Rockwood Academy

Wetherald felt that his health would not stand up under the strain of running the academy. He, therefore, accepted a teaching post at a Quaker school near Philadelphia and moved there in 1864.

He turned over the Rockwood Academy to two teachers, who acted jointly as principals—Donald McCaig and Alexander McMillan. McCaig was born in Prince Edward Island and had graduated from the Toronto Normal School with high honors. McMillan came from Caledon Township, Peel County, and received his education in St. Thomas and at the University of Michigan.

Both were thoroughly devoted to their profession and continued to run the academy according to Wetherald's original ideas. They did, however, extend the curriculum and introduced commercial courses, and at a later date, added a south wing to the building.

Closed in 1882

In 1871, Donald McCaig disposed of his interest in the academy to his partner, Alexander McMillan, and eventually became a school inspector in the southern Georgian Bay area. McMillan continued to run the school until 1882, at which time it closed, and in 1885 he became the clerk and treasurer of what was then the Corporation of Parkdale.

During the ensuing years the building was used for a number of purposes until 1900 when it was purchased for use as a private home. In 1900 it was sold to Yusef Drenters, O.S.A., of Rockwood who is presently restoring the old academy so that when completed it will appear essentially as it did during the 1850's. The Rockwood Academy remains today a structure of considerable architectural interest, and a monument to one of the province's outstanding pioneer teachers.

Parish Guild Has Barbecue

Members of St. Alban's Parish Guild climaxed their season with the annual barbecue and strawberry social, at the home of Mrs. V. Bristow recently. Chilly weather didn't seem to dampen spirits as stacks of hamburgers, salads and pickles and scrumptious servings of strawberry shortcake disappeared.

Mrs. H. Denny and Mrs. V. Bristow convalesced the outing.

When dishes were done a game of court whist, convened by Mrs. W. Dubois and Mrs. C. Leatherland, was enjoyed in the comfort of the indoors. Tall glasses of delicious punch were served during the game by the hostess, Mrs. E. Blum, who won first prize for high score and Mrs. V. Bristow second.

Miss M. Rowles received the prize for low score. Prize winners for lucky chairs were Mrs. H. Townsley, Mrs. E. Coker and Mrs. J. Creasey Jr.

Mrs. V. Bristow was thanked for her kind hospitality.

A lovely quaffed set of brooch and earrings was presented by Mrs. C. Leatherland on behalf of the Guild to Mrs. E. Blum, who soon will be leaving Acton.

Exciting Days For Sunshiners

The last few weeks of school have been exciting ones for the pupils of the North Halton Association for Retarded Children's Sunshine School at Milton.

Last week they held their closing exercises for parents and friends, this time at Acton, Wednesday of last week they went horse-back riding at the Terrian farm near Brampton, and enjoyed a free ride on the horses, a picnic and races.

Use Full Capacity

"The Department's aim is to double these figures and if students today used their full capacity, this can be accomplished," stressed the speaker. He also told the young pupils that if they could graduate from grade nine, it should be possible for them to graduate from grade 12.

Surprise Party

Tuesday they had a strawberry shortcake treat. Friday morning they threw a surprise party—a closely-guarded secret until the last minute—for principal Mrs. R. P. E. Jeffares, and presented her with a going-away gift prior to her departure for a vacation in Nova Scotia.

This week teacher Mrs. Jean Mitchell has two assistants at the school. Marlene Armstrong of Georgetown and Joanne McArthur of Louisville, who will be counsellors at the retarded children's camps at Fergus and Paris, spent the week in the school working with the students.

90% of all oil company product research in Canada is done by Imperial

The fuels your car will use in the future are being designed today. In Imperial's ultra-modern research laboratories at Sarnia, scientists and technicians are working to ensure that gasoline for today's cars and tomorrow's are tested for top performance. In the last ten years alone Imperial has spent more than $60 million to build the equipment needed to bring you top gasoline quality.

At Imperial Oil's laboratories at Sarnia, Ontario, more than 200 scientists and technicians are working to improve present petroleum products—and to develop new ones. Their research covers many fields, from gasolines to household detergents. Another 130 scientists and technicians are working at Imperial's Calgary laboratories on ways to find and produce more Canadian crude oil and natural gas. Imperial does more research than all other oil companies in Canada combined.
