SMASHING THE STRONG.

During an Old Home Week celebration in a small town in New Hampshire there was present a learned judge from a Western city, a professor from Boston and a local doctor.

An amusing story is told of Robert Simons, who was professor of mathematics at the University at Glasgow, and his eccentric life in some way as he was brilliant in others.

"I beg your pardon professor," he said at which the mathematician halted, murmuring, "578."

"What is happy—578?"

"Oh, no, nearly one question."

"You are too kind, but knowing your acquaintance with the late Doctor B., I venture to ask whether I am right in saying that he left 500 pounds to each of his wives."

"Exactly—573."

"The man started at the professor, and then murmured, '573'?"

"No, 50," cried the professor, taking the man's hand.

"I want to know why February has only twenty-eight days, and in leap-year twenty-nine? Well, the reason is rather a fancy one."

EXCURSION.

Travellers received by the Maltese of Morocco were at one time required to make the customary ablutions of the country.

A distinguished naturalist had been presented to the Sultan, and he had been taken to the ground, instead of being taken to the Sultan's palace.
