Plan open house for HOPE, June 1

The new retarded adult workshop at Hornby, Halton Opportunity Products Enterprises, will hold its first public openhouse on Wednesday evening, June 1, from 7 to 9.

The sponsors, the North Halton Association for the Mentally Retarded, launched the workshop (nicknamed H-O-P-E) carlier this year and has eight adults working there under the supervision of manager Mrs. Winnifred Isham of Milton. The workshop is located in the former Hornby School on the Base Line just east of the Seventh Line Esquesing.

Work the retardates have done will be displayed and prospective employers of retardates are cordially invited to see what the workers can do under super-

Some hunters think they can distinguish the track of a buck deer from that of a doe by its size and the way its toes are spread. Algonquin Park naturalists say that this is an uncertain method and suggest a surer way -- good, however, only when there is snow. When walkmg, a buck does not lift his feet as high as a doe, and in the... snow, he leaves two grooves between his footprints, where the tips of his split hooves just touch the surface. If it drags its feet, it's a buck.
