

Muffler Neglect, Dangerous

One of the most common forms of suicide is the inhaling of car exhaust fumes in a closed garage. A very effective killer, one saucy of pure carbon monoxide is enough to put its victim to sleep forever. A great deal less than that in a closed car will bring about headache, nausea and drowsiness; reason enough to keep the exhaust system good and tight.

How do you know if your car is exhaust-safe?

You can't tell much from sniffing because carbon monoxide is odorless.

There's no mistaking the sound of a blown muffler or leaking exhaust pipe, of course. First a rattle and then a roar.

So badly deteriorated that it fell pieces a danger to its former owner. A defective muffler can leak fatal carbon monoxide into the passenger compartment.

ROTATE TIRES

Tires should be rotated and run in different wheel positions in accordance with car manufacturer's recommendations, or every 5,000 miles, to equalize wear and thereby increase mileage, handling and riding comfort. Also, says the Rubber Manufacturers Association, re-check inflation after rotation to get proper front and rear pressure relationship.
