LIFE IN GREENLAND.

...The west coast is considered the grandest scenery of any coast in the world by Roger Pollock, who writes of a journey thither as follows: "The sunny arctic day, which lasts for months; a sky all flaming glory, the fretted spires of the Alps flanked with stupendous cliffs and tinged on the restful layers of the soft cirri of evening; large, compound, of dazzling light and radiant color, such scenery as the Lord only ever painted. The first port of call was Sukkertoppen, a little island in Disco Straits, dotted with the earthen villages of a metropolis of nine white people and 400 natives. There is a pocket harbor perched on rough shoulders of the naked granite, grotesque lighthouse, all tarred black, of the Royal Trade company, for a background to the dismal scene, rise higher rocks, littered with garbage and fore sale, for houses of the natives. All day the plaza is busy, for our schooner is out about every night to dance with the Eskimo girls, while the officers of ship and colony swapped dinner parties, breakfasts and lunches, some all through a nine days' festival. Men and women alike, the writer certifies, are brave, linguists, well read, accomplished, a little too polite for comfort, bring a cosmopolitan life on one hatch of lettuce a year to an arctic outpost. Expecting the pains of banishment, I found life merely of perfect content. The Danes of all the settlements were alike in social charm, gentle and polished—errant gossips, too—and the indoor life had little to remind one of the outdoor wilderness. The Inuit servant maids wore the furry breeches, boots to the hip and curious topknot of their national dress. One had to fall promiscuously in love with all of them.

"Even the Danish men wore native dress; but there was one important distinction—they washed. The food, apart from Danish groceries, was seal meat, fish, reindeer, venison, sheldrake, ptarmigan, sea birds and their eggs, which, as served in Greenland, are always pronounced delicious in flavor."

THREW UP HIS HAT.

The Story of Cockrell's Election to the United States Senate.

The truthful story is told in Missouri that the throwing of a broad-brimmed hat to the ceiling of the hall of the house of representatives in the capitol at Jefferson City made Francis Marion Cockrell a member of the United States senate. The state had been stirred by a contest for the Democratic nomination for the governorship. The lines between supporters of opposing candidates were sharply drawn. In a state convention numbering a thousand delegates Charles H. Hardin had won by the narrow majority of one-half of one vote. So close was the result and so bitter the feeling that the Democratic leaders feared irreconcilable division in the party ranks. The result, however, had scarcely been announced from the secretary's desk when the tall figure of the defeated candidate, General Cockrell, was seen coming to the platform. A moment more, as the hush of expectancy fell upon the crowded hall, Cockrell's voice rang out. "No man," said he, "will more loyally support the nominee of the convention than myself. No man will throw his hat higher for Charley Hardin than will I." And away to the ceiling went the broad-brimmed Cockrell hat. The convention, frantic with enthusiasm, heard not another word. But the following spring General Cockrell became United States senator by the unanimous vote of the Democrats of Missouri. For five successive terms after March 4, 1875, with never a Democratic vote against him, he was elected to the senatorship, the first political office he ever held. No senator from his state surpassed his record in length of years, and none equaled it save Thomas Hart Benton, the great Missourian.—Walter Williams in The World Today.

Stockbrokers and Juries.

A prominent New York stockbroker says: "The newspapers do not get wind of even a small fraction of the suits brought against brokers because of misunderstandings between us and our customers. Ninety-nine customers out of every hundred think we rob them when they lose their money in the market and give us no credit when they win. We do our hardest to settle all suits out of court, for there is not a jury on earth that will find a verdict for a stockbroker. Why? Simply because every juror has been scorched now and then in the market and holds a grudge against all brokers."

CARE OF THE NOSE.

This Feature Needs Special Attention and Daily Treatment.

In massaging the face the nose needs special attention. It must be kept free from blackheads, and the nostrils must not be allowed to become too wide. Use the rotary massage movement daily about the lower part of the nose after first applying cold cream. This will tend to reduce the thick cartilage. Never use a downward movement in massaging the nose. Always rub up. To make a red nose white massage vigorously along the leading nerve of the nose at each side. Use the tip of the finger, start at the bottom and rub up the nose on either side and then under the eyebrows. Following the nerve in this way is sure to relieve congested circulation, which is often the secret of that unpleasant redness which comes to the nose. If the nose is extremely red, in addition to treating the nerve ... the temples and cheeks, using a brisk movement. This we do in order to ... blood away from the nose. In treating the nose be careful never to touch it with water. Instead bathe it night and morning with cold cream.

...Witness' Retort.

...Curran once so far forgot himself as to tell a witness whose evidence he wished to discredit that there was "a roundelism reflected in his face. "I was never before aware that my face made such a good mirror," retorted the other. The answer was all the more pointed from the fact that Curran, despite his unrivaled forensic qualities, had a somewhat evil visage.

Tumors Conquered Without Operations

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in Cases of Mrs. Fox and Miss Adams.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

Should a tumor begin to grow, symptoms come from its early stages of the presence of danger may be made manifest by excessive menstruation, accompanied by unusual pain extending from the ovaries down the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, dizziness, faintness, bearing-down feelings, ulceration or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation; secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound right away and begin its use and write Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., for advice.

Read these strong letters from grateful women who have been cured:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (First Letter.)

"In looking over your book I see that your medicine cures Tumor of the Uterus. I have been a sufferer and he tells me I have a tumor. I will be more than grateful if you can help me, as I have dread an operation."—Fannie D. Fox, 7 Chestnut St., Bradford, Pa.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (Second Letter.)

"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine.

"If three months ago my doctor had stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician, and was told that I had a tumor on the uterus and would have to undergo an operation.

"I soon after read one of your circulars and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After taking five bottles as directed, the tumor is entirely gone. I have again been examined by the physician and he says I have no sign of a tumor now. It has also brought my mother around also and I am entirely well. I shall never be without a bottle of Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the house."—Luella D. Fox, Bradford, Pa.

Another Case of Tumor Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"About three years ago I had intense pain in my stomach, with cramps and raging headaches. The doctor prescribed for me, but finding that I did not get any better, examined me and, to my surprise, declared I had a tumor in the uterus.

"I felt sure that it meant my death warrant, and was very dissatisfied. I spent hundreds of dollars in doctoring, but the tumor kept growing, till the doctor said that nothing but an operation would save me. Fortunately I corresponded with my aunt in the New England States, who advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before submitting to an operation, and I at once started taking a regular treatment, finding to my great relief that my general health began to improve, and after three months I noticed that the tumor had reduced in size. I kept on taking the Compound, and in ten months it had entirely disappeared without an operation, and using no medicine but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and would fail to express how grateful I am for the good it has done me."—Miss Luella Adams, Colonnade Hotel, Seattle, Wash.

Such unquestionable testimony proves the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and should give confidence and hope to every sick woman.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all ailing women to write to her at Lynn, Mass., for advice.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a Woman's Remedy for Women's Ills.

Liberty Halls.

"This is Liberty hall, and you may smoke in the garden," is a maxim which has become typical of one sort of hospitality.—Another version has just been perpetrated by a member of the early rising fraternity.

"I wish," said the host, "every one to do as he likes in my house."

It sounded very friendly, but on going to his bedroom the guest found a little card stating the times of meals, "Breakfast at 7:30," and in an N. B. was added, "It will be cleared away at 8:30."

The Golden Means.

The motto of the Greeks was "Nothing too much."

An excess of courage is brutality.

An excess of economy is penuriousness.

An excess of taste is preciosity.

An excess of gentleness is timidity.

An excess of confidence is egotism.

Who will show us where to draw the line?—Ernest N. Lyon in Everybody's Magazine.

A Happy Pair.

Sylla—How is it that you and your husband agree so well? Mrs. Ray—Well, you see, he has given up his club. Sylla—And you? Mrs. Ray—I have given up amateur cookery. With those two destroyers of domestic felicity gone, why should we not be happy?

His Traits.

"If it were customary in this country to confer titles upon men who go in for literature, what should I be?" asked a conceited journalist of his editor.

"Baron of Ideas," was the terse reply.
