Only 105 Donors Give Blood At Regular Clinic Last Week

A disappointing crowd of only 105 donors turned out Thursday last week to give blood at the regular clinic held at the legion auditorium. Previous clinics had been well publicized and lack of this was partially to blame for the poor turnout last week. Previous clinics had been well attended and last March a special Industrial Clinic drew 225 donors.

When it was learned the Legion was not sponsoring the blood clinic this time, Mrs. W. Finley past Zone Commander of the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary, took over as convener and made many phone calls to industry seeking donors.

During the afternoon session only 54 donors gave blood, with 51 turning out for the evening. The Red Cross Unit from Hamilton was on hand to receive donors.
