Skating carnival enjoyed in Guelph

One of the best skating carnivals to date, Guelph Skating Club's Rhapsody on Ice was attended by about 100 from Acton as well as many from Guelph.

Linda Braida of Acton is one of five professionals with the club which has about 400 young skaters. She instructs about 250 of the beginners from three to nine years of age, and during the past season has put about 100 of them through the standard Canadian Figure Skating Association tests.

A carnival program in the first half, including the Nutcracker Suite, was followed by a Salute to Canada, featuring all the provinces.

There were champion skaters as guest artists. Norm Braida, Linda's father, was master of ceremonies. There are special figure skating sessions each day during the Easter holidays and the regular season ends April 1.
