At the planning board meeting Thursday evening, A. Seymuck was present to discuss planning costs with regard to his property. From a reply received from Mr. Koyama of Planning Associates, it was learned that a plan of subdivision draft could cost as much as $3,800 plus surveying fees.

Mr. Seymuck gave the impression he could not, at this time, pay half the costs for this work. However, after discussion he was agreeable to the board's suggestion that the town and he enter into an agreement that, with council's approval, the town would pay the costs of subdivision planning, and when the property was sold, Mr. Seymick would reimburse the town.

Mr. Seymock offered the land to the town, but councillor Bob Drinkwalter explained the town is not purchasing land at this time.

A company of surveyors is to be contacted for estimates.
