

the SPORTS spot

BY JOHN MCRAE

With the summer season pretty well wiped off the board for another year the sports calendar moves to more reasonable events.

other year the sports calendar moves to more reasonable events. The baseball season winds up its schedule with the world series in the near future.

To date Boston and Minnesota are neck and neck in the American League race, Columbus and Toledo are tied one apiece in the best of seven International League finals and St. Louis has a ten game margin for the lead in the National League.

The Toronto Rifles are back in action after the club was suspended a week ago by the league for failure to meet its financial obligations.

Monday night in Wheeling, W. Va., a meeting of seven other owners in the league's Eastern Division voted to reinstate the Rifles, with the league itself taking over.

Bubba Marriot took over Jackie Parker's coaching position after he quit because he wouldn't compromise with his players on the management's drastic financial cutbacks. "We're back in business," said Marriot, "but there's a lot of work to do."

The personnel situation which was left short a few due to Argo claims may be helped out by two or three late cuts from the Cleveland Browns, with whom Rifles have a working agreement.

It's usually the same way every year when the Toronto Maple Leafs and Punch Imlach make the warm up pitch before the hockey season is underway. Imlach has trouble, money wise, signing some of last year's big guns and he makes a federal case out of the whole issue with fines and suspensions when these guys know darn well they're going to get pretty near what they want.

Imlach now has Pulford pulled off the Stankowski, Pappia drive line, the Maple Leaf's most potent line at the end of last year's season.

In Pulford's place will be Wayne Carleton who has been working out with Stankowski and Pappia since training camp opened. The Leafs open their 15 game exhibition schedule against the Boston Bruins Friday night in London, Ont.

Tim Horton is another hold back from the Leafs and is supposed to be $500 poorer due to the fine levied by Imlach for failure to show at the training camp. That 37-year-old defenseman can't afford to hold out much longer especially at his age.

Andy Nolan took top honors in Saturday's Legion Masters golf tournament with an 80 for the 18 holes. The Legion members rallied out in numbers to enjoy the annual affair this year at Hilltop golf course in Erin.

the world of... OUTDOORS with ART HAWES

There was a two-way split for top honors at Maple Rock Shooting Range and Brad Mainprize and Dave Johnson both got 25 straight. It is the first 25 straight for Brad and Dave's second. Good shooting boys! Brad also got a 23 and a 20.

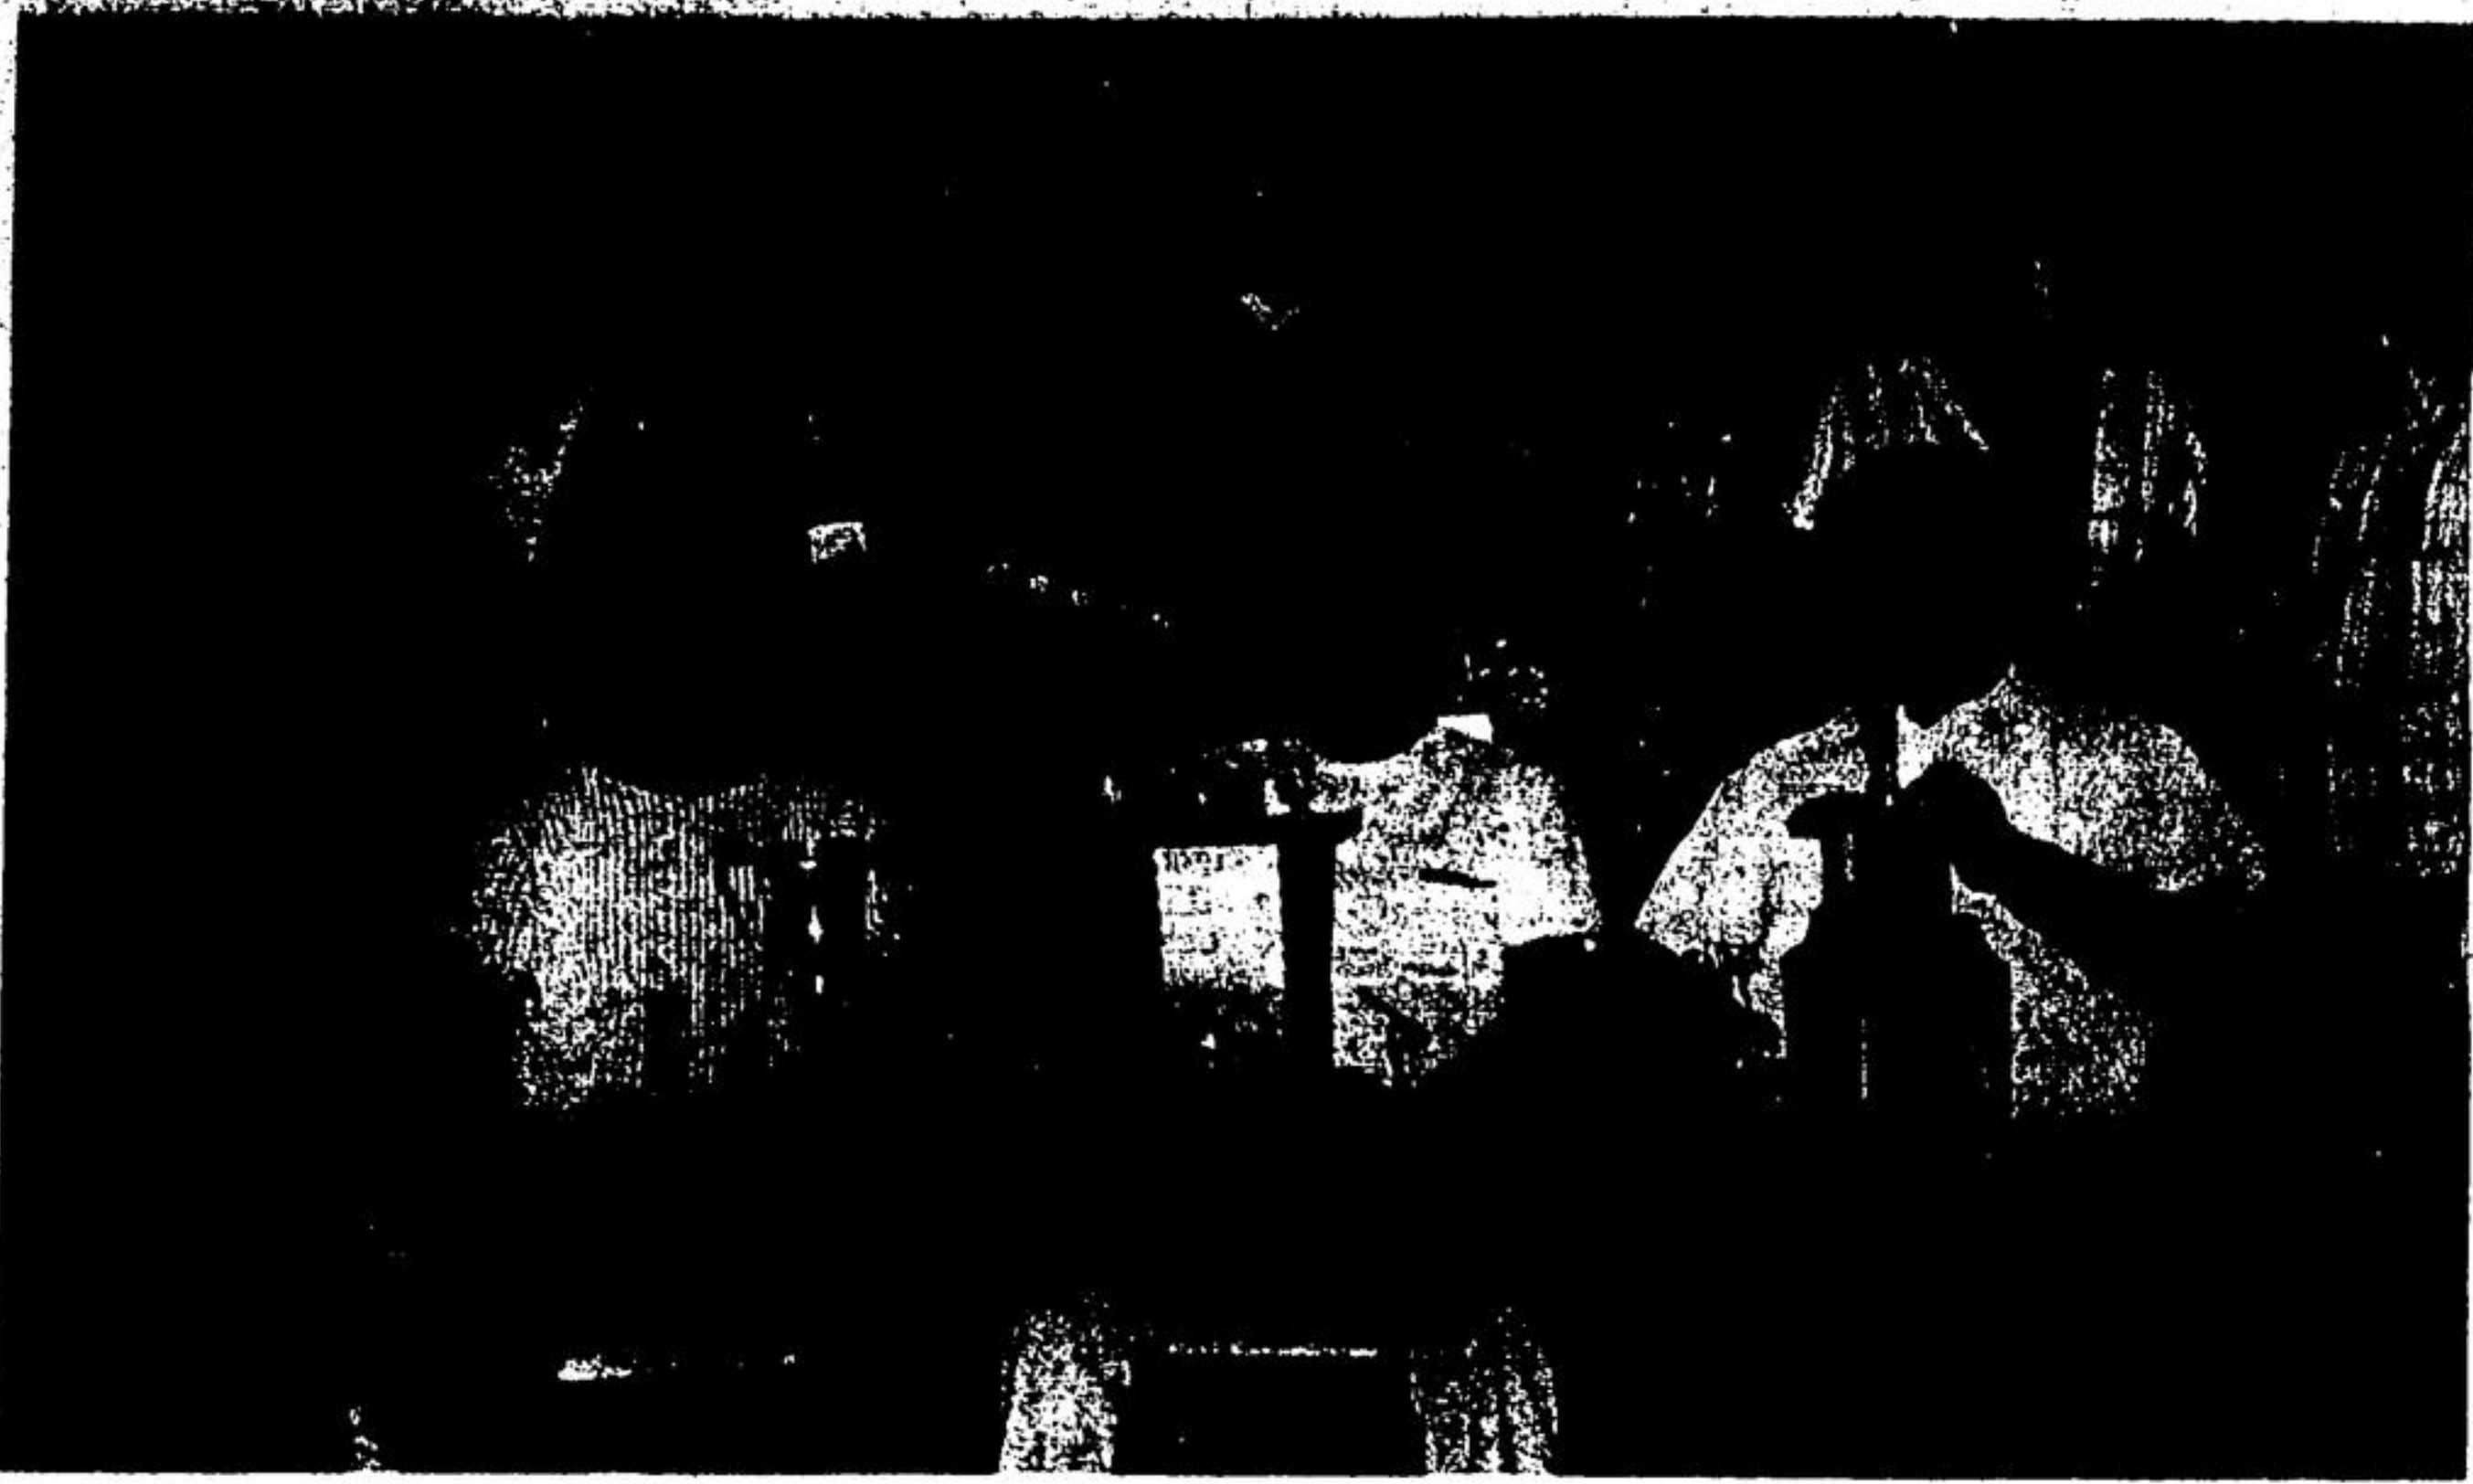

Other good scores included Gord Clow with 24, Ed Hawes 24, 19, 19 and 18, Art Hawes 24 and 22, John Shadbolt 22 and 22, Wayne Leadston 22, 21, 20 and 19, Keith Mainprize 22 and John Cordes 21 and 20.

This week was the last shoot in this series and the top three guns were John Shadbolt with an average of 23.5 out of 25, Gord Clow 22.5 and Brad Mainprize 21.9. Top 5-man squad was captained by John Shadbolt and included Brian Hammond, Wayne Leadston, Bill Hohenadel and John Cordes. Their average was 19.1 out of 25.

This Saturday the Sportsmen's Show sponsored by the Acton Chamber of Commerce, in conjunction with the Fall Fair takes place. The Maple Rock trap team is sponsoring a trap shoot with four other Halton Clubs. The other clubs participating are the Appleby Gun Club, Halton Sportsmen's Association and Halton Trap Club. There will be several other events taking place also including a model airplane demonstration, various displays of outdoor equipment, a demonstration of trap shooting by Doug Norton, one of the top men in Canadian trap shooting circles and Miss Frances Searle who has won several Canadian Championships; and outdoor movies. An admission ticket to the fair includes free transportation and admission to the Sportsmen's show or a ticket purchased at the Sportsmen's show entitles visitors to transportation and admission to Acton Fall Fair.

Senior ladies' softballers bow out to Georgetown

Last Thursday night's bout between the Acton I.G.A. senior ladies and the Georgetown Georgetownettes was officially deemed the third and final fallout for the Acton girls as they lost out 13-6 to Georgetown in the best three out of five series, not two out of three as erroneously reported last week. Joanne Landsborough handled the pitching chores for the Acton squad allowing nine hits off the Georgetown bats and Marilyn Eagles, Georgette hurler let by 13 passes for the Acton batters. Kelta Stevenson, Liz Kirby, Sandra Slingerland, Jill Hurst, and Joanne Landsborough each came up with double hits with pointers coming from Gail Fryer, Joanne Fletcher a home run, Kelta Stevenson, Jill Hurst and Sandra Slingerland with a pair. The Georgetown squad took a firm grip on the game early in the first inning with 11 runs off six hits while the Storekeepers
