

NEW PHYSICAL SCIENCES BUILDING AT UNIVERSITY OF GUELPH

Dr. W. C. Winegard, President of the University of Guelph, signs contract, for the University's new Physical Sciences building, while T. A. McEwan, Chairman of the Board of Governors looks on. The new building, to house the Departments of Physics and Chemistry, will provide urgently needed teaching and research facilities. It will contain 55 laboratories, as well as classrooms, two large lecture theatres, faculty offices and the University Book Store. The building is expected to be completed in about two years time. Total cost, including equipment, will be over eight million dollars. This brings to seven the major construction projects under way simultaneously on the Guelph campus, representing a total of over 50 million dollars worth of construction.

Over 65% Canadians live in urban areas

Nearly half of Canada's population live in .19 metropolitan areas and 65% of all Canadians live in an urban area, according to recent population statistics reported by Maurice Cutler, business news editor for Maclean-Hunter in Ottawa.

The mushrooming growth of urban areas, says Cutler, is rerealed in 1966 census figures being issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Fully 47% of Canada's population now live within the boundaries of the 19 centres, compared with 46% in 1961. During this five-year period, 73% of the metropolitan growth occurred in the suburbs. The 19 metro areas continue to grow faster than the rest of Canada. Their total population increased by 15% in the 1961-1966, period, compared to 5% for the rest of the country. They accounted for 71% of the gain in Canada's population during this five-year perigd. - A total of 13 million people or over 65% of all Canadians live in urban areas with population of 5,000 and over. In 1961, 11 1/4 million or 62% lived in centres of this size. The number of urban areas has also grown from 306 to 325.

I like to express to you my great appreciation for the way your reporter worked out the interview he had with me yesterday. From experience I know how often interviewed people are mis-understood, especially when they tell about far away circumstances.

In this case my words have been rightly understood, no sensational accents have been laid. but the facts are clearly and truly written down.

A salute for this good reporter's work.

Sincerely yours, Jan H. de Jong Trudey de Jong Longkindstr 21 Amsterdam, Netherlands

Hydro News covers Acton ceremonies

The July-August issue of Ontario Hydro news devotes a couple of pages to full coverage of the official opening of the new hydro building in Acton. There is a long story, some of it the history of the local utility as researched by the Free Press at the time.

Pictured are commissioners E. Tyler, W. McEachern, O.R. Brown, D. Dawkins, Mayor Duby and Hydro chairman George Gathercole beside the commemorative plaque; the entire outdoor group; the centennial library which opened the same day, and two pert young Spielvogel girls signing the guest book.

"Action at Acton" was the name of the story, which begins *Speaking alphabetically, Acton Hydro is the first of Ontario's 350-odd municipal utilities. It is also the latest to centralize its operation with a gleaming new office and service centre.

"The $70,000 electrical showpiece was opened last month along with the town's Centennial project - an attractive library. Both buildings were designed by the same architect."

LSD FROM FUNGUS

LSD comes from a fungus that causes the rye cereal plant to decay. Its hallucinogenic quality was discovered by accident in 1943, when, working on the derivatives of the rye ergot, a Swiss chemist, D.A. Hofmann, accidentally sniffed one of the synthetic products he was using.
