

Spring Fashions Defy Sleet Shop-Circle Show Draws 250

June Brigs as Bride

Climax of the show was the appearance of June Brigs as a bride, escorted by Charmon Woodburn, employee of Paul's Men's Wear, with two enchanting flower girls, Judy Cameron, Patty Dunn, Susan Shoemaker and Judy Engel. The bride gown was fashioned of tulle of organza and chambray lace with brilliant at the neckline. A full veil floated from her headpiece. The flower girls, in pastels with tiny hair curls, drew the ring in the draw and took a turn walking down the ramp to hand out the pins.

A few of the outfits which drew "oh's":

- A stark white poplin raincoat on Mrs. Martin;
- Two lace-edged dresses with Brigitte Bardot sleeves worn by Mrs. Briggs and Miss McKenzie;
- JoAnn Payne's low-backed white swim suit;
- Monte McKelvey's stunning mauve swim suit and matching jacket;

Smart all-black and white ensemble worn by Mrs. Davidson; The hats — a hit in themselves — all hand made and exclusive in Ontario to the Paulette shop — ranging from the flowered confections to high-rising glossy straws;

The new colors — a rich Paris pink, mauve and gold;

The new materials — uncrushable nylon, arnel and terylene, washable cottons and permanent prints;

Very short skirts with very high heeled shoes;

Dresses with brief jackets;

Coordinating sportswear with jacket, skirt, slims and veskit, all available separately;

Bulky sweaters, trim slims, plaid skirts and shirtwaist dresses.

Make-up was applied by Mrs. Jack Dawling and Mrs. Bill Sproston.

Refreshments Backstage

Amidst open dress boxes, tissue paper and a welter of colorful clothes, gloves, shoes and hats, all those connected with the show enjoyed tea, coffee, cookies and sandwiches.

The foretaste of spring over, the spectators went back into the storm. Hair blown into tangles, legs and cheeks red from sleet and snow-drawn boots, all were worth it.

Rotary Club Plans Campaign To Aid Crippled Children

When a child who lives far from any large hospital centre is crippled and cannot walk to a clinic because of his handicap condition, he is not forgotten. As a matter of fact, he is being sought out more and more these days by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, along with members of some 276 clubs across the province, sponsored by the unique mobile clinics in which the doctors, nurses and equipment go as close to the young patient's home as possible.

In Acton the campaign is sponsored again this year by the Acton Rotary club and members have been busy preparing literature for mailing to all residents in the area. Rotarian W. Wendell has been named chairman of the local campaign and expects to have envelopes for mailing completed in the near future.

Winter Seals

Financed by Easter Seal contributions, the clinics are held in the hospital — if the town is large enough for one — but have been quite successful in community centres, town halls and service club buildings. For several years, large crowds of crippled children — sometimes as many as 100 — have been examined by specialists in this type of portable clinic.

If a transportation problem is involved, the society nurse and the crippled children's committee of the local service club work out the details so that the child reaches his appointment on time. They also make sure there is a good supply of milk, cookies and toys on hand for restless and fretful children while they wait their turn. As the child's disability is confirmed, the doctor dictates his diagnosis and recommendations into a recording machine and these are transcribed later for the use of all the medical personnel involved.

Camp Seasons

Often the doctors advise a camp session at one of the society's five summer camps. A child may be hospitalized locally if equipment and personnel are available to cope with his particular ailment. Otherwise, he may be sent to Toronto on one of the other large medical centres for new braces, crutches or physiotherapy.

Important follow-up work is usually necessary in every case, and is carried out efficiently by the corps of nurses of the staff of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children — an organization which now needs $875,000 to continue to take hold and opportunity from one end of the province to the other in mobile clinics and its many other varied and necessary services.

Boost Road Maintenance With $18,000 Transfer

John township council stressed the need for road maintenance during their recent meeting when they authorized transfer of $18,000 from other road accounts to the road maintenance account. Following a review of tenders, 800 pounds of warble fly powder were ordered from C. King at the rate of 47 cents per pound in $5.55 in 35 pound lots.

During the meeting, council also transferred $5,000 from other accounts to be used for the maintenance of roads. A by-law was approved setting the road superintendent's salary at $1,350 per hour.

Appoint Inspectors

Council appointed the following as inspectors and distributors of the Warble Fly Act: north division, John McEwen; west division, Earl Jessop; east division, Alex Jackson and south division, Ken Stabington.

The following accounts were approved for payment: general, $1,232.65; roads, $1,511.94; dam age to sheep and inspection, $111. Basically, the work will be done on town property which will entail digging a trench, placing the required cable in underground pipe, which is called conduit, and back filling the trench. This project is planned to commence in April and will be completed by the end of June. As this is a progressive job, excavating will be under way for a few days only in front of each property. During work operations, access will be available to residences and business establishments as well as all side streets which are crossed. Extreme caution will be exercised to avoid damage to tree roots and turf.

Stone age men wore a sort of armor made of numerous layers of furry hides.

"All your work is for him. Your future, your traditions, and needs of your nation, and of humanity lies in his hands."

The speaker was thanked by Lion Jack Doherty and presented with a gift.

Fines and Fun

Good fellowship reigned supreme during the meeting and this was emphasized both during the fines period and a Chinese auction when a basket of groceries went to the lucky bidder. Fines master Y's Man Harry Arbie controlled the fines period quite capably and appointed a member from each club to collect respective fines.

Rotarian Jim Ledger, who volunteered to act as counsel for all his colleagues, was touched for the heaviest levy of fines during the evening and defeated the usefulness of having a defence.

Y's Man Bill Wilson conducted the Chinese auction and had everyone present figuring rapidly on tablecloths (paper) as frantic bids were voiced for a basket of groceries. Each bid worth five cents, the total take boosted the coffers of the club after bidding was closed and the prize went to Y's Man Harry Arbie.

Forerunner for Future

Earl Masales, president of the Y's Men's Club was host chairman and Rotarian president Rev. A. H. McKenzie said grace. Y's Man Bill Wilson welcomed the three clubs to the gathering and pointed out no town can get along without its service clubs, as he forecast the meeting was a forerunner for future inter-service meetings.

Welcome Mrs. W. Ballentine As Guest Speaker at Institute

When the members of Acton W.I. met for their March meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Kingsmill, Bower Ave., they were delighted to have an old friend and former associate member, Mrs. Wm. Ballentine, who now resides in Guelph, to speak on the motto of the month, "What the Organization means to the Members."

"Never estimate the value of a woman," was her opening remark, and when you see what one woman can do, just realize what the thousands of members across the country can accomplish. Mrs. Ballentine built her talk around the various departments that programs include, namely home economics, health, citizenship, education, agriculture and Canadian industry and historical research. Each one had a deeper knowledge of the work of the W.I. when she concluded.

Irish Stories

The roll call was answered with an Irish story, adding a little humor to the program, followed by a song sung in four voices.

The standing committee reported for their own department. Mrs. Earl Lambert read an article written by a doctor on health, concerning good food, well prepared. Your vitamins should be purchased in your grocery store, not necessarily in a drug store.

Mrs. George Fryer gave some notes for glamor girls. In New York city you can purchase make-up in any colors to match your clothes even to coloring the hair.

Mrs. Garner Rose said to make sure of comfort during a visit take along your electric blanket. Miss Marjorie Hall gave light lights from a teachers' meeting in Glenwood School, Burlington.

Gift Parcel

Mrs. George Hargrave, the president, was back after a short absence when she was hospitalized and conducted the meeting. The following items were discussed and planned for. Mrs. George Fryer and Mrs. A. Wilderspin were to take care of a gift parcel for a local teacher, recently suffering loss from fire.

The president's conference in May was reported. A motion to send the president was approved. The nominating committee for next year's officers was named. Mrs. F. Anderson, Mrs. George Larenby and Mrs. B. Brown.

Association Plans Uniform Exchange

The regular meeting of the Scout and Guide Mothers' Association was held in the scout hall March 7 with 13 members present. Three guide leaders were present to discuss fund raising for packs and troops.

Arrangements were made for a euchre and bake sale the end of the month. Lunch will be served by the girl guides. Mrs. George Haggel will be in charge of a uniform exchange committee, so everyone was asked to get in touch with her if they have uniforms for sale or exchange.

A supply of light bulbs is to be purchased for use in the scout hall.

The meeting was closed by the president and lunch was enjoyed by all.
