A Guelph girl, Miss June Prior, 474 Preston Street, will enjoy a plane trip for two to New York and $50 spending money, courtesy of Acton Lions Club, when her name was drawn by Mayor J. H. Goy Saturday afternoon during the final merchants' draw.

Scheduled to be drawn during the Lions Ice Carnival Saturday night, the draw was made in the afternoon when inclement weather forced the cancellation of the ice show.

"THE CONSULS"

WITH THEIR NEW RECORDING

THIS FRIDAY, MARCH 10th

ACTON LEGION HALL - 9 - 1 A.M.

—Perhaps the hockey and skating season has not yet ended in Acton.

—Public school pupils have started to practice for the Halton Music Festival.

—The Baptist Explorer group toured the Acton Free Press plant Wednesday afternoon.

—Last night's snowstorm kept the town workmen busy plowing and clearing the streets.

—Police were busy investigating minor accidents throughout the area due to the heavy snowfall Wednesday.

—With the recent rains and the heavy snowfalls, there certainly should be sufficient moisture for the spring planting.

—The first robins are welcome, of course, and perhaps it's not nice to criticize them. But the ones who arrived for this week's weather must be nuts.

—Spring is just around the corner? Who said so?

—Many motorists had a difficult time returning home from work Wednesday on account of the heavy snowfall.

—The skiers may get another chance to "don" their equipment and take a whirl down the hills if this heavy snowfall remains.

—Tonight the Rotary Club, Y.M.C.A. Men's club and Lions club are holding a joint meeting in the Y.M.C.A. There'll be a full report in next week's paper.

—A couple of seasons got crossed yesterday afternoon when, in the midst of a snowstorm, thunder and lightning added a bizarre note.

—Wednesday's heavy snowstorm caused the cancellation of the Acton Fair Board meeting and the initial meeting of the Speyside Central School's Home and School meeting.

Home assignment was recorded, to date, purchase material and pattern, and sewing box.

It's Hard to Spell Say and Even Play

Probaireachd—it's hard to spell, hard to say and hard to play. Try pronouncing it pibroch—the way it's sometimes spelled—with a strong Scottish accent.

Probaireachd is a type of Scottish music played on the bagpipes, and a two and a half hour long concert of this kind of music was given last Friday evening at the Fort York armories. It was held by John Wilson, one of Ontario's prominent bagpipe teachers and judges, who was one of the players.

Fred Wright, Phil Caddick and Laurence Daby attended from town, and Mr. Caddick has been asked to play at the next concert. Purpose of the concert is to give practice in playing before audiences.

There was insufficient space in the Free Press to accommodate all the news items this week. They'll appear next week.

Tom Reid from Norton's Flower Shop in Georgetown gave a fine demonstration of flower arranging, one of which was sent to Bonnie Campbell. An orchid corsage was given to Mrs. Robert McEneaney and one to Mrs. Gibson. All were very nice and everyone enjoyed it. Mrs. Norman Sinclair thanked Mr. Reid for his demonstration.
