Educators from Ghana visiting Halton schools

countries in some aspects, but the Canadian education system is area . where this country For this reason six educationists from Chasa, South Africa are spending two years in Canada and intensively studying our teaching and administrative methods. Two of the Mx visitors got closer book at schools in North Halton this week, as they ment five days doing field work in company with Halton, No. Four area superintendent of education. W. L. McNett. Throughout the week, Joseph Kpakijo-Allotay and Vigilance Duods are touring the schools, sating questions, and observing education in action. The six Ghanishs arrived in Canada last September for two years of study under Dr. Floming at the Octario Institute for Studies in Education, Toronto. All are senior education officers with the Ministry of Education in Accra, Ghana. While most of their studies take place at the Institute, they plan to see a lot of Canada before they head home with two years of new ideas tucked under their belts. Next week the two men leave the North Halton area and spend a week with a separate school inspector in Cakville, and later this year they will go to Alberta for more

Mr. Kpakpo-Allotey taught five years of geography in grades 12 and 13 in the government technical school at Takorad prior to this trip. Both hold bonorary B.A. degrees and both are Diplomats in Education.

This week they are staying in Milton, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Waters. Mr. McNell had a full program of activities lined up for them-when they arrived Sunday evening. They visited Kelso and Rattlesnake Parks on the escarpment the first day. and more sight-seeing isplanned

Let's Play Bridge

by bill coats

When one of any members of my recent bridge class makes a play that would do credit to an expert, I feel its worth writing bridge book by Reese but I had never seen it used until recently. The members of the class were replaying some hands from the regular duplicate game at the Acton Bridge Chib.

This deal came up. North - South vulnerable and West was the dealer.

> NORTH 5 - J 6 H-A743 D - 10 2 C-AKQ76

EAST WEST S-AKQ73 8-1082 H - K 10 6 H - QJ952 D-A4 D-986

C-958 C - J 10 BOUTH 8-954 H - 8 D-KQJ753 C-843

The bidding: WEST NORTH EAST SOUTH DBLE 2 D Pass Pass Pass

Opening - ten of spades. East won the opening lead with the queen of mades. What would you do in East's position?

Here is the problem. You want to stop South from ruffing the third made in dummy. Hence you would like to draw dummy's trump. If you draw dummy's trump, however, you give the timing to declarer who can now draw all the trump and run dummy's chibs. How can you accomplish what you want without giving up control. This is where East made the experts play. The four of diamonds was led and declarer could not excape. If declarer tried to run chibs, West could ruff. If declarer led a spade, East would win and take out trump and finally if declarer continued trump, East could win and take two made tricks.

When the hand was played in regular competition at the Acton Bridge Chib no South made less than ten tricks. With the defense put up by East as described above, I had read about this play in a . declarer was held to nine tricks only. South made the contract but remember at duplicate, over-tricks are vital. Some day you may face a hand where the contract, not overtricks is at stake. Remember this low lead from the trump ace as a method of keeping control.

It could be useful. Last week's winners at the Acton Bridge Chibwere: first, Betty Ashley and Katherine Coats; second Duke Wilson and Dick Priest third, Tom McKeown and Bill Coats; fourth Gwen Jeffares and Kay Campbell.

Sally Ann will make appeal here

For the first time in several years the Salvation Army will conduct an appeal for funds in Acton and district. Major Fred Brightwell, Salvation Army officer from Guelph, is organizing the RedShield campaign for the month of May in Acton and district. Canvassers will likely start canvassing the town the week of May 13. Among the many services operated by the Army are children's homes, receiving homes, nursing homes, unmarried mothers' homes, alcoholic work, correctional services, homes for senior citizens, hostels for homeless and unemployed, employment bureaux, fresh air camps and, of course, family

Assistance offered is both immediate and practical but it is the absence of the coldness of impersonal charity that distingulshes The Salvation Army. The Army's belief in preserving the dignity of human beings springs from a deep religious faith. Anyone who appeals to the "Sally Ann" for help is accepted for himself, regardless of creed or color.

Monday morning they dropped in at the M. Z. Bennett public school in Acton, to see an overhead projector in use in a math class, a filmstrip projector in a grade one creative English class, a kindergarten rhythm band producing music, and an S.R.A. reading lab for the grade three level. During recess time they stopped for a cup of coffee with the teachers.

That afternoon took them. to Milton's Martin St. senior public school where they viewed spectal classes sich as home economics, indistrial; arts, oral. French, art and science class, rooms in action. In the afternoon they accompanied Mr. Mo-Neil to a district principal's meeting at W. L Dick school in Milion, and in the evening attended an in-service training meeting at Brookville school, Mrs. Jean Trott, B.A., of Forest Hill, a. language consiltant with O.L.S.E. was the guest speaker and spoke on the continuous progress plan the teachers are studying. Mr. McNell says, they will visit every day eyening. When they report to Ghana in the summer of 1969, the six men will form the micleus for anedication research unit at Accra. Six Canadian educators are there now launching the project, and it will be running efficiently when the Ghanians return to take it

To date, both men report they have enjoyed their work in Canada very much. They tried their hand at curling a few weeks ago and are looking forward to an evening of bowling with their hosts, the Waters. The staff and students at O.L.S.E. are quite friendly and have often invited the visitors to their homes.

And they are starting to like Canada so much, they wish they could stay here.

Veto U.S. conventions

United States were vetoed, during Halton County Council's April meeting

Conventions and expenses have been popular topics on the council agende for the past two years. The subject came up again in a committee report authorizing Warden W. F. Hunter, Georgetown, and Reeve H. H. Hinton, Acton to attend the North American Counties Association convention in Washington in August, and one giving County Assessor Robert Beach permission to attend the international Assessing Officers convention in St. Louis, Missouri in October.

Both conventions were delated from the approval list. At the same meeting, a resolution gave every member of council permission to attend the annual Ontario Municipal-Association convention in Windsor, next August. Several councillors suggested these conventions were cuitade the country, and would be of little use to Halton County.

Speaking in favor of Mr. Beach attending the Missouri convention, Reeve Hinton said it was foolish to get "narrow minded" over a few dollars here and there. Deputy-Reeve Mrs. E. Burke, Burlington, replied it was the "few dollars" here and there that keep putting the mill rate up. She said she could not see any connection between American and Canadian assessment practices, A better idea came from Bur-

Hington Reeve G. Gallagher, He felt the province should delegate officials to the American conventions so the benefits of what they learn could be spread through the province. Burlington was sending a delegate to the assessors' convention, reminded Reeve Hinton, and if it was good enough for Burlington it should be good enough were knocked all the list. There was no comment on the Child Welfare League of America conference to which, according to committee reports, the Children's Aid Society had delegated two staff members and two board members. This convention was held in Detroit - tust across the border from Windsor - earlies in April.
