Halton Market Gardeners Growing New Dwarf Tomato

A new early market tomato developed at the Horticultural Experiment Station, Vineland, has just been named "Venture". This variety has been grown by some of Halton's market gardeners while under the code number 11-12B-1. The plants are small, compact with only a moderate amount of foliage similar in size and plant-type to Fireball.

Fruit of this variety is medium-sized, slightly smaller than Fireball, but remains very uniform. Normally there are very few blemishes or misshapen fruit, and fruit cracking is less severe than it is with many other varieties.

Early Dwarf Variety

In variety trials at Vineland, Venture has been the earliest dwarf variety. Although Venture is not suitable for staking, it comes into production at about the same time as the staked varieties, Harkness and Vogue.

Venture should be grown in the same way as Fireball. At planting time, plants should be only 8 weeks old with fruit or open flowers on the plants at that time. Heavy fertilizing is necessary to ensure adequate growth. A careful spray program to control early blight must be followed to retain the sparse foliage.

Dr. John Wiebe and P. J. E. Albers of the Horticultural Experiment Station have developed this variety for earliness and good fruit appearance.

—Only 45 shopping days left till Christmas.

—Halton County Plowing match which was cancelled due to the snow Saturday, will be held this Saturday instead.

Waterloo Wins Gridiron League

Waterloo-Oxford District High school emerged as league champions when they defeated Preston 13-12 on Monday afternoon. The "Wads" as they are commonly known went through the entire gridiron season without a loss. Only a tie with Milton in the first game of the season marred their season record.

They defeated Georgetown 14-13, Acton, Bishop Macdonnell 43-7 and Preston in gaining nine out of a possible 10 points during the season. They will now enter the C.W.O.S.S.A. playoffs.

Georgetown finished the season second with four wins and one loss, to the "Wads". Preston was third with three wins and two losses, Acton was fourth with one win and four losses. Bishop Macdonnell left the league after two losses. Their remaining games were awarded by default to their opponents.

SPOTLIGHT ON

RECREATION

By JIM CASHEM

The world is a wonderful place for children, full of interesting things to do and to be seen.

As a Recreational Director I have a prime obligation to see that play opportunities are made available to this group.

A child needs a variety of recreational experiences through a variety of recreational media. Leaders for this age group must continually strive to meet the ever-changing needs and interests.

All ten-year-olds do not like the same recreational activities. However, their recreational preferences are certainly not as diversified as those of the adult.

All Different

Suggesting that all girls or all boys like to do certain things is a wrong attitude. More harm can come from forcing uninterested recreational activities onto these children than by completely ignoring them.

Many boys couldn't care less about chasing a puck across an ice surface. Similarly, many girls might never crave to join a figure skating club. Yet, how many times have you seen, or even been a party to, the attitude "she's just not interested in anything."

Easy Way Out

Are we sure? Have we even bothered to find out? Have we taken the easy way out? What about this girl who does not want to figure skate? Can we not have a craft group for her? The answer, of course, is yes. We as a community must provide the chance for this person to participate in some physical or social activity of their choice.

Too many times recreation people are singled out because they spend too much time on the physical aspect of recreation. They boys in most communities seem to have unlimited recreation opportunities, hockey with its free coaching, free officiating, adequate facilities, and equipment.

sponsorship all provided — all the boy has to provide is HIMSELF.

How About Girls? But, how about the girls? In figure skating she has to buy skates, skating outfit, pay a good fee for lessons to a professional.

Do boys want a large amount of out recreation dollar and girls so little? Let us not forget the basic purpose of a recreation program that of providing training in good sportsmanship and good citizenship through a whole same program for as many as possible.

Let us also avoid placing too much stress on winning championships, having large numbers of players, having high attendances, and figures, individual fees and money we have spent — but rather let us sell it on the value to the participant — really all that counts.

Participation Key

Participation is the key word in the recreation field. It can open many doors for boys and girls to activities in which they can gain satisfaction and sincere happiness.

Remember the child of today is the adult of tomorrow. Therefore, these childhood recreation experiences, to a large degree, determine the recreational preferences of the adult.

OPEN DEER SEASON

There will be an open deer season in 15 southern Ontario counties on November 5, 6, and 7. These counties are Halton, Hamilton, Kent, Lambton, Norfolk, Northumberland, Oxford, Waterloo, Wellington and Westmorland. Good hunting opportunities will be available during these days.
