POUNDING WATER pouring over one of the falls at the Rockwood Conservation area caused a preponderance of foam which attracted a Rockwood photographer's attention. The spring thaw swelled the river and overflowed the dams on the river.

Display Gymnastics, Dances At Rockwood Home, School

The Rockwood Home and School had a large attendance for their March meeting. Miss Neff of S. S. 9 has been teaching the grades 7 and 8 boys and girls physical education. Thirteen boys were present and gave a very fine display of gymnastics.

Preventive Medicine

"A sound mind in a sound body is what we strive for," said the speaker, "and knowledge and practice of healthful living may be one of the greatest gifts of education." Physical education teacher, John E. Ross C.V.I. can be a source of preventive medicine" he continued, "for we taken from the opening of school teach teenagers to respect the human body even after they leave school. The speaker explained how the students were marked on P.T. and said that marks were now given for effort as well as merit. Mr. Smith felt since physical education was a mark the student might improve his or her efforts on their own, especially in a locality where nearly everyone has a back yard or place to improve these abilities.

A question period followed when interested parents tried to voice their problems on the matter. Mr. Smith was thanked by Mrs. Driber.

The hymn "O Love that will of the Presbyteral The morning not let me go," written by Rev. George Matheson in his home in 1862, was read by Mrs. W. Guild, the Covenant. During the afternoon, Unit Oneader, at the Match meeting of the Rockwood United Church U.C.W. recently, Mrs. Guild gave many interesting facts about the hymn and writer, saying it was indeed "from the heart and the truth of suffering" although no one seems to know what had been the situation.

The devotional was taken by Mrs. A. McPhedran, who spoke on how God acts today, as well as in Bible times. His Word is for us today as well as when Jesus walked on the earth and His power is as great through the Holy Spirit. Hymn 100 was read in unison, followed by the prayer of general thanksgiving.

Mrs. McPhedran read a piece in which the writer stated that for him there were two golden days in every week — yesterday and tomorrow — which he never worried about. Yesterday is gone and tomorrow yet to come. They both are God's. As for today, God has promised us strength for the day to those who believe on Him.

After a short business period, Mrs. Guild spoke on the report of the United Church outputs and their Christian work. He stated the need of dedicated helpers and said "Begin where you are and do what you can. We need the people." In the evening, Judge Austin of Guelph spoke on "Acres of Diamonds" and discussed the dangers and heartbreaks of immature marriage.

Mrs. Guild also read an article where three University of Toronto students had been interviewed. These young people had gone to India and lived among the people for one year. One student, when asked what his thoughts were when he returned to Canada, replied, "When I go out and see the endless lines of cars, I think, what a senseless rush."

After the benediction, a lovely lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. Frank Ostrander.

Institute District President Suggests "Show Appreciation"

Mrs. Ivan Harris, Bower Ave., welcomed the members of the "Acton Women's Institute" to her home for the March meeting.

When Miss Charlotte Turner of Scotch Block, W.L. and district president for Halton County was the guest speaker, Miss Turner spoke from the theme "By helping others up the ladder of life, we get nearer the top ourselves." She recommended to start in your own home by showing appreciation to the father in the home, encourage your children with the little chores that they do, their school work etc. Don't save all your kind words for outsiders! She quoted a poem "Careless Words" by Margaret Sangster.

Sailor Watched Sinking, Rescue

Ordinary Seaman Jack Bolton now in the Royal Canadian Navy on the destroyer Crescent, took part in the exciting operation when the Liberian tanker Amphiarus sank during a wild storm 390 miles east of Boston.

The Crescent stood by to help while the survivors were being taken on board another R.C.N. destroyer Athabaskan.

Jack will have some interesting stories to tell when he next contacts Rockwood. His brothers, Paul and Danny, are especially anxious to hear from him. Jack's base is at present Halifax, but he is billeted on the Crescent.
