One-Man Show in Toronto This Spring For Artist, Sculptor Andrew Drenters

Arton is indeed fortunate in having a talented young artist in this district, in the person of Andrew Drenters of R.R. 4, Arton.

This young man was born in Flanders, Belgium, 26 years ago. With his family he emigrated to Canada in 1951, settling first in R.C. where they farmed. Later they moved to a beautiful farm on Highway 24, 7 miles south of Guelph.

Artist in Family

Coming from a talented and artistic family, it was no surprise when Andy began his interesting work. His father, Joseph, is an iron worker, and has made many beautiful sculptures with a religious theme.

His brother Yves is a noted painter and sculptor with his work being well received both here and in the United States. Yves lives and works at the historic Rockwood Academy.

Andy is encouraged in his work by his wife, Shirley, Shirley Beckman of Toronto, whom he married in June 1963. Their attractive home, 2 miles south of Arton on Highway 25, is decorated with many interesting paintings and sculptures.

The creations designed by this young man are both amusing and ingenious, made as they are of discarded farm machinery and broken useless tools. These materials are turned into clever interpretations of people and animals, and have been on display in the Sol Gallery in Georgetown since last summer.

New Era for Shorthorns Seen by Local President

Summing up the sentiments expressed at the annual meeting of the Canadian Shorthorn Association held at Kambles, B.C., in coming President R. W. Gardhouse of Milton commented, "We are entering into a new era of Shorthorn expansion." He was referring to the quickening of interest evident right across Canada in recent months.

Retiring President George DePape, Winnipeg, Man., called attention to the sound financial position of the Association, with a 1963 surplus of $4,208 and total assets of $11,921.03. The report of the Secretary, Mrs. C. C. Gough, showed registrations totaling 13,477 transfers, 90880 and memberships 2,409, with Ontario leading in each category, followed in order by Saskatchewan and Alberta.

First in World

Reporting on the herd classification program, Promotional Director F. H. Stoll, Guelph, listed a total of 4,258 animals classified.

temperations of people and animals, and have been on display in the Sol Gallery in Georgetown since last summer.

Welder, Skater

As there is welding involved in this creative work, Andy has been helped and encouraged by D.S. O'Rourke who has been instructing him in welding technique.

Besides his interest in art, Andy is a figure skater, instructor in youth classes in Peabody, Georgetown and Milton, with his special attention paid to the little tots. Many of his pupils also depend on him to sharpen their skates.

This busy young man is also employed part time for the Hamilton Industrial Shoe Co. in Arton.

First Show

On April 22 under the name of Andrew Drenters, he is having his first show at the Pollock Art Gallery, 589 Markham St., Toronto.

Of notable interest to visitors will be the Passing Quaker, Wagon and Deep Sea Diver, with the Eccentric Elephant and the Esplanade Bullock making a disconcerting with their charm and amusing simplicity.

Many friends of this modest young man are wishing him every success with his first Toronto showing and are looking forward with interest to his future art shows.

EFFECTIVE ALARM

On the Pacific Coast a work man rigged up a bed ticking device to wake him up in the morning. The device consisted of one night's rest on the bed, the awaking him too early.
