

Honor Orwell Johnson

from Powassan to Acton. Next year they will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary on September 16.

He has lived on the home farm all his life. His brother, Roy Johnson and his wife, Edna also live on the home farm.

Guest Speaker
Dr. Lautenschlager at both services spoke of Emmanuel college, of which he was recently made principal. It is a professional college teaching men and women for the ministry of the United Church, and is a college of Victoria College in the University of Toronto.

The objective of every church should be to have a man or woman studying for the ministry, he declared, and expressed pleasure that a young lady (Miss Kay Dennis, sitting in the choir) was studying with the hope of continuing in theology.

In his morning sermon, titled "Play," he explained the chief end of man is to glorify God and enjoy Him forever. The glory to come casts its shadow before, and we can enjoy it now. The ability to rejoice marks us as belonging to the Kingdom of God.

In the evening, speaking on "Service," he said the two roads to salvation are faith and good works. Christian ethics demands service. Human life obediently lived is doing our work, and the church served as the centre of human service. It is the command of God that we witness and work — both are in the nature of service.

Religion-Labor New Committee

David Archer, president of the Ontario Federation of Labor, predicted more professional workers will be joining unions. He was addressing the founding meeting of the Oakville District Labor Council's Religion and Labor Committee, Monday.

Mr. Archer told the meeting doctors and lawyers played a major role in the trade union movement in Europe. He said all sections of society had to work together to solve the problem of automation. "We have to adapt ethical values to a society that is run by machines," he said.

Mr. Archer was presenting labor's viewpoint in a panel discussion moderated by Rev. A. R. Arkwright of Etobicoke. Speaking for management was W. D. Moffatt, president of the E. B. Eddy Co. Mr. Moffatt told the audience it was government's job to create employment and industry's job to make money.

"If we don't, it would mean the failure of the competitive system," he said. Mr. Moffatt said increased employment would automatically follow in increased production.

Attending from Acton was Rev. A. H. McKenzie, of Knox Presbyterian Church.

From Overseas Visitors

Album on Acton, England Presented to Rotary Club

A beautiful album complete with pictures, maps and stories about Acton, England, was the gift from the Acton, England Rotary Club to Acton Rotarians, Tuesday evening when the past president of the English club, George Davenport, visited here.

Renewing old acquaintances with the English visitor were Rotarians Fred Wright, Max Sprawl and James B. Ledger. Mr. Wright visited the Acton, England club the year of the Coronation in 1953. Max Sprawl in 1948 and Mr. Ledger has just returned from a trip this year.

Parents Canadian
Mr. Davenport and his wife are enjoying a visit to North America when they flew here on a charter flight from England. He is in the construction and real estate business and was born in Acton, England, although both parents are Canadians. His last visit to Canada was at the age of 14.

He was introduced by Mr. Sprawl and thanked by president Ron Lewis.

During the evening following the regular dinner session, Acton Rotarians learned of the town of Acton, England as well as the operation of the Rotary Club there. It was interesting to hear that during the First World War 23 factories were wiped out by bombs and these have not been rebuilt as some of this area was be designated for parking areas to reduce the congestion. At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. and Mrs. Davenport and local Rotarians were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Shields.

While in town the Davenports were guests of the Ledgers.

CAROL SWACKHAMER of Acton was chosen Halton's champion livestock showman during the 4-H program of Milton Fair Friday afternoon. She was best in the dairy competition, then beat out beef-champ Larry Gardhouse to win the coveted honor.

John Root Back Big Majority

John Root took the election night returns at his headquarters in the community centre, Hillsburgh, where a large crowd gathered in the auditorium. On the stage was a blackboard for the Wellington-Dufferin returns and TV for the provincial. Doug Las Gray announced the results over a public address system.

When every municipality in Wellington-Dufferin had reported it was apparent that John Root had established a record by winning substantial majorities in each municipality, for a total majority of 4,446 over the Liberal candidate and 6,995 over the NDP on a plurality of 2 to 1 over the combined Opposition.

When the results were complete, Mr. Gray asked Mr. Root to come to the platform. The newly re-elected member thanked his friends and supporters for their efforts and the results that were apparent for all to see. He introduced Mrs. Harry Bart, who had acted as campaign director in four successful elections, and Brook Davis, editor of The Drayton Advocate, active in public relations over the years. Mr. Root had been in public life.

Mr. Root was particularly happy to learn that James G. Ferrer of R.R. Grand Valley had voted at Colbeck Hall in East Larches. Mr. Ferrer is 101 years old and lives with his daughter, Mrs. Stewart Gardner.

There are directional signs to the World Plowing Match up in town. Quite a few from here are planning to go.

HALTON COUNCIL BRIEFS

At the September meeting of Halton County Council on Thursday:

• A by-law authorizing all county roads to be declared "through highways" was ordered, following receipt from O.P.P. of a list of stop signs that are presently illegally erected.

• The engineer reported on plans to improve the intersection of Five Sideroad at the Nassagaweya Esplanade Town Line, the scene of several recent accidents.

• A November date for the annual Warden's Dinner was discussed, but not finalized. Most councillors favored a banquet prior to municipal election time.

• Solicitors Sharpe and Nichols of Milton were retained as county solicitors, at $1,000 per annum.

• The roads committee recommended that where good trees are destroyed in reconstruction of roads the county should replace them with suitable trees.

• Council approved preparation of a by-law authorizing the county to assume control of the road between Milton Heights and the Kelson Conservation area.

• The engineer was asked to obtain prices on installing a flashing light at the Drumquin intersection on the Seventh Line, Oakville. This corner has also been the scene of several bad accidents in the past few years, and a coroner's jury inquiring into a recent fatality there, recommended a flashing light.

• The roads committee recommended that where good trees are destroyed in reconstruction of roads the county should replace them with suitable trees.
