Just One Case Of Hepatitis Here

Dr. A. F. Bull, Medical Officer of Health for Halton County, told the Free Press Tuesday that only one case of infectious hepatitis has been reported in Acton. Several cases have been reported to him throughout the rural area surrounding town.

Dr. Bull stressed the importance of cleanliness in order to prevent the disease and noted everyone should wash their hands thoroughly as often as possible and adopt general cleanliness at all times.

The Medical Officer of Health did note, however, that in most instances infectious hepatitis is more prominent in rural areas than in urban areas. He suggested that any unusual illness contracted should be brought to the attention of the family physician as soon as possible.

He also noted there were only three cases of scarlet fever reported in Acton to date.

LET'S PLAY BRIDGE

By Bill Coats

Defense at contract bridge is more difficult than offence. Declarer has complete control over 26 cards, while you as defender may play only 13 cards and you must encourage your partner to play his 13 the best way for the defence.

Occasionally, however, there is a hand on which the defense rests solely with one defender. When that happens, the defender must do all the work himself.

Take this hand which occurred last week at the Acton Bridge Club. Neither side is vulnerable and the dealer is north.

North S—O 2 H—A K 8 7 6 D—J 9 4 C—9 8 3
West S—J 9 7 6 H—10 9 3 D—10 7 3 2 C—J 2
East S—A K 10 5 H—Q 5 4 D—8 6 5 C—A 5 2

South S—8 4 3 H—J 2 D—A K Q C—K Q 10 7 6
The bidding: North Pass East Pass South Pass West Pass
1 H Pass 2 C Pass 3 C All Pass

The bidding is quite straightforward although North might have rebid his hearts. One North did get to three hearts but the contract was defeated. It is difficult to make three hearts when you cannot see how the clubs are distributed. The usual contract was three clubs making four. Good defense should hold the contract to three, which, at duplicate bridge, is a good result.

West leads a diamond and declarer wins. Declarer immediately leads a spade. This was won by East who now has in his power the chance to hold declarer to nine tricks. Why did declarer lead a spade? The answer surely is so that he could ruff a third round of spades in dummy.

East leads a small club. Declarer wins and leads another spade. East wins and now takes the trump ace and leads his last trump. Declarer is held to nine tricks, two in hearts, three in diamonds and four in clubs.

Many defenders are reluctant to lead trump. They feel that this is declarer's duty. If dummy is short in a side suit and declarer does not lead trump immediately — beware the ruff in dummy. Lead trump to keep declarer from ruffing.

Last week's winners were: tied for first, Brian Hamilton and Bill Barbour with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dickson; third Jack Coats and Harry Frpst.
