HARLEY...to HALTON

By MR. HARRY HARLEY, M.P.

In my next two columns, I would like to give some details of the Canada Pension Plan, which will affect in some way every resident of Halton County.

Only 30 per cent of Canadian workers are presently covered by private pension plans and there is no portability of built-up credits between companies or in other parts of Canada.

The Canada Pension Plan is designed as a social insurance measure which will provide an opportunity for some Canadians to participate in a national earnings-related and portable pension plan with survivors' benefits. The Canada Pension Plan is a plan which will cover all Canadian salary and wage earners, with the exception of:

(1) Provincial government employees - unless agreed to by the province.

(2) Members of the Canadian Armed Forces and the RCMP (an amendment will allow these in the Plan later).

(3) Those migratory workers in agriculture, fishing and forestry etc., who do not work for the same employer at least 25 days, or those who do not earn at least $200 a year from the same employer.

Contributions are required from age 18 to age 65 - provided, of course, that a man has earnings on which to contribute.

The Plan provides for equal treatment of both men and women. A full pension will be earned by making contributions for 35 per cent of the time from the start of the Plan - for young people from age 18 through to age 65. The other 15 per cent is an allowance to save people from being penalized, in their pensions, if they have been sick or unemployed.

Now regarding the contribution rate: 12 per cent each from employer and employee - a combined rate of 24 per cent on earnings between a lower limit of $400 and an upper limit of $5,000. The self-employed will pay the combined rate of 24 per cent on income over $800, with the same ceiling.

Maximum Payment The maximum contribution of each employer and employee will therefore be 12 per cent of $4,000 or $720. Actuaries forecast that this rate can be expected to finance the Plan at least 20 years without liquidating any of the investment reserve.

Because of the uncertainties of the assumptions required to be made, actuaries are unable to make a dependable longer term forecast. Contributions will be collected in the same way and at the same time as income taxes and the administration of benefits will be integrated with our present Old Age Security and Family Allowances administration.

Total Cost The total cost of administration has been estimated by the Chief Actuary to be thus held down to the relatively low figure of one-tenth of one per cent of contributory earnings.

There are five benefits under the Canada Pension Plan:

- (1) Retirement pensions.
(2) Disability pensions.
(3) Widow pensions.
(4) Orphan's benefits.
(5) Death benefits.

Integration with Private Plans The adjustment of private pension plans cannot be prescribed through the Canada Pension Plan. Those responsible for each private pension plan will be free to decide whether or not they wish to make such integration in their plans. There are two ways this could be done:

(1) In plans where the contribution rates are relatively high, it may be decided that the overall rate of employer-employee contributions should be set at
