Name Miss M. Z. Bennett Citizen of Year for '64

Spated by the Guild. A group from Clinton had come to see how Chamber of Commerce meetings are run with Allan Edwards, who for a while was pharmacist at Cooper's drug store. They saw a fast-moving, well-planned meeting which excited the enthusiasm and praise of everyone present.

At the head table were Mr. and Mrs. J. Bert Wood, Chamber director; Jim Ledger and Mrs. Ledger; the speaker, the Rev. Richard Jones; Dwight Engel who said Grace; chairman of the civic committee and program M.C. Roy Goodwin and Mrs. Goodwin; president Paul Nielsen and Mrs. Nielsen; Mayor Les Duby, who welcomed everyone and Mrs. Duby; director Bill Mackay and Mrs. Mackay.

Sang Favorite

While tables were cleared and again after the program, the Melody Men — Dave Benham and Wayne Duffield of Guelph — played accordion and drums and led in a singsong.

A telegram was read from Dr. Harry Harley, who was unable to attend.

Attributes of Citizen

With his usual rapid-fire volley of jokes and anecdotes which have made him one of the most popular after-dinner speakers in the province, the Rev. Richard Jones wove into his address, five points he would look for in choosing a Citizen of the Year, recognizing Miss Bennett embodies them all. First came a sense of humor, which certainly teachers need "otherwise they would go crazy." Next was doing an essential job, finding it challenging and making a worthwhile contribution. He felt patience and ability to motivate were essential for teachers, following his sound advice for teachers in a series of comical recollections.

Third comes a "community" person, interested in other things. Next was a person interested in Canada itself, and affiliated organizations. "Believe in this country... and know about it," he recommended.

Finally, he would seek a person who gave support to a church and had spiritual motivations.

Dr. Jones, roundly applauded, had been introduced by Jim Ledger and thanked by Bill Mackay who presented him with a wallet made of leather tanned in Acton.

Add Congratulations

As the music played after the program, many friends, fellow teachers and former pupils gathered around Miss Bennett to congratulate her and take pictures. Among those sitting with their

Fellow Policemen At Guelph Funeral

Some 300 police officers from all parts of the province attended funeral services in Guelph Wednesday of last week for Eric MacAtulay of the Guelph police department, who died from injuries in a traffic accident the weekend before. It was a full-dress police funeral and 382 officers in uniform marched from the police station to St. Andrew's Presbyterian church behind the muffled drums of the Hamilton Police Association Pipe Band.

Representing the Acton police force were Const. Ron Rupert, Const. Mervin Harness and Const. Bruce Kressler.

Fifteen minutes before the funeral began the church was filled to overflowing. Rev. R. F. Thomson, formerly of Knox church, Acton, conducted the service, saying the late officer had brought honor to every man who wears the police uniform. It is gratifying we live in a land of peace, where laws are honored and respected. "Greater love hath no man than that he lay down his life for his friends," he quoted.

The policeman's widow is a nurse at St. Joseph's hospital, Guelph, and a group of 30 nurses in uniform attended the funeral.

Action Man Charged

May 6 was fixed by Crown Attorney J. M. Kearns, O.C. for preliminary hearing of the charge of manslaughter arising out of Guelph's first traffic fatality this year. He also agreed to bail of $1,000 cash or two sureties of $1,000 each acceptable to the Crown.

Ronald McEachern, Acton, is charged with manslaughter, criminal negligence, failing to remain, dangerous driving and impaired driving as a result of the April 4 fatal injuries to Guelph police officer Eric MacAtulay. He told Magistrate H. R. Howitt counsel had not yet been obtained by his wife and Mr. Kearns, pointing out the seriousness of the charges, said the accused was entitled to bail which could be set if date for a preliminary hearing was set.

He appeared in court in Guelph Monday.
