Meat-Cutting Demonstration At IGA Store for 4-H Clubbers

An innovation was introduced into the 4-H program on April 20, when members of the Acton 4-H Club were hosted at a meat-cutting demonstration as part of their first meeting. The event was sponsored by the management of the local I.G.A. Groceria in co-operation with officials of Oshawa Wholesale.

The opening part of the meeting was held at the Community Centre. President Walter Tryssenaar presided over the business portion assisted by secretary Carolyn Spears.

The group which also included parents and leaders moved to the I.G.A. store where the stage was set for the demonstration, complete with seating accommodation and a large cutting block in front of the meat counter.

Appreciate Qualities
Before introducing the host, club leader Nino Braida reminded the members that meat which forms a major part of the human diet, is the end product of the beef-raising industry. He told the gathering that the purpose of such a demonstration was to make them appreciate the superior quality of a "Red Brand" carcass and help them to evaluate the live beef animal on its dressing-out potential during their judging sessions.

Harold Manes, welcomed the group on behalf of the management and staff and in turn introduced Frank Macklin, meat specialist, Fred Marshall, meat merchandiser, and two meat supervisors, Don Patterson and Gordon Foster who are attached to the meat service of Oshawa Wholesale.
