Safety Awards Handed Out To Public School Winners

Allan Lauder, chairman of the area Industrial Accident Prevention Association, along with Mayor Les Dubsy and high school board chairman Rev. Dwight Engel, handed out cash awards at the Robert Little school Tuesday afternoon to winners and runners-up in the I.A.P.A. poster contest.

The three men spent many hours reviewing close to 50 entries before finalizing winners. First prize of $10 went to Olive Marshall of the M. Z. Bennett school, second award of $7.50 was given to Judy Lang and third prize of $5 went to Dave Mans, both from the Robert Little public school. The contest was open to all grade seven and eight pupils from both schools.

Runners-up in the contest who each received one dollar included Evelyn Van der Brink, Jane Esham and Brenda Denny from the Robert Little school and Jim McKeown, Willy Muchlbacher, Jessie Ann Davidson and Ona Marshall from the M. Z. Bennett School.

In handing out the awards Mr. Lauder pointed out the aim of the Association to prevent accidents in industry. He told the young stars that October always appeared to be the month when most accidents in industry occurred and therefore October had been set as Safety Month.

Excellent work He commended all contestants on the excellent work they had done in completing their posters and noted that prizes had been donated by Beardmore and Co. Ltd., Micro Plastics Ltd. and H. K. Porter Company (Canada) Ltd. Mayor Dubsy told the pupils that as one of the judges he had based his judgement on the children's ability to think for themselves. He noted he had always had a great fear of children crossing the streets or playing near the roads with the increased amount of motor traffic today. He said council was also aware of this and hoped children would become more safety conscious and not jump out into traffic.
