

SAFETY MARKS for young bicycle riders, were pointed out Tuesday, at both Robert Little and M. Z. Bennett schools by O.P.P. constable Ron Rupert. Pupils were given the rules of the road and told to obey signs. Early next month a bicycle inspection is planned and safety stickers will be handed out at the schools. Looking over, some of the rules left to right are Wendy Fryer, John Rozzell, constable Rupert and Dianne Frank.

Police Push Bike Safety

Public-school pupils were busy checking and repairing bicycles Tuesday after school hours.

The reason? During the day, Constable Ron Rupert of the Acton O.P.P. Detachment stressed bicycle safety and pointed out responsibilities of every bicycle rider.

The constable told the pupils at both the M. Z. Bennett and Robert Little schools the safety factors when operating their bicycle and stressed the importance of having their equipment in first class condition.

Youngsters after school overhauled their bicycles and checked equipment thoroughly. Police hope the safety campaign will not only be taken to heart by the youngsters but parents will also realize the importance of the program.

Constable Rupert hopes to visit the schools again in June to have a bicycle check and issue safety-check stickers for those whose bicycles are in first class safety condition.

D. A. McArthur Guest Speaker At C. of C. Rural-Urban Night

"In addressing a group such as is present here this evening, I might well entitle my address 'Fellow Business Men' because of the interdependence and similarities that exist between the farmer and the non-farmer," said Don McArthur, agricultural representative of the Ontario Extension Branch of the Agricultural Service.

Mr. McArthur went on to show that there is a direct parallel in the management of farm and management of business and that interdependence is becoming more important to the rural and urban communities. "We are each others' buyers," he said.

He was guest speaker at the annual rural-urban night dinner, sponsored by the Acton Chamber of Commerce at the Station Hotel Wednesday evening. 13 district farmers were guests of the agricultural committee of the Chamber, under the chairmanship of Nino Braida. Mr. Braida appropriately introduced the farmer-guests individually prior to the address.

Praise Chamber
Mayor Leslie Doby spoke briefly congratulating the C. of C. on the institution of an annual rural-urban dinner in honor of community farmers and commented on favorable association which existed between the rural and urban communities.

Mr. Allan J. Francis, who was guest speaker at last year's C. of C. annual rural-urban night introduced Mr. Don McArthur.

Nino Braida thanked the guest speaker on behalf of the chamber and Smith Griffin extended the vote of thanks to the Chamber of Commerce and guest speaker for an interesting address and a delightful dinner.

President Paul Nielsen welcomed the guests and members before the dinner remarking that it is always a pleasure to arrange for this annual get-together when merchants, business men and local farmers meet together to discuss mutual problems and enjoy a social evening at least once a year.

Lions Carnival Begins Tonight

There'll be a razzle-dazzle opening to the summer season in the park this weekend when the Lions' fourth annual carnival is set up, with all its color, noise and fun. This has become an annual project for the club that the children look forward to with great eagerness.

The club has been promised by contract a specified number of rides, probably including a Ferris wheel and merry-go-round. Happyland Shows will also bring along games of chance.

The first trucks moved in yesterday and the carnival starts tonight to continue tomorrow night and all day Saturday.

Lions will be manning the ticket wickets and lively Lionettes will be selling chances for draws. These tickets have been on the market for the past two months! There are 25 draw prizes and draws will be made all three evenings.

Funds raised will go to the charitable and community projects of the Lions club, Murray Harrison and Vic Bristow are chairmen of the carnival this year.

Four Students

Four high school students will be attending the United Nations seminar in Kitchener, June 23 to 28. They are Mary Beth Elliott, Richard Inrside, Don Long and David Lidkea. Sponsors for the venture are the Duke of Devonshire chapter of the IODE, Lakeside chapter of the IODE, the Rotary club and the Legion.

Increased Water Pressure Causes Minor Flood Friday

Considered the biggest break since the water pressure has been increased, a four-inch line at the Free Press building gave out Friday night and the inside of part of the main floor was covered with from two to four inches of water.

Two employees, Murray Scovne and Hartley Coles were working overtime on the second floor and only by chance was the break discovered when Mr. Scovne made a trip to the main floor.

It was met at the doorway to the work area by a flood of fast rising water and immediately called to Mr. Coles. After several phone calls, town superintendent All Doby was located and he and town employee Sam Tennant had soon turned off the main valve at the street line.

Fortunately, rolls of paper used in newspaper production were stacked high and dry on skids and other stock was out of reach of the water. In Frank Jellier's industry, located in the rear section of the building.

Repairs were made Saturday and operations were back to normal Monday morning. If the break had not been discovered when it was, machinery and stock would have been seriously damaged.

According to Sam Tennant over 200,000 additional gallons of water were pumped through the town mains at the time of the break but how much of this went through the broken pipe is unknown.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY
You can't recapture the joys of youth by acting as the young do. Making a fool of yourself isn't any fun when you know you're doing so.
