We Salute The Acton Minor Hockey Leagues

Two hundred thousand boys from 12,336 teams across Canada play organized hockey under the jurisdiction of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Almost 400 of these boys are from the flourishing minor hockey organization in Acton which keeps the ice game going in town from late October to early April.

The boys play for either one of five Tri-County hockey clubs, sponsored by the Acton Minor Hockey Association, or the Legion town league which has almost 300 boys from Atom to Midget under its wing. There is also a hockey school sponsored by the Acton Referees' Association which attracts boys learning the game's fundamentals.

You might ask: Why all this effort to teach the kids how to play hockey? Perhaps when you were a youngster you were given a pair of skates and then left to your own devices.

Society has changed since then. Boys nowadays are more restricted. Some outlet must be found for their energy, which left unchannelled could lead to delinquency.

An ideal outlet is the game of hockey.

Perhaps the greatest benefit hockey confers on those who play is healthful, invigorating exercise. It also teaches the value of team work, how to absorb hard knocks and bounce back. It instills discipline and besides all the serious reasons hockey is fun, especially suited to the Canadian temperament.

Every minor hockey association is proud of the work it is doing, of its growth over the years, of the number of volunteer workers.

We, in Acton and district, have a special reason to be proud of the work done in minor hockey here. Every facet of the game is covered by the men who contribute hours of time each week to further hockey influence.

We salute them in this special week, set aside to honor and further minor hockey in Canada.

One of the best ways to show appreciation for the work being done for your sons would be to attend a game this week.

Keep your boy on ice and he'll never go bad.
