History of Ballinafad

In the year 1819 and early 1820s, settlers first came to this district. Each built a log cabin and lived in them with bush all around. Some wolves and black bears roamed among the trees.

Little by little, the land was cleared and some kind of crop grown. A small hamlet sprang up on the town line between Esquesing and Erin Townships on the Seventh Line. Thomas Merry, a native of Ireland, gave Ballinafad its name.

In earlier writings, I have described some properties on the north side of the town line and west of the Seventh Line, also the store on the north

This time, I will write about hotels. In early years there were three hotels in or near-

One was on the Erin side, on a lot between the store and the brick cottage. It was a medium-sized two - storey frame building when I saw it in the 1880s. Mr. and Mrs. Gartley with Ed. Lucy, Harry and Edith used it for a home. After a few years, they moved to Georgetown. Later on, the building was taken down. Another one, supposed to be the first one, and operated by Mr. John Frank, was on the east corner of the 'Fad. No doubt this was a log building. I will describe the hotel as I remember it in the

What a wonderful convenience this was for the farmers of this district! No more long drives with a team, a wagon or sleigh to Acton, Stewarttown, Terra Cotta or Erin, to get their grain chopped for their stock. In winter, it was cold; in spring, not good sleighing, nor good for the wagon either on some country roads where snow still remained. Snow plows are a more modern invention. In 1936, Mr. Kirkwood sold the store to Mr. A. R. Merriam, who with his wife and sons Grant and Grey, moved in in October that year. Mr. and Mrs. Kirkwood and young James moved into part of the stone house just east of the store with Miss Annie Shortill living in the other half.

In 1941, an extension was built on the south end of the mill. This was for cleaning and treating seed grain. Farmers who had a fanning mill usually cleaned their own grain and treated it, too, to kill the Then Mr. and Mrs. John Black; with Bobbie and Billie, moved in. The mill is a busy place and usually requires two men as considerable trucking is done.

For some years, tractors have been used on farms and since roads have been kept open by snow plows, tractors are used to haul wagons of grain to the mill to be chopped or cleaned. Sleighs are not used and very few have a team. Horses are an intelligent animal, so farmers' became very fond of them.

Some weeks ago, a sign "For Sale" was placed on the mill. Recently, it was replaced by another, "Sold".

On the first of May, 1967, Mr. Ford of the Eighth Line, Erin Township, will take over the mill in Ballinafad.
