THIS COLUMN ATTEMPTS to confine its remarks to the local sports scene. Paving the larger and wider world of professional athletics as the preserve of the dailles, where it belongs. Sometimes, however, we feel a comment or two on the passing scene isn't amiss especially when it concerns fans in this neck of the woods indirectly. I can imagine the looks of horror and resentment which mit rored the thoughts of some bath night shinny fans recently when the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Chicago Black Hawks decided to throw off restraint and have at one another with their knuckles The magic lantern in the corner recorded the scene like a Cecil B

De Mille production of the battle of burnt gulch. The gladiators shed their gloves and sticks and engaged in a wild melec as you'd see when Simpson's stage a ladies' coat sale in their basement department. There was lots of pushing and shoving bear hugging and slugging but most of the fists fell wide of the mark . A lew of the athletes were curious about what the other fellows wore under their sweaters. They attempted to slide them; over their opponent's head. It must have been disappointing for TV' a, VI lead fans to find all that's worn under those illustrious Toronto jerseys. was a humdrum pair of braces, some protective padding and a in to register for Cyclones in the pair of long johns. For the successful sweater, pullers it was more disappointing | Bruce and Fred Dunn. Then Fred. There were no secret weapons; not even a stiletto or a transistor Dunn pulled the trigger and connected with the deadlocking radio to pick up the coach's instructions

Myself I kept hoping a Scotsman would wander onto the ice counter. He got help from R afressed in national costume. Like many others I've often wondered Parsons what they work under their kills. This occasion could have supplied. Six penalties were assessed by the answer for tans all across Canada and the United States . . . lotticials no otax: solving more _ Unfortunately the only Scot present at the time seemed to their one be Frank Mahowlich Frie Nesterenko was missing. All Frank was interested in was pulling white sweaters off blue sweaters Sumeone should have preserved the scene for posterity Al Women with water on the little bland in the picture and you'd have a design for the new knee should wear pumps Canadian flag It would have been recognized all over Furope and! been an improvement on some designs already submitted

When the referees got the combatants separated and peace and harmony was restored, the we was littered with gloves whicks pads sweaters and hot tempers. No one was seriously burt. Both teams were worn out

At one end of the Gardens the two goaltenders, Simmons of the Leafs and Hall of Chicago leaned on their sticks and anniably conferred on the terrible state of intentational affairs

Afterwinth of the flatic flanco came this week when Clarence Campboll, N.H.L. press, blamed it on two guys who only slugged is out by proxy - the conches. You guys, sed the pres. are each fined 1,000 amacherones for not controlling your teams better. Billy Reav's wife wasn't available for comment but Punch Imlach's frau said she would have to return all the Christmas presents she bought. Couldn't afford then now, she said. The tours came slowly to my eyes but when the boas said be'd contribute his Lone Ranger button to any fund I'd like to start for Punch and family I dropped my Mickey Moune hat into the ring. Any more contributions?

Tambers Meet Fergus Friday

Officials of the Tanners felt the rest would do the team good and let_players get in xome Christmas shopping. Flyers Here

Tomorrow night the Tanners old nemesis, Fergus Flyers, pay a visit to Acton. Flyers are in third position in the league, a point ahead of the Tanners, with three wins, a tie and two losses in six games.

Bob Dobbie has been the hig gun for the Fergus chib this season since the retirement of Paul Knox. Flyers also have two or three new faces in the line-up. Both their losses have, been to the league's top two. Orangeville and Milton. If the losses don't stop, don't be surprised if Knox doesn't return to the line-up.

The Tanners, meanwhile, are batting .500 with three wins and as many losses in six games Coach Junior Beaumont should have a full squad out for both games this week with the excep tion-of Bud Haines, who is still

Fred Kentner has been prac ticing again and he'll likely re Orangeville turn to his blue line post this Milton week. It's also likely you'll see Fergus Jack (Nipper) Marshall in the Acton nets. The coach hopes to rotate Georgetown Nipper and Norm Lockhurst for Cheltenham the rest of the season providing Elora they play up to expectations.

Fans will also be happy if man unbesten streak to six games by possession of third. Raiders are touchables ahead to stay.
