The enen who pass the chapeau intimated several regular patrons conveniently decide to locate elsewhere when they saw the collection plate coming. Others just ignored it. Some would obligingly sprinkle a few pennics in. What can be done about it? The meeting was almost usanimous -- nothing. You can't charge to get in or the massiation runs into additional expenses for renting the park. You can't force someone to drop a worthwhile contribution late the box. So It's likely the fame who carried the freight for last year's softball will continue to do so this season.

MOCKEY PLAYOFFED You've out the Stanley Cup on the TV box, an approaching final for Acton Tanners, industrial league final, town league minor playoffs, junior 'A' action on channel 9. There's hockey fare for everyone,

From the small, pint-vised toddler on his first pair of skates to the smooth, sauve professional soeking the Stanley Cup, thousands are embroiled in the elimination contests leading to the sports' most elusive prise - a chambionship.

Down at the legion town league playoffs Saturday the Junior 'A' final was underway. Hamilton turned in a 60 whitewash over Niagara Falls. After the game the jubilant Wings patted their goalie on the back, pushed him down. Everybody laid on him trying to muss his hair. He must have been crushed

The Baltimore club calebrated. They won the championship. A cup in the hands of an excited voussenter may not corry the fame, glory or cash wrapped up to Lord Stanley's mug but M means just as much to him.

NEXT WEEK the spotlight will shift to the Tanners as they go after their first W.O.A.A. championship against either Port Elgin or Durham. Pirst mime will be either Monday or Wednesday here depending on the length of the northern series. The Acton club had a good work-out last Friday against the pick-up Guelph team but exhibitions are not substitute for the real thing. Word from the north is that Port Eighn will be a tough nut to crack if they win the northern final. They're in real good shape and have been playing regularly.

Rae West, who saw Monday's game in Durham in which the Huskies tied the series, thinks Durham will be the team to survive. One advantage of Durham making the finals would be the sharter travelling distances for every games. However, Port Eight has the best arone and apparently gate transmitous croud support at home. So you take your pick and don't forget to not out and support the Tumsers in their bid to bring home a title.
