Robertson-Masters wedding vows in Knox church May 14

Pink carnations, white mums and white snapdragons decorated Knox Presbyterian Church, Acton, for the wedding ceremony of Marjorie Lynne Masters and James Stewart Robertson, The Rev. A. H. McKenzie officiated at the double-ring ceremony on Saturday afternoon, May 14 at four o'clock.

The bride, a stenographer at C. F. Leatherland's law office, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew McDonough, 220 McDonald Blvd. The groom, a machinist at Micro Plastics plant, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Robertson, 150 Tiddy Ave. Ted Hansen played the organ and Vic Bristow sang The Lord's Prayer and The Wedding Prayer.

The bride wore a full length gown of white organza over tulle with a scalloped lace bodice and elbow length puffed lace sleeves. A headdress of white net petals, crystal and pearl flowers held her four-tiered scalloped veil of nylon tulle. She carried a cascade bouquet of white stephanotis and pink roses.

She was given in marriage by her stepfather.

Maid of honor was a friend of the bride, Miss Kathy Kenny, and the bridesmaids were Mary Anne Robertson, sister of the groom and Wendy Masters, sister of the bride. They were dressed alike in empire waisted, tan length gowns of white lace over tulle with overskirts of aqua tulle. They wore matching bouquets of aqua roses and carried bouquets of white stasias.

Two young ring girls were Wendy Robertson, niece of the groom and Nancy Hamilton, cousin of the bride. They wore emerald knitted sleeve dresses of white tulle with aqua velvet sashes and headpieces of aqua velvet ribbon. They carried bouquets of pink and white button flowers.

Groomsmen were Alan Gray, a friend, and two ushers were Paul Robertson, brother of the groom, and Paul Knight, cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the church.

The bride's mother received wearing a pale yellow brocade two-piece dress with yellow and white accessories and a white gardenia corsage. The groom's mother wore a turquoise lace dress with matching three-quarter length coat, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's mother made the wedding cake. Both sets of the bride's grandparents attended. Telegrams were received from the two sisters of the bride's stepfather from England.

Guests were present from Lindsay, Waterloo, Toronto.

Orientation Day at high school for over 100 grade eight pupils

Adventure and welcome diversion came to grade eight students Tuesday in the form of a trip to the Acton District High School. Students from the public schools, 14 from Brookville, 10 from Limehouse and eight from Speyside were picked up by bus and deposited at the High School by 10 o'clock. Pupils from Limehouse and Speyside were accompanied by their respective principals, Mr. Dawkins and Mr. Balkind.

An additional 89 students, comprising 44 from Robert Little, and 45 from M. Z. Bennett walked to 69 Acton Boulevard, their "home away from home" for the next five years or so.

Principal Hansen warmly welcomed the group of eager faces with words of inspiration intended to help them in their high school careers. Mr. Hansen emphasized the growing necessity for education and the need for students to establish good work habits. He pointed out that young people, with their entire lives ahead of them, face a serious decision in high school.

The choice between doing the minimum, which ultimately results in failure and that of doing conscientiously is one of the most serious decisions of a person's life. This decision leads, in the one case, to self-confidence, financial and social success or in the other case to a lifetime of failure and self-reproach.

School regulations and discipline were described by Vice-Principal Bray. He pointed out among other things that the system of uniform dress for high school students has proved successful. It has led to improved student morale, and lower cost of clothing to the parents. The wearing of the suggested clothing is not compulsory at the present time but is strongly endorsed and may become compulsory next year.

The Orientation Day Committee, headed by Mr. Rognvaldson and including Mr. McGillivray, Mr. McCallum, Mr. Curtis and Mr. Holmes divided the attending students into five equal groups. These groups attended 10 minute sessions at different locations within the school.

Mr. Curtis described high school science courses to the various groups and pointed out some of the equipment they can expect to use for experiments.

The Physical Education program was described by Mr. McCallum whereas Miss Lynn Johnson, Student Council President, described the function of student government. Groups divided to learn about Home Economics and Industrial Arts facilities from Mrs. Orr and Mr. Matthews respectively.

Miss Johnson and Mr. Rognvaldson shared a ten minute interval to illustrate the courses in Guidance and Geography. Mr. Sullivan described the requirements of the various commercial options and answered questions regarding facilities in the commercial department.

The final part of the program, which required the active participation of students to partake of refreshments, was attended to with rather more interest than any other detail.

The overall purpose of an Orientation Day is that of allowing students to see inside the brick structure about which they have had an increasing number of questions during the last few months. They experience an opportunity to meet some of their teachers and to see the high school facilities.

The students themselves may have difficulty deciding which they appreciate most, the half-day holiday, the information or the refreshments. However, the occasion serves to make the first day in school next fall a little less confusing and slightly less unknown.

Poet's corner

IDLE RUMDUM
Some time ago, within a magazine,
I read an article which boldly said—
There was no need to read the lines between—
That now the lady poets all were dead:

At this I winked a sneaky, knowing eye,
While my indignant faculties
did thrive;
I knew the silly rumour was a lie,
For I am one and very much alive.

Now I have heard some silly people say
"That God is dead; no longer do we need
His watchful eye; man is supreme today,
And Hees his life in disre-gard of creed.

Beighted souls, who plan their length of days
Without that love divine within the heart—
If they but knew the wonder of His ways,
Would cry, instead, "My God,
how great Thou art!"
Isabel Anderson.

Assessor William Erskine has pointed out to the Free Press a correction in an item in last week's paper. He says one sentence should have read, in the report of council meeting, "Word was also received from the Institute of Municipal Assessors that assessor William Erskine was successful in passing the third year examinations in municipal assessing, and the Institute requested council to present him with his certificate to be forwarded by the Institute at a later date."
