

Costume judging, music at Golden Age meeting

A good attendance at the regular meeting of the Golden Age Club on Thursday night enjoyed an excellent program. Business consisted mainly of finalizing plans for the annual bus trip.

The bus will leave the old post office at 9 a.m. for Collingwood and vicinity. Members are to bring their own lunch including beverage and a stop will be made at a park to eat. A hot roast beef dinner, catered to by the W.A. of Collingwood Presbyterian church will be had at 5:30 p.m. Many attractions are in view — the caves and views of ship building, also the potteries and a good shopping centre. A full bus load quickly signed up for the trip.

Mr. Ralston was M.C. for the entertainment. Miss Dorothy Simmons, with Miss Jean McLean accompanist, delighted with "A Basket of Old Fashioned Roses" and as an encore "Smiling Through Your Tears". Miss Janette Yateman, a very talented youngster, was thoroughly enjoyed and enthusiastically applauded for her accordion solos. This was Miss Yateman's first appearance at the club and it is hoped to hear her play again. Miss McLean played classical selections "Prelude" and "Spring Song".

Bob Winton and Bob O'Hara favored with duets, "Glasgow Belongs to Me" and "When Irish Eyes are Smiling". A short sing-song with Mrs. Johnstone at the piano, was enjoyed.

Then a comic fashion show concluded the program. Mrs. R. L. Davidson, Mrs. C. Agnew and Mrs. John Lambert appeared in centennial costume, then in comic costume — Mrs. Cossar as a girl from Yorkville won first prize; Mrs. Creasey as a hillbilly took second prize and Mrs. Kennedy as a jockey.

Mrs. Reed was commentator and Miss Simmons and Miss McLean acted as judges. The entertainment committee for August and September consists of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Agnew and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shultis. Mrs. Fryer is lunch convener, with Mrs. Lasby, Miss Akins, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Finnamore and Mrs. B. Johnstone as helpers. Bob Winton and Bob Allen will also assist.

July birthdays saluted were Mrs. Winn, Miss Simmons and R. L. Davidson. Mrs. William Nesbitt, not present, was 83 years young on July 20. Mr. Woods had returned from hospital but Mr. Cutts was still in hospital and had undergone surgery.

The bus trip will be on the next regular meeting day so the next meeting will be August 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Y building.

NIGHTMARES will never be more real than the cast of Spook Night turned on for the benefit of summer playgrounders last Wednesday at the community centre. Bats and spiders crawled all over the horror chamber which you could enter for one solitary dime. The camera caught the cast in a relaxed moment as The Jolly Green Giant (Elaine Johnson) discusses the latest scary techniques with the skeleton (Don Ford); Frankenstein, right, (Don Price) is prepared to frighten corpse (Marianne Coles) into believing he's for real.

OBITUARY

Wes Marchment dies after short illness

Retired from Beardmore and Co. where he worked as a leather buffer, Wesley Henry Marchment, 102 Poplar St., died suddenly at Guelph General Hospital Thursday, July 13, after an illness of 12 days. He was in his 66th year.

A very considerate person, Wes Marchment loved singing with a special fondness for the old songs which he sang with much pleasure for his friends. He also was a talented whistler, an art nearly lost these days.

Fond of gardening, he also took up fishing after retiring. He and his wife were caretakers at the Bank of Nova Scotia for 20 years.

Born in Glen Williams in 1902, Mr. Marchment attended school in Georgetown. He married the former Agnes Irene Collins in Windsor in 1925. The couple has lived at 102 Poplar St. for the past 30 years and had many friends in Acton and Georgetown.

He was a faithful member of St. Joseph's Church. Requiem mass was said by his pastor, Rev. Father V. J. Morgan on Saturday morning, July 15. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Pallbearers were son-in-law Frank Harding and nephews Lorne Hunter, Georgetown;

John Hunter, Glen Williams; Marvin Hunter, Acton; Wes Oliver, Georgetown; John Turkosz, Acton.

Mr. Marchment is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Shirley Drew, Acton; three sons, Kenneth and Leo of Acton and Lyle of Aurora and 15 grandchildren.

He is also survived by a brother Earl of Glen Williams, and five sisters, Margaret (Mrs. Ken Hunter) and Pearl (Mrs. John Oliver), both of Georgetown; Vera (Mrs. Clancy McDonald, Brampton; Cora (Mrs. Doug Anderson), London; and Rena (Mrs. Fred Hunter), Acton. Another sister, Mrs. Frances Hunter predeceased him.

OBITUARY

Jack McMullen dies suddenly

A well-known contractor and real estate salesman, John Edward McMullen of 109 Mill St., Acton, died suddenly at his home on Monday, July 24. He was 53 years of age.

Mr. McMullen was currently building several new homes on Cobble Hill Road. He renovated many homes in Acton and district and was much sought after as a plastering contractor.

He took a keen interest in antique cars and participated in parades here with old models.

Funeral service was held at the Rumley-Shoemaker funeral home on Wednesday afternoon, July 26. Mr. McMullen was a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses church, and Forest Lee of Milton conducted the funeral.

Interment was in Fairview cemetery. Pallbearers were Henry Loewen, Leonard Schneider, Nelson Stanley, Howard Stanley, William Patterson and Bill Schneider.

Mr. McMullen was born in Tofield, Alberta, son of the late Albert and Tamzon McMullen. He was married in Georgetown July 19, 1939, and his wife Jean survives him. He attended Acton public school. The family moved 12 years ago from Bower Ave. to their home on Mill St.

Surviving Mr. McMullen are sons and daughter Edward and John McMullen, Acton; David

Earl McMullen, Acton, Craig Arthur McMullen, at home;

Terry Allan; John Albert and Janis Heather Jean at home; five grandchildren; sisters Grace Agnew, Acton; Doris McMullen, Erin; Laura Kirkness, Kitchener; Lola Smith, London; Vivian McCullough, North Bay and Wilda Ferric, Hamilton; brother Wilbert McMullen, Acton. Another brother, Albert, predeceased him.

Spook night scares kids raises money for trip

The screams emanating from the community centre last Wednesday night could only have come from the summer playground's presentation of Spook Night.

Shivers of apprehension ran down the spines of children who ventured into the spooky set-up in the downstairs dressing rooms.

Clomping around were either the real thing or life-size replicas of Frankenstein, the Jolly Green Giant, a luminous skeleton, and a hanging monster, as well as a corpse on a bed which shrieked in accompaniment to the wings of bats and spiders on huge webs. In front of the bed stood a huge sword soaked in red (blood?). First requisite for youngsters who flocked to see this live horror movie was removal of shoes and they were given a conducted tour of the eerie premises. Shades of Edgar Allan Poe, some of them were a trifle frightened by the realistic presentation and squishy substances on the floor.

One, after paying the price of admission, uttered a shriek of horror, threw her ticket in and made tracks for home.

Frankenstein, who turned out to be Don Price, was the scariest of the lot, but the green paint Elaine Johnson had on turned many a youngster the same tint.

The skeleton which glowed in the dark bore a striking resemblance to Don Ford and the hanging ??? looked an awful lot like Bob Andrews.

Corpse in the bier was surely Marianne Coles, although some thought it was Dracula's sister.

Proceeds of Spook Night were used against the playground's bus trip to Toronto Monday.

Also helping out with the spoof were Brenda Aberne and Edie Hopkins, who supplied the bone-chilling screams; Linda Ralston and Cavell Marshall, hostesses; Jo Marie Marchment, ticket seller; Craig Perkins, who helped set the props up.
