Pretty Boxes, Lunches For Brownie's Party

Saturday morning saw a happy gathering of 30 little girls at the school hall when the Third Acton Brownie Pack had their Christmas party, a little late but with all the excitement that goes with the festive season. The hall was decked with colorful streamers and balloons, done the day before by some helpful Rangers.

A table was decorated to receive the gay lunch boxes the Brownies were asked to bring to exchange.

Games were played, starting with the old favorite, Blind Man's Buff. A lively dance with the help of recorded music followed. A competition for the best paper hat gained a few prizes for small fingers and no did bursting balloons back to back when one is wearing a bulky knit sweater sent by Santa. Pins were found handy in both cases. Another game, playing clothes on a line, caused plenty of noise and laughter.

Some talented elves and gnomes gave a turn on the piano and sang and danced etc.

Lunch boxes were distributed just on the stroke of 12. It seemed that each mother had made a special effort to make her box the daintiest and tastiest. Chocolate milk went along with it.

Everyone went home in good spirits, promising to be back the following week to a regular meeting and work hard on their badges once again.

Betty Allonby, Eric Hills Marry in St. Alban's Church

Years of white rooms decorated the Church of St. Alban the Martyr on Saturday December 7 at 3:30 p.m. for the marriage of Jean Elizabeth (Betty) Allonby of Acton and Eric Alfred Hills of Rockwood. The Rev. Donald West officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, employed here at the Bank of Montreal, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Allonby of Lindsay. The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hills, Rockwood, is employed at the Canadian Meter Company in Milton and the couple is living there.

Guests with the bride were the bride's mother, Mrs. Jean Allonby, and her sisters, Miss Margaret Allonby, a sister of the bride, and Miss Joan Hills, a sister of the groom.

The bride wore a long-sleeved gown of white with a detachable train, fitted bodice with round neckline and a row of five buttons to the waist. A halo of crystal-like Aurora Borealis stones and rhinestones held a shoulderlet veil of fine nylon tulle. She carried a white prayer book with red roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Margaret Allonby, a sister of the bride, wore a dress of white with three-quarter length sleeves. She carried a cascade of white mums and red carnations.

The bridesmaids, Miss Joan Hills, sister of the groom, and Miss Pat Patterson of Guelph. They wore matching dresses of red satin brocade and carried cascades of white mums. All the attendants wore red bouffant coronets with attached tulle veiling.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and the usher were Robert Allonby, a brother of the bride, and James Mooney of Guelph.

Mrs. Frank Outks played the organ and Victor Bristow, the soloist, sang O Perfect Love. The bride's and attendants' dresses were all made by Mrs. Agnes Allen, Acton.

Reception in Hall: Friends and relatives were received by the wedding party in Linton Memorial Hall. The bride's mother chose a grey three-piece double-breasted suit with a white hat and black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The couple left on a trip to Niagara, the bride wearing a beige two-piece suit with dark brown accessories and a corsage of red roses.

There were guests from Brampton, Brantford, Kitchener, Preston, Listowel, Guelph and Rockwood, as well as Acton.

Shower: Many useful and beautiful gifts were received by the bride at showers held before the wedding. On November 4, Mrs. J. F. Smith and Mrs. B. Jordan held a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Jordan. On November 11, a miscellaneous shower was given by Miss Joan Hills and Mrs. Robert Patterson at the home of Mrs. Patterson's mother, Mrs. F. Schneider. On November 16, Mrs. James Mooney was hostess at a personal shower for the bride.

Red Roses, Pine, Gold Balls Carried By Christmas Bride

A Christmas bride was Sara (Bally) Thomson, who married Peter H. Bowman on Saturday, December 26, at 10:30 a.m. in St. Alban's Church. The Rev. Donald West officiated at the double-ring ceremony with communion.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Thomson of R. R. 2, Acton, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Bowman, 18 Riverview City, Georgetown.
