program. From last year's experience it is expected that the week will be one of interesting and informative discussions on the problems of the livestock industry.

Burning Desire

Grass fires can ruin trees

"If you have a burning desire to clean up around the yard and start a bonfire — watch out!" warn foresters of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests. "Gusty winds, dry grass and fire unattended can turn neighboring evergreen hedges a sickly brown. If those stark, black tree skeletons belong to your neighbor, that burning desire may have cost you both friendship and hard cash."

A fire creeping along the ground in dry leaves among large maple and beech trees may not seem to do harm, they advise. But it doesn't take much heat to kill bark and tender inner layers where all growth takes place. When this outer protective bark falls off, disease often sets in and kills the tree.

Three plantation owners find it a good plan, foresters say, to leave a 15 foot belt between travelled roads and their first row of trees. By keeping this belt cultivated, roadside grass fires started accidentally may be controlled.

Similar fire lanes and intervals through plantations reduce risk of total loss. The proverbial ounce of prevention here is worth more than the pound of cure.

That ounce of prevention, too, might be common sense, they say, in deciding when it is safe to start a fire.

Urge Bait Caution in Streams

With the fishing season here, extreme caution should be used by anglers in the use of minnows for bait.

So warns the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, which points out that certain kinds of fish which may be used for bait may have a serious or even dangerous effect on the game fish should they be introduced from the bait-pail to fishing waters.

It is illegal to use live alewives, carp, dogfish, gar-pike, goldfish, perch, rock bass, sunfish or smelt as bait. Lampreys or their larvae may not be used anywhere, although live alewives or perch may be used in the Great Lakes.

"Live minnows or bait-fish must never be liberated except in waters from which they were taken," the regulation states. Many excellent trout waters have been spoiled by the introduction of perch; it is believed that carp have resulted from the introduction of goldfish — which are a species of carp — into many waters.

If minnows are used, however, they keep best if they have a small stream of running water which is allowed to fall through the air, incorporating oxygen as it splashes into the tank. Zinc coated or galvanized vessels should never be used; containers used for handling bait-fish should be painted with a plastic or other non-poisonous paint.

One of the first signs of overcrowding and poor conditions — and a slight familiar to most minnow-fishermen — is appearance of white fungus on the minnow. As soon as it appears, get rid of all the minnows and start out with a new supply, making sure they are not overcrowded. Don't foul the water with bread crumbs or rolled oats.

The main feature of the evening was that Fire Chief Newton came to the Guide meeting to give a talk on fire prevention.

It was very interesting and as a result several of the company signed up as junior firemen. He gave us several pointers on how to stop fires before they start and how to prevent them from doing too much damage if they get started.

Cookie Day

Cookie Day is coming up. The girls will be canvassing the whole town and parts of the rural districts so, please buy one less package of cookies at the store or, just leave room in your cupboard for a couple of boxes of Girl Guide Cookies.

The cookies will be delivered on May 7. Canvassing will start this week and will continue until Saturday, May 7.

The meeting was closed with Day of Done and Taps.
