Here we were presented with the announcements and last minute details concerning the trip to Niagara Falls. Mrs. Tom Watson, our captain, came to the meeting. Then the girls were dismissed to play outdoor games under the supervision of the Daisy, Thistle and Forget-me-not patrols.

Jean Hart led the campfire singing and the meeting closed with Solilo Falls the Light of Day and Taps.

As happens each year, the meetings are discontinued for the summer months so—see you this September!

BELCHING SMOKE the once familiar Iron Horse made a final smoky run through Acton recently during a special trip. A few were on hand to snap pictures and wave to the many railroad fans crowded in the coaches. Avid fans motored to various spots along the route in order to capture photos of the steam engine.

Mrs. F. L. McCutcheon was hostess and Mrs. O. Moran presided for the June meeting of the Afternoon Auxiliary, W.M.S. of Knox church. Mrs. H. Mainprize, convener of the program, was assisted by Miss Ruby Clark, Mrs. Wm. McLeod and Mrs. Moran.

Prayer was the theme for the worship service, led by Mrs. McLeod and Mrs. A. J. Buchanan.

Live a Borrowed Life made a very interesting and entertaining program, with Mrs. Mainprize as moderator and a panel of four—Mrs. Moran, president of the auxiliary; Mrs. F. Anderson, a member of the Guelph Presbyterian; Mrs. Kennedy, life membership secretary and guest panelist, Miss E. Cole of the Alert Evening Auxiliary.

Miss Clark borrowed the life of Mrs. A. S. Carr, president of the Council Executive; Mrs. R. MacDonald, the life of Mrs. Dorothy Lukes, port receptionist at Montreal and Quebec City; Mrs. H. L. Behnie, the life of Miss Agnes Gallan, a missionary of the Presbyterian church serving in East Nigeria; and Mrs. E. J. Hassard, the life of Miss Eileen Black serving in Formosa.

One thing all four had in common—each one had gone from the Synodical Society of Toronto and Kingston to serve the church through the Women's Missionary Society.

Mrs. F. Anderson, who had recently attended a conference of the Evening Department of the W.M.S., gave highlights and impressions of that meeting.

Mrs. Fred Cole, convener of supplies, displayed articles made by members for shipment.

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Dave Williamson, who had Mrs. Burt and Mrs. Norton tell about the bus trip. Mrs. Williamson conducted a contest which was won by Mrs. George Henderson Jr. The meeting closed, after which a social hour was spent over a cup of tea.

Mrs. William Norton, Mrs. George Burt and Mrs. Clare Wilson joined Ballinacraig W.A. for a bus trip to Owen Sound and Collingwood Tuesday, June 6th.

SILVERWOOD

Bus Trip Topic At W.I. Meeting

An invitation was received from Limehouse W.I. to join them for their 40th anniversary Thursday, June 15. The minutes of the last meeting were read. Roll call was answered by "Name the first school you attended and what became of it". This proved very interesting.

Notes on Nature

By WES FOUNTAIN

FIELDS AND FORESTS

Many of the major predators in fields such as foxes, hawks and owls live in the surrounding woods. Another active animal that does this is the pilot snake. This large constrictor may reach the length of over eight feet but generally is about four or five feet long. It hunts warm-blooded prey. It is a highly valuable predator as it destroys quantities of mice which do damage to crops.

This snake is easily recognized by its shiny scales, each of which has a low ridge running down its length. The snake is not uniformly black but has light areas along its undersurface.

Mice Warm-Blooded
By far the most common warm-blooded animals in fields are the mice. They breed rapidly, but only live for a year or two in the wild. That is, if they are fortunate enough to escape being eaten.

Field mice are stocky, dark brown animals that are active throughout the year. They construct nests in fields and clear long runways in the grass. When field mice forage for food, they may either pull down plant stems or cut short sections of the stem until the seed head drops. The field mouse is a serious rodent pest. Because of its great numbers and its defenseless nature, it is preyed upon by every flesh-eating animal.

Nocturnal Animal
The fox is generally a nocturnal animal but it can sometimes be seen during the day trotting or resting near its den. The red fox is a skillful hunter and is often considered to be a pest although many consider it to be a valuable predator. Extensive hunting by both parents is needed to find food for their litter. Once the young can fend for themselves, the group disperses.

One of the most ferocious creatures on earth is the tiny shrew. This little animal must devour its own weight in food a day just to survive. They do not hesitate to attack and devour animals larger than themselves. Their most frequent food consists of insects and soil dwelling creatures.

Not only does it have to eat constantly but its whole rate of living is tuned to a high pitch. Both its heartbeat and its rate of breathing may be over 800 times a minute. It sleeps briefly and deeply, perhaps for only a few minutes. A shrew produces several litters of four to eight, but does not often live for more than a year and a half.
