BELL LINES

by L. G. Denby your telephone manager

NOT VISIBLE

I suppose it may seem strange bringing up icebergs in May, but it suddenly occurred to me that they have something in common with the telephone business! — Just like the greater part of an iceberg, the greater bulk of technological advances in telephone service is not visible to the average person. If asked, I suspect most telephone users would say that phone styles have changed over the years, and that transmission has improved markedly, but that in general telephone service serves the same single function today as it did fifty years ago. Not so! For example, telephone lines today carry computer "talk" as well as people's conversations, and carry charts, diagrams, drawings, musical scales and even handwriting as if it is being written! Again, telephone lines are used to regulate traffic lights from remote control positions, or to regulate the flow of oil or natural gas in pipelines spanning the continent. But, as I say, many of these aspects are not apparent to the average customer.

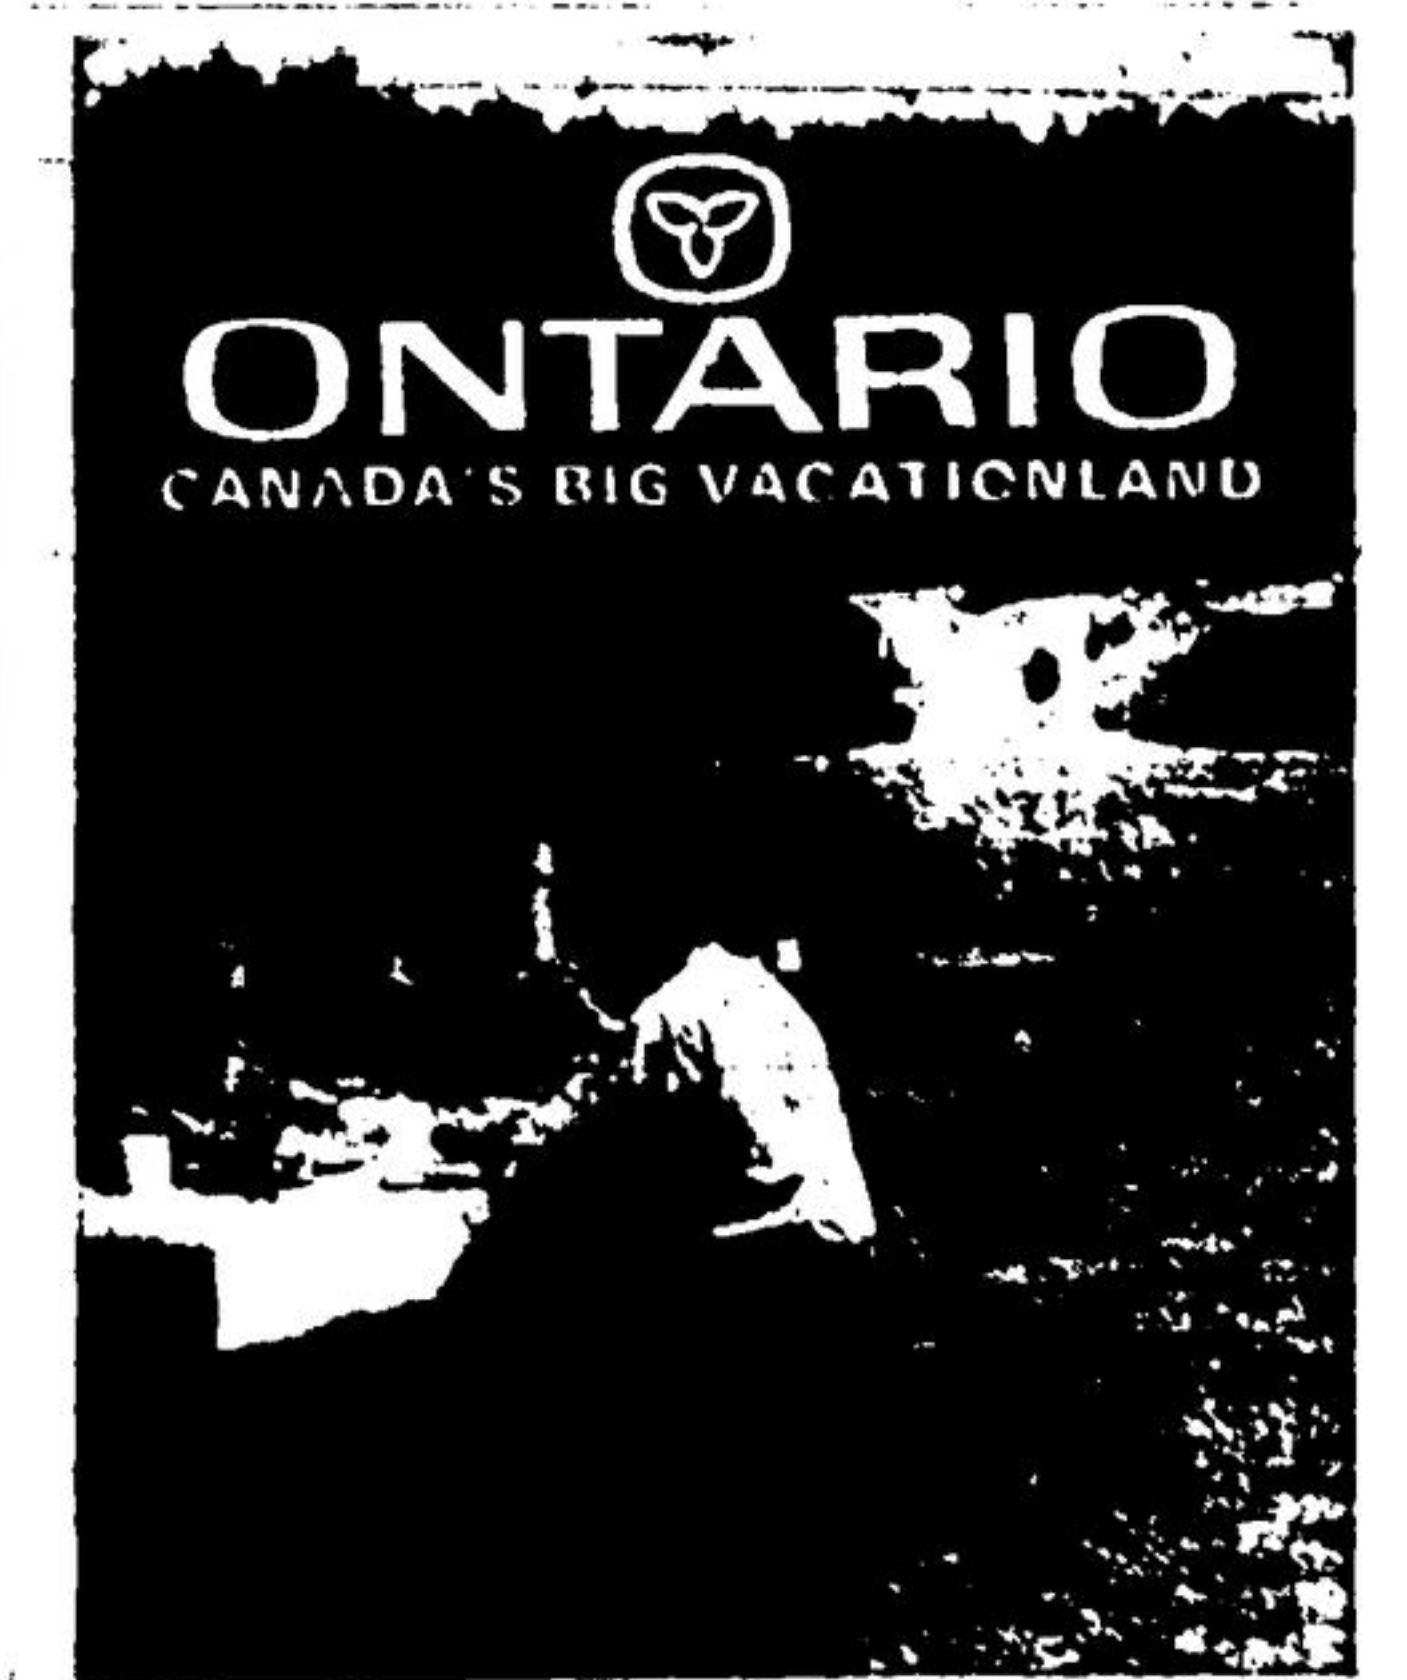

CUSTOM MADE

I'd like to bring your attention again to the special telephone handsets that we provide for customers with speech or hearing difficulties. The "handset for confidential conversations" is not only meant for people who wish to speak softly for privacy, but for those who, perhaps as the result of an operation, cannot speak as loudly as they wish. (And for laryngectomies, of course, there is the artificial larynx.) The handset for impaired hearing contains a rotary switch that raises the caller's voice level to desired strength. If either of these handsets, or the artificial larynx, could possibly make your life a little pleasanter, please don't hesitate to call our Business Office and inquire about them.

On impulse, the man had written to an old friend with whom he'd been out of touch for many years. When the out-of-town friend received the letter, he made a Long Distance call to our impulsive pal. "Your letter really surprised me after such a long time," he said, "And what's more... today is my birthday so I thought I'd give myself a birthday present and call you!"
