Regional Government

Acton Council has completed its submission to the Plunkett Needs Study of Halton and Peel. We would like to commend the council on its efforts to attempt to co-ordinate the thinking of all the various boards and commissions into one coherent presentation. While we don't agree in detail with all the recommendations contained in the submission it is gratifying to note the submission is the distillation of the thinking of all local groups. It is practical because it is the thinking of people actually carrying out the job of municipal government and not some pipe-dream by professional planners — dreamers who have had no municipal government experience.

Having observed the tribulations experienced in Toronto, and its suburbs through the metro type government where elected city councillors form the super government we cannot see this as a realistic solution.

We feel the regional government should be elected directly to the position and only for one position. To elect a man mayor of a municipality and expect him as well to represent the community in the regional government is just building up a work load few men could undertake, let alone successfully fulfill.

We would like to see the regional government directly elected, by and responsible to the taxpayers. If these regional representatives are elected from the municipalities and their individual voting power in the regional government weighted to correspond to the populations they represent it would appear to us that the democratic principle of representation-by-population would be accomplished. As well, each municipality would be assured a voice at the regional government level.

Education and Hydro Electric power throughout the county should not be by other elected or appointed boards. There is no reason why these two services cannot be administered by the Regional government. The regional government would then become a scaled down version of Queen's Park with departments of professionally qualified staffs administering the policy established by the elected representatives. We will then have a regional government composed of the Departments of Education, Hydro, Justice, Welfare Services, Highways, Assessment, Fire, Finance and Public Works capable of meeting the needs of a growing region.

Spring Breakup

A great many indications of spring have been reported. The first robins are here; the groundhogs and bears have made their appearances; the frogs are croaking; the creeks and maple sap are running; the snow is disappearing; the streets are being swept and the winter's grime is being uncovered with the melting of the snow. Perhaps the best and most reliable sign of spring is the scheduling of Auction Sales. In this week's issue there are no less than six auctions advertised. As spring arrives and summer appears on the horizon, either the desire to get back to the land — or get off the land, we don't know which — becomes manifest in the number of farm sales scheduled.

Another sure sign of spring we expect to hear of any day is the emergence of the parasites, who prey on the susceptibility of others. There are the fly-by-night con-men who arrive to sell everything from home improvements, paved driveways to encyclopedias. Any salesman who knocks on your door with an introductory offer, a demonstration installation or a get-rich scheme is open to suspicion. Any reputable firm selling door to door will stand and encourage a thorough investigation of its services and products. Any offer that has to be accepted and signed for immediately can be considered not to be advantageous to the home owner. It's up to you to look after your own interests — after you sign up it's too late to ask for help from anyone else.

Distribution of Seats

In Halton County we have for many years enjoyed the benefit of having the same electoral boundaries for both the federal and provincial governments. Not the least of which has been the fact that in both cases the boundaries comprised of the whole of the County, which gave an additional purpose to Halton's functions as a county.

With the redrawing of the electoral boundaries for both the senior governments completed, it is definitely assured that the division which has been made will place Acton in two distinctively different ridings. It is our understanding that the redistribution was engineered by the same group of men, but for two different masters. We had hoped through this singleness of the commission there would be a very close relationship between the federal and provincial boundaries. This has not proven to be the case.

When we were in Ottawa a short time ago we expressed our dissatisfaction to our member, Dr. Harley, with this wide divergence of boundaries. The Doctor explained the difference arose because of the numerical difference in the representation in Toronto and Ottawa. He explained the number of seats Ontario has in the house at Ottawa was considerably less than the number in Toronto. Hence the boundaries for the ridings could not be the same.

Since we arrived home we have been reflecting on this explanation and we must agree that any attempt to change the number of seats from Ontario in Ottawa would be a futile exercise. However, there appears to be very little problem in changing the number of seats in Toronto. A whole new block of nine seats was added to the Ontario house in redistribution. If it is so apparently easy to add seats it follows that it would be just as easy to take away seats. If the size of the Ontario house were reduced to the same number as Ontario has in the federal house, all this confusion of overlapping ridings would have been eliminated.

It has never appeared to us there is a great deal of difference between the men we send to Ottawa and those who go to Toronto. The one big advantage of fewer numbers in Toronto would be in the reduction in the number of unheard back benches we now have. Undoubtedly the numerical majority the government now enjoys would be smaller and the government would perhaps find it in their heart to listen to intelligent comment their own members may offer.

Bigness in any endeavor is not necessarily the only criterion of success.

Missed Opportunity

We noticed this week's coverage of the Ottawa ruckus by Canadian television and couldn't help but wonder how the same story, if it had emanated from Washington, might have been handled by the American networks. Undoubtedly the networks would have been able to clear all other programming so that the proceedings inside the House of Commons would have been available in every living room in the country. We think Canadian TV missed a great opportunity to show the Canadian electors the great dignity and singleness of purpose with which our nation's important business is conducted. CBC, instead of junketing off to Munich, at an as yet undetermined cost, could have stayed at home and had boobs at both ends of the tube.

Then there are the sponsors. We could have interested the brewers and distillers in the program from its sporting aspects; the soap companies could easily tie in on the whiter wash theme; and the headache and upset stomach remedies would have been a natural; somebody else could, undoubtedly as a public service, emphasize the great cultural aspects involved. Truly we missed a great many fine opportunities to show the Canadian public this latest sideshow put on by our high-priced all-Canadian performers.

Sugar and Spice

BY BILL SMILEY

I have a profound respect for poet T. S. Eliot. But one of his lines, that which says, "April is the cruellest month," is pure poppycock. He had obviously never spent a March in these parts.

April is no bargain, but March is a month no honest taxpayer should have to put up with. At its best it is 31 days of pure debar; at its worst, a century of bleak horror.

Raw east winds that chap the hands, chill the bones, redden the nose, deaden the soul. Third bout of a gripe in three months. Holes in your overshoes. Faces of friends become hateful. Tailpipe and muffler gone on the car. Eavestroughs sagging. Spirits flagging. Spring is merely a word in the dictionary. Winter is a monster clawing your shoulder.

The last of the meat gone. The maize reduced to a few handfuls. Spruce tea and moss stew on the menu. Hunting impossible because of the slush. Flabby breasts and swollen bellies. And always the cold.

No refrigerators stocked with steaks and roast and milk and eggs. No shelves of canned goods. No supermarket a few blocks away. No heat, no light. No bathroom. No books. No television. And always the cold.

A few cynics will add, "And no income tax, no mortgages, no insurance policies, no fuel bills, no ulcers, no doctor's bills." True. Wanna trade?

Not I. I turn up the thermostat a bit. I mix a hot toddy. Then I sit by the fireplace, listening to the wind whistling around the house. I sniff the waft of pot roast from the kitchen. I pick up a book, put a record on the hi-fi.

I listen to my wife who is not fighting with Mrs. Abenaki about who gets the fire next, to make dog soup.

And my March madness is gone. Try it.

When the miseries of March have me reduced to one great bellow of frustration I put it to work. "Old Bud" I say to myself, "just go back 300 years. Let yourself go, now. Not three miles from here, they were eking out their March, half-frozen, starved, half-blind."

And I think about them — the Indians, nearing the bitter end of a bitter winter, in their long-houses. Men, women, children, dogs, pell-mell in a seventeenth-century Nissen hut made of boughs and bark and skins.

The Good Old Days...

20 YEARS AGO

Taken from the issue of the Free Press of Thursday, March 14, 1946. In a recent list of army men decorated for gallant and distinguished overseas service with awards of Mention in Dispatches, we noted one from Acton, W.O. Jack H. Alger (R.S.M.). He returned from overseas a few months ago and resumed his position as guard at the Ontario Reformatory near Guelph.

Acton Y.M.C.A. ladies' badminton club had a very successful tournament with the Guelph Y.W.C.A., taking 10 out of the 12 matches played. The first victory, 15-0, was won by Miriam Ritchie and Dorothy Morris. The second 15-0 game was won by Florence Salt and Dorothy Morris.

The Duke of Devonshire chapter of the I.O.D.E. held their annual officers' tea at the home of Mrs. M. Schroeder, Bower Ave. The regent, Mrs. C. Matthews, presided. Mrs. Mainprize, on behalf of the executive, expressed the appreciation felt for the eight years of efficient service given by the retiring treasurer, Mrs. McDonald, and presented her with a crystal rose bowl. Miss Chant, the local school nurse, was the speaker of the day.

A concert was put on in Rockwood town hall by the members of the local Institute. Main feature was a play "Mushrooms Coming Up". Taking part were Mesdames G. F. McArthur, A. Maltby, Crossland and W. Guild with Mrs. A. Evers playing the role of nurse and R. Bacon of housemaid.

Two pupils of Miss Ethel Franklin, Miss Joanna Veldhuis and Miss Christina Lamb, have received first class honors in piano examinations.

Dr. Hugh Austin has sold his dental practice here to Dr. George Sirrs who will assume his duties about March 20.

50 YEARS AGO

Taken from the issue of the Free Press of Thursday, March 16, 1916. Practically every rural and urban municipality was represented in the mammoth procession of 15,000 representatives of 825,562 petitioners for prohibition which marched through Toronto to the Parliament Buildings to present the huge petition to Premier Hurst. The parade was the most successful for reform ever held in the Dominion of Canada.

It is regrettable that many men in khaki opposed the march. Halton's delegation and banner suffered perhaps the hottest attack of the melee. The banner was torn to shreds and the Union Jack and Canadian flags trampled under foot. Soldiers, remember, who are sworn to protect the flag and private citizens' General Logie was called from Exhibition Camp to quell the disturbance.

The prohibition bill will now come before the House. Mr. Robert Watson has purchased a lot on Church St. from Mr. Edward Dynes and will erect a new brick residence.

A quartette of G.T.R. men have been cleaning, tinting and varnishing the interior of the station. The premises are now spic and span and quite attractive. The walls have been retinted a light pink and the radiators given a new coat of aluminum. The ceiling panels, oak wainscoting and settees have been revarnished.

Snowshoeing and moonlight sleigh rides have been popular with the young people this week. The roads were so badly drifted the rural mail carriers were unable to make their rounds.

La Grippe has been quite prevalent.

Ballinafad Mutual Improvement Society debated "Should Farmers' sons enlist?" Decision was given in favor of the affirmative.

Service Road Approval Unlikely "Two Years to Make Up Mind"

The possibility of re-routing the proposed service road between the fourth and fifth concessions of Nassagaweya Township was discussed briefly at Nassagaweya Council.

The service road, just north of the 401 Highway, would divert truck traffic from the Village of Campbellville. It has been in the planning stages for the past two years.

A letter from an engineering firm read at last week's meeting indicated the proposed location of the road would not likely get government approval.

The firm suggested the road has been planned to run almost parallel to the 401 Highway and the headlights from cars going east on the service road at night would likely glare at motorists going west on the 401.

Councillors queried, "it seems strange that it has taken them two years to make up their minds."

It was decided to try to have an engineer attend the next meeting of the Township Roads Department and discuss the problem.

Public Speaking Competition To Name Two for Halton Final

Public school pupils from Milton, Acton, Georgetown, Oakville and Esquimaux and Nassagaweya Townships will compete Friday evening at the Robert Little public school, Acton, with first and second place winners going on to the zone finals to be held at Brookville school, Tuesday, Mar. 29 in the afternoon.

A large crowd of parents, friends and general public is expected to attend the Friday night performance which includes not only speaking competitions but musical and dance numbers.

Chairman for the evening will be principal W. D. Elmer Smith from the M. Z. Bennett school in Acton. Judges will be Miss Diane Dubecky from the Georgetown District High School; Mrs. Susan Jensen, speech correction teacher from Oakville, and Victor Heaps from the Ontario School for the Deaf, Milton. Timekeeper for the speaking contest will be principal G. W. McKenzie from the Acton Robert Little school.

Contestants will include two speakers each from Esquimaux, Nassagaweya and Georgetown; one each from Acton and Milton; three from Oakville and one each from Milton and Georgetown separate schools.

Entertainment while judges are choosing winners will be under the direction of Acton music supervisor Glenn Banks and will include a solo by Lynda Bannon from the M. Z. Bennett school; a double duet from the Robert Little school including Diane Bousfield, Cathy Hinton, Bonnie Bristow and Barbara Pratt; Highland dancers Susanne and Karen Rickets from Milton senior public school.

All contestants will receive books and the first place winner will be presented with a trophy.

Hold Workshop

Some 95 Halton County dairymen attended the Mastitis Workshop in the Masonic Hall, Milton, on Friday, March 11. Doctors H. J. Nely and F. C. Nelson, Veterinary Services Branch, Guelph, presented this workshop on all phases of mastitis prevention and control. They stated that man has rebuilt the dairy cow to make her a more efficient unit, has already drastically changed the ration fed to her, and has replaced the calf with a milking machine, with a resulting increase in mastitis.

By discussing the various causes of the disease and possible steps to reduce its occurrence, Halton County farmers should be better prepared to fight it.

Ten Georgetown high school students, with one of their teachers, are going on a students' tour to Spain and Portugal this summer.
