

Visitor from Scotland Brings Greetings Via Tape Recorder

Scottish brogue was flying fast and free at a party given Saturday evening at the home of James and Terry Slaven, greeted each other in the first time in 15 years. The brothers were reunited for a three-week visit when James Slaven and his daughter Irene arrived from their home in Stevenston, Ayrshire, Scotland. Back in 1948, James Slaven, engineer by trade, left the highlands of Scotland and sailed to South Africa to work. This was the parting of the ways for the brothers. In 1952, Terry Slaven and his attractive wife and infant son James arrived in Canada. Recently they settled at their home at R.R. 1, Acton.

The reunion Saturday was not only a pleasant surprise to Terry Slaven but to his wife as well. She greeted her brother-in-law for the first time. For the Slaven children living in Acton, it meant seeing an uncle for the first time and welcoming their first cousin Irene.
